Blacks Barely Escape a New Tannenberg In D. C. Drive

Tanks, Rough Terrain Save Invaders From Coups of Hannibal And Von Hindenberg

By John G. Norris,
A Staff Correspondent.

Manassas, Va., Aug. 15.—The Blue army drove the Black invaders 2 miles back toward the sea today and nearly carried out an involved military coup completed only twice in history.

Driving through the heat and heavy dust, the Twenty-eighth and Twenty-ninth National Guard divisions attempted a double envelooping movement which came close to surrounding the regulars. It was the maneuver successfully performed by Von Hindenburg against the Russians at Tannenberg and by Hannibal against the Roman Legions at Cannae, two of the world's most decisive battles.

Only the highly mobile and hard-hitting tanks of the Black streamlined division balked the move. At crucial moments, Brig Gen. Maxwell Murray sent the chattering 10-ton vehicles against enemy concentrations and managed to stop the enemy short of its objective.

Maj. Stonewall Jackson, namesake of the Confederate leader who made history down here in '61, voiced his admiration for the Blue Army after today's maneuver. Maj. Jackson, Georgetown University's ROTC officer and intelligence officer of the Black Army, said:

"The Guard deserves high praise. The maneuver was well carried out and came close to being successful."

Marylanders in Spearhead

The Black army fought a defensive war today, dropping back before the Blues' mass attack. Outnumbered 3 to 1 by the guardsmen, the regulars stubbornly contested every foot of the way as they retreated from Cedar Run and Occoquan Creek toward their base at Fort Belvoir on the Potomac.

Contrasting with yesterday's spectacular use of cavalry and tanks in offensive thrusts into Blue territory, the mobile units were employed solely to harass and delay the enemy. Their efforts, combined with the burning heat and difficult terrain, stopped the guardsmen from applying the pincers of their double flanking attack.

The battle opened about 7:30 a. m., beneath gray skies and with a heavy mist hugging the rolling Virginia hills. Both the Blue and Black air forces were grounded at their bases. By midmorning, however, the sun was hot and the back roads and fields were deep in heavy red dust. Planes were in the air by 10 o'clock.

Brig. Gen. Amos W. W. Woodcock's Maryland Brigade was the spearhead for the Blue attack. County troops of the First Maryland Infantry were the first across Cedar Run in the morning. They crossed on a pontoon bridge thrown in the night by the District's 121st Engineers, and deployed to the left of the Brantsville road.

Fort Myer Troops Hold Flank

Next came the Baltimore boys of the Fifth Infantry, and advanced along a mile front to the right of the road. The regulars dropped back slowly, contesting every high ground and throwing up smoke screens to cover each retreat.

Greatly to the advantage of the latter was the topography. Cedar Run and Occoquan Creek form a bottle neck at this point, and make a flank attack impossible. A direct assault was all that was possible, and the Guardsmen kept on driving until the Blacks were driven into more open territory.

Col. George S. Patton's Third Cavalry from Fort Myer held the right flank of the Blacks and managed to keep the Blue Twenty-eighth Division from crossing the Occoquan until nearly noon. Troop F, of the Tenth Cavalry, also from Fort Myer, and the tanks from Fort Meade supported him.

All morning the dismounted cavalrymen kept a rain of machine-gun fire on Blands Ford and Springs Ford, the only available

300 Reported Dead As Ship Hits Mine

London (Wednesday), Aug. 16 (U.P.).—A Hongkong dispatch to the Daily Herald today reported that 300 Japanese soldiers were believed to have lost their lives when a transport ship carrying reinforcements to Canton from Formosa struck a mine near Wangmoon.

After sinking of the transport those who did not drown suffered heavy casualties as they reached shore from the gunfire of concealed Chinese guerillas, it was reported.

Thanksgiving Shift Ruffles 11 Governors

'Calendar Tampering' By Roosevelt Stirs Traditionalists

America yesterday was a Nation divided against itself on the question of what day it should offer thanks, go to the football classics, and wade into the turkey.

It looked as if there would be two Thanksgiving Days in 1939, the Roosevelt Thanksgiving and the traditional one.

In the angry controversy that followed President Roosevelt's announcement that he was moving up Thanksgiving a week, from November 30 to November 23, 11 State Governors made it clear that they would refuse to abide by his "tampering with the calendar." To refuse is certainly their privilege, as the State Department explained that the President's proclamation would be binding only in the District of Columbia and the Territories.

The President again failed to carry Maine and Vermont.

"Maine will stay just where it is," said Gov. Lewis O. Barrows (Republican). "And I guess the rest of New England will refuse to be regimented on its holidays. I could only have been more surprised had the President changed Thanksgiving Day to his own birthday."

LEE O'DANIEL
Will Decree Two Thanksgiving Days, One for the President, the Other for the Traditionalists

Senator Styles Bridges (Republican), of Vermont, said the President's action was a complete surprise "because there had been no

Tennessee Concern 'Forced' to Sell, Willkie Charges

By the Associated Press

New York, Aug. 15.—Governmental authorities today paid $78,425,095 for electric power properties in Tennessee in the greatest transfer of utilities from private to public ownership in the history of the United States.

The money payment, in a three-hour ceremony participated in by more than 200 representatives of the Federal Government, municipalities, co-operative power companies, banks and private utilities, made Tennessee the first "public power" State in the Nation.

The properties purchased were those of the Tennessee Electric Power Co., a subsidiary of Commonwealth & Southern Corporation.

Forced Sale Charged

Wendell L. Willkie, president of Commonwealth, immediately commented: "This transaction has demonstrated that no business, however well run, can endure against the competition of the Federal Government." He declared his company had been "forced" to sell because it could not compete with "subsidized Government competition."

David E. Lilienthal, director of the Tennessee Valley Authority, which contributed $44,728,300 to the purchase funds, asserted: "TVA has kept faith with the investors . . . has kept its word to consumers . . . has made good on its assurances to Congress and the Federal taxpayers that the project is self-liquidating."

The purchase of the properties ended five years of political, economic and propaganda battling between proponents of public and private ownership in the Valley of the Tennessee River.

Willkie Takes Issue

The ceremony ran smoothly except for a brief flareup between Willkie and Gov. Cooper of Tennessee, who had commented: "The people of Tennessee will be relieved from what we have regarded as excessive electric charges amounting to $7,000,000 or $8,000,000 annually."

Willkie at once took issue with the Governor, pointing out that under public ownership the $15,000,000 which electricity consumers annu-

Metal-Throated Woman to Die if Doctor Isn't Found

District police last night were asked to help Williamsport (Pa.) authorities in an investigation which must be successful to save the life of a 30-year-old amnesia victim.

The woman, who is confined at the City Hospital in Williamsport, is believed to be a Washingtonian according to word received by police. "She has metal tube in her throat, and unless doctor who performed operation can be found, she will die," said the brief message.

Effort to locate the physician, if he is in the city, were under way last night. Police radio broadcast the message to Maryland and Virginia, and a checkup was made at all hospitals and doctors' offices.

Labor Peace Again Asked By Roosevelt

Message to A. F. L. Also Urges Adoption of Annual Wage Policy

By the Associated Press

New York, Aug. 15.—President Roosevelt, who brought the leadership of the A. F. L. and C. I. O. together last winter in a series of unsuccessful conferences intended to make peace between them, appealed again today for a settlement of their differences, along with a suggestion for an annual wage scale policy.

". . . I venture to express the hope," Mr. Roosevelt said in a message to the seventy-sixth annual convention of the New York State Federation of Labor (A. F. L.), "that the convention will leave open every possible door of access to peace and progress in the affairs of organized labor in the United States.

"If leaders of organized labor can make and keep the peace between various opinions and factions within the labor group itself, it will vastly increase the prestige of labor with the country and prevent the reaction which otherwise is bound to injure the workers themselves."

In another passage, the President remarked:

"I hope you will give attention to the matter which I am always concerned about, namely, finding ways for steady employment of labor and increasing the annual purchasing power.

Green Denounces Lewis

"It is what a worker earns for himself and his family in the course of a year which is important, not only for his own economic plan for his life, but for the economic life of the Nation. In many sections and in many occupations which fall under the general classification of labor, there are millions of Americans who suffer from inadequate pay or overlong hours or both."

In a speech to the convention, William Green, A. F. L. president, repeatedly denounced John L. Lewis, not referring to him by name, but identifying him as "the ruler of the C. I. O."

He accused Lewis of holding "an all-consuming ambition," and of having vetoed a settlement projected at the meetings last winter.

"It is significant," said Green, "that we read in the papers of Soviet Russia of proposals made by the ruler of the C. I. O. before they were circulated in America."

Tighe Sees Third Union

Pittsburgh, Aug. 15 (AP).—M. F. (Mike) Tighe, retired veteran labor leader, deplored today the struggle between the C. I. O. and A. F. L. and asserted that unless the two unions "get together," rank and file laborers may eventually form a third union.

The occasion was the sixtieth wedding anniversary for Tighe, who served 18 years as head of the powerful Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Plate Workers, first under the A. F. L. and later the C. I. O.

A.F.L. Asks Actors Lift Tucker Ban

Stage Union Ordered To Sever Relations Clearing Way for Reinstatement

Special Dispatch to The Post

Atlantic City, Aug. 15.—The American Federation of Labor's executive council handed down a compromise decision tonight on the dispute in the entertainment field which, at first glance, each side took as a victory. On second glance the warriors decided to keep their powder dry while waiting to see how the compromise works out.

The council ruled that Sophie Tucker's American Federation of Actors had been too cruelly punished when the Associated Actors and Artistes of America turned it out into the cold.

The executive council called on the A. A. A. A. to reinstate the union and ordered the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employes, which had adopted the orphaned body, to withdraw the charter it gave the A. F. A.

Further Study Planned

Although they won, in principle, the three things they demanded, the committee of actors, movie and stage, representing the A. A. A. A., were not so sure they would win in practice so they decided quickly tonight not to recommend either acceptance or rejection of the decision until their full council has had a meeting in New York. This they hoped to hold tomorrow afternoon at their headquarters there.

What irritated the actors most of all in the decision and the schoolteacher-like recommendations of the old-line labor leaders was that they left the way open for Ralph Whitehead, A. F. A. secretary, to get back into the actors' picture.

Whitehead's method of handling A. F. A. funds was largely responsible for the expulsion of that organization from the A. A. A. A.

Kenneth Thomson, executive secretary of the Screen Actors Guild, and Frank Gillmore, head of the A. A. A. A., which embraces 11 unions in the entertainment field, said tonight their organization would absolutely refuse to consent to be in any organization in which Whitehead was an officer.

Whitehead Elated

The A. F. of L.'s decision, however, recommended that Whitehead bring his organization back into the A. A. A. A. and left it open for him to seek office again. He said he was "elated" with the decision and indicated that he would run for office again. So did Sophie Tucker, president of the A. F. A., who was expelled from the A. A. A. A. as a "traitor."

William Green, president of the A. F. of L., after announcing the decision, met Miss Tucker and Whitehead, greeted them effusively and said, "All suspensions are off."

Morgan Hails Victory

WPA Raises Average Pay To $55.50

Southern and Rural Areas Benefit at Expense of Certain Northern Workers

By the United Press.

The Works Projects Administration last night altered the wage scale of 2,200,000 WPA workers throughout the country, bringing increases as high as 30 per cent in Southern and rural districts and lowering rates for certain workers in Northern States.

The new scale was drafted in accordance with provisions of the $1,477,000,000 WPA appropriation for the 1940 fiscal year, which began July 1. It was estimated the rates will raise the national average monthly wage from $53 to $55.50.

Southern Wages Increased

Congress ordered that WPA wages should not vary in the various geographic regions any more than justified by the difference in the cost of living. It also required that there be no "substantial change" in the national average WPA wage.

As an example of the changes effected by the new schedule, rural wages in Southern States will be increased from $26 to $35 a month. In this area, in cities over 100,000, the wage will jump from $40 to $50.70 a month.

In Northern and Western cities of 100,000 population or over, monthly wages for unskilled laborers will be $57.20, as contrasted to $55 to $65.

Five Classifications Listed

The new adjustment prescribes a change in the WPA regional setup with relation to wages. Region 1, which previously included all Northern and Western States, now eliminates the Western group. It includes the District of Columbia and Maryland, North Atlantic States, the Midwest and industrial Northern States. Virginia is in Region 3, which includes all Southern States and Texas.

The schedule divids WPA workers into the following five classifications and bases wage according to the class of work: professional and technical, skilled, intermediate, unskilled "A," and unskilled "B."

The wages also vary according to four types of counties:

Those with no town more than 5,000 population; those with the largest town between 5,000 and 25,000; those in which the largest town is between 25,000 and 100,000; those where the largest city has more than 100,000 population.

Comparisons in Key Cities

The order, issued by Commissioner F. C. Harrington, provides that persons in the "metropolitan districts" of cities more than 100,000 shall receive the same wage as those in the city proper. He named specifically Baltimore and Washington in the group of larger cities. [Editor's note—This means those in nearby Virginia and Maryland will receive the same rate of pay as if in Washington.]

Here is a comparison of the old and new wage rates for key cities throughout the country (the old rate is listed above the new, and the rate shown for unskilled work-

Mollie the Penguin Dies at Zoo After 3 Chicks Fail to Live

Mother's Persistence Ends With Failure to Rear Her Offspring

Mollie, the distaff side of the Zoo's famous jackass penguin couple, Mollie and Moe, died yesterday, possibly the victim of her own undiscourageable efforts to rear a family.

Mollie succumbed a month almost to the day after the death of her baby, the youngest of three which she brought into the world—only to see them die one by one.

Let the experts argue whether Mollie died of a broken heart because she lost her baby last month but of one thing there can be no doubt:

Mollie was not a quitter.

A year ago last spring she laid two eggs, believed to be the first penguin clutch in any American Zoo. After 40 days of patient sitting, with Moe gallantly taking the night shift, the first egg yielded an heir. A few days later the other one followed suit.

But the penguin parents' joy was brief. Less than a week later the elder chick was dead. A few days more and both were gone.

Yet Mollie and Moe did not give up. Before the coming of summer another egg was laid. It proved infertile. Again last fall they built a nest and soon there was another clutch. Infertile.

Then last May it happened still once more. One egg; then in a few more days, two. After the customary 40-day period of sitting, Mollie became a mother again.

MOLLIE
"Nothing to Live For"

Though one egg was infertile, the other produced a fine, bouncing penguinette that had Zoo Director William M. Mann handing out cigars.

Then it, too, died.

Mollie, the girl who'd never say die, will not go unhonored in death. She probably will go to the Smithsonian Institution, not merely for dissection, but to be mounted and exhibited as the jackass penguin who refused to give up the ship.

Glen Echo Woman Will Rule in Own Right, Succeeding Postal Official Who Quit Under Hatch Measure

Mayor Beulah H. McCuen, of Glen Echo, left her dinner dishes last night, and her husband, Henry T. McCuen, mayor of the town for 16 years until his resignation Monday, came in from his flower garden to talk over the effects of the Hatch bill on the governments of small towns in the vicinity of the District.

Henry McCuen resigned the mayorship of the small Maryland town to retain his Government position as superintendent of Friendship postoffice because of the provision of the Hatch bill forbidding Government employes to hold local office. The town council appointed his wife to fill out his term which expires in May, 1940.

The former mayor stretched out on the living room sofa of his small home on Harvard avenue and thoughtfully stroked the head of his dog, "Sammy."

"I'd say that the general principle of the Hatch bill is sound," he said, "but there should be some amendment to it allowing Government employes in Washington to hold offices in communities in Virginia and Maryland where they live."

"The interest of these people, like my own, is in community spirit and

5 Cow Bank Messengers, Take $70,000

Machine Gun Bandits Escape Trap Set 6 Years For Such a Robbery

By the Associated Press

Long Beach, N. Y., Aug. 15.—Under the menacing snouts of two machine guns, two bank messengers were robbed of $70,000 in a swiftly-executed holdup today by five bandits, who then escaped despite an elaborate plan of apprehension ready for six years for just such an event.

From the main street of this town the bandits presumably sped across one of the three bridges connecting the island with the Long Island mainland—and disappeared.

By land, sea and air, police, directed by wireless, pressed their search unavailingly, carrying out a plan of operation similar to that of the Army's famous "M" day preparations.

Within seconds of the robbery, radio cars, the top of each bearing a large numeral, sped to prearpointed positions; Nassau County patrol boats and the Coast Guard moved to block escape by sea and an airplane droned overhead directing the search to suspected points.

FBI Men Join Search

FBI agents also entered the search.

Not a shot was fired in the holdup. As Harry Meyer, 38, and Edwin Podsen, 30, mesengers for the National City Bank of Long Beach, approached the postoffice, they stepped around a truck stalled at right angles to the curb, its tires punctured. With them was patrolman James Logouri, 58.

As the three walked around the truck, which was loaded with steel girders and partly blocked the street within a few steps of the postoffice, three men stepped from a sedan. One thrust a submachine gun into Logouri's side and took his service revolver. Two ripped the canvas bags containing the currency from the hands of Meyer and Podsen.

From the back of the sedan a fourth man menaced the group with a second machine gun. A fifth drove the car away.

Gunmen Routed

Middleburg, Ky., Aug. 15 (AP).—Two well-dressed robbers and the cashier and bookkeeper of the Farmers' Deposit Bank fought a gun battle in the bank today but none was injured and the holdup men got away with less than $500.

With a third man who had waited outside, the bandits headed South toward Somerset in an automobile.

"While they reached through the cashier's window to the cash drawer and left us uncovered a moment, we made a dive for the vault and grabbed our pistols," said Cashier R. B. Young.

"We came out of the vault shooting and the men shot back, but no one was wounded."

Open Alaska To Exiles, Asks U. S. Report

Declares Development Is Desirable for National Defense

A bold appeal to open Alaska to colonization by American citizens and "also artisans now fleeing Europe" was made in a report on Alaska resources and development today by Secretary of Interior Ickes.

Pointing out that development of Alaska is desirable for defense, employment and production factors, Ickes said prospects were particularly favorable now "because of the possibility of transplanting to Alaska . . . industries which were developed in Europe but which have been broken up or diverted by current waves of intolerance."

The voluminous, heavily footnoted report, prepared under the direction of Assistant Secretary Harry Slattery, suggested that Government-chartered, limited dividend corporations be used to facilitate colonization and establishment of new industries, and made a broad hint that present quota restrictions for Alaska-bound immigrants be liberalized.

Application of present immigration laws "to an underpopulated territory whose future well-being depends on new immigration and new capital is extremely questionable from the standpoint of national policy," the report read.

Ickes said: "My trip to Alaska last summer convinced me that the development of Alaska can be as proportionately important to our present economy as the building of the West in the nineteenth century. . . . It is a matter for serious national concern that Alaska, with a territory, climate and resources equal to all Scandinavia, now has a static population of about 60,000, as compared with a population of 13,000,000 in Scandinavia."

Asylum Inmate Slain by Sister As Act of Mercy

Allentown, Pa., Aug. 15 (AP).—Mrs. Louella Saeger, a 67-year-old patient at the Allentown State Hospital, was shot and killed today in what police described as a "mercy slaying" by her 77-year-old spinster sister.

Detective James L. Christine said the sister, Miss Margaret L. Cowan, told him:

"I feel happier now than I have all my life. I have put my sister out of her misery."

The dead woman's husband, John S. Saeger, said Miss Cowan at one time served as nurse in the homes of George Westinghouse, electrical apparatus manufacturer, and Charles M. Schwab, steel magnate. She retired 20 years ago.

Assistant District Attorney Edwin K. Kline, sr., said Miss Cowan would be charged with murder, probably tomorrow.

NazisDemand Danzig for Reich by September 2

'Bloodless Victory' Predicted; Silesian Frontier Is Closed; Showdown Indicated

Special Cable to The Post

Berlin, Aug. 15.—Fuehrer Hitler was understood tonight to have set September 2 as the deadline for a "German solution" of the dangerous Danzig dispute—which would mean complete Anschluss of the Free City with the Third Reich.

This belief, first expressed by informed Nazis here, was given added strength by reports in London that Carl J. Burckhardt League of Nations commissioner for Danzig who interviewed Hitler Friday night, had informed the British government the Fuehrer had declared he wanted Danzig returned to the Reich before the Nazi Party Congress at Nuremberg, which opens September

"War" Date Passed

Meanwhile, although Europe passed without war the date which many forecasters had set for "The Next Crisis" there were these indications of a forthcoming showdown:

Rumors of "peace plans" continued to circulate, along with hints of mysterious messages among the Continent's capitals.

The German controlled press intensified demands for "speedy" settlement of the Danzig issue, combined with warnings to England, France and Poland to be reasonable "before it is too late."

Propaganda Minister Goebbels, who is usually assigned to read important proclamations over the radio, returned hurriedly and unexpectedly from Italy.

The Polish-German border was closed to the Silesia region, though whether by Poles or Germans was uncertain. A Warsaw report was that Poland had taken the action to prevent escape of members of the "Young German Party" and said several hundred had been arrested. Nazis asserted the closure was to curb Polish army desertions. The Polish official news agency, however, blamed the closure on German efforts to cloak troop movements in the frontier region.

Concentration of German troops along the eastern border continued, and it was rumored soldiers were being given booklets instructing them in Polish phrases.

Official Polish circles denied all knowledge of rumored peace plans, and disavowed any connection with Burckhardt's visit to Hitler.

The League of Nations was reported prepared to abandon its "protection" of Danzig, if Poland would approve—a report which Warsaw promptly labeled "Nazi propaganda."

A military writer for Reuters, British News Agency, estimated Europe's men under arms, exclusive of naval and air forces, at 8,500,000. He concluded there appeared to be a "fairly even balance" between the land forces of the Rome-Berlin axis and the British-French front and associated powers, excluding Soviet Russia.

Geneva's belief that Germany was trying to make a "Lord Runciman" of Burckhardt epitomized the growing parallel with the days preceding the Munich crisis of last year. Runciman was the British mediator who spent some weeks in Czecho-Slovakia preceding the September crisis.

Burckhardt Report Studied

But while Burckhardt, after seeing Nazi leaders in Danzig (just as Runciman consulted Sudeten German leaders a year ago), said merely that "I have had, in Germany, a short conversation about internal Danzig questions," his visit to Hitler held the attention of the chancelleries.

Burckhardt's confidential report to British Foreign Secretary Lord Halifax, chairman of the League's

A FEW U. S. CHORES

If you're curious about how some of the 970,000 on the U. S. pay rolls spend their time, here are a few examples:

Harlan Miller

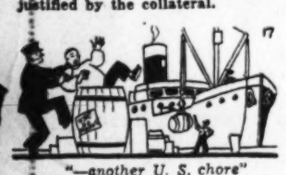
Near Denver one is telling CCC boys to put on clean socks daily . . . At New Haven another is counting the number of cars in a freight train . . . Not far from Sioux City, Iowa, another is looking at the south 40 to see if Farmer Smith planted too much corn.

• • • •

In Chicago a U. S. auditor is looking at a politician's canceled checks . . . Not far from Albuquerque a gent from the Interior Dept. urges Indians to weave more big straw baskets . . In the bay off Annapolis an instructor is teaching middies how to fly a seaplane, weaving gingerly among the sailboats.

• • • •

In an Oakland warehouse inspectors are seizing some dubious crab meat from Japan . . . In Cleveland a Social Security chap is trying to figure out whether Elmer Schulz is 65 and soon entitled to a pension, or only 62, based on the age he gave when he married Hilda . . . Up in Maine a pillar of Government is asking a banker (whose deposits are guaranteed) whether his $3,000 loan to his father-in-law is justified by the collateral.



"—another U. S. chore"

Not far from Houston an immigration inspector is peering into a barrel to see if a Chinaman is hiding there . . . Near Jackson, Miss., a public health researcher is trying to persuade a girl to submit to a test for syphilis . . . In Youngstown a U. S. doctor is examining a war vet to see if his lame knee is due to his war service in Arkansas.

• • • •

On the pier at New York a customs expert is scrutinizing the American label on a fur coat suspected of French origin. In St. Louis a Government scientist is weighing the water from a can of tomatoes. A girl in Washington is sending a block of four stamps to a young collector in Portland, Oreg. Another is mailing a $7 check to a boy working his way through college.

• • • •

One of Thurman Arnold's trustbusters is asking a corporation if it's holding out any new inventions from the public . . . At West Point an officer (but not one of the 970,000) is looking under a cadet's mattress . . . An attache at an American consulate abroad is trying to find out why an American tourist was pushed off the sidewalk.

"—Uncle Sam counts seals, box cars"

In Alaskan waters a U. S. man is counting the seals on a small, rocky island . . . Not far from Detroit an Aeronautics specialist is trying to find out why a plane crashed . . . A busy official in Boston is trying to explain to a girl why she can't have a $20 gold piece for a brooch . . .

In a war department office an expert is pondering the advisability of putting zippers on soldiers' pants . . . An FBI sleuth is teasing Joe Zilch to own up how much of a cut he's been paying Bo Zilch . . . In Pittsburgh, a federal nurse is wiping an unemployed man's baby's nose with some cotton on the end of a toothpick.

• • • •

An esthetic chap on the pay roll is deciding what pictures shall adorn the lobby of a new postoffice in Tennessee . . . A uniformed ranger is asking a tourist camper to turn off his radio in a national park . . . A weary bureaucrat is telling a Minneapolis girl that she can't take a civil service exam to become a spy . . .

These are only a few of the chores performed every hour by Uncle Sam's men and women; I could record hundreds of others as I walk through the big buildings in the Capital and talk with the men higher up.

Air Transport Co. To Extend Service

New York, Aug. 15 (AP).—Richard T. Crane, of the Crane plumbing family, announced today an air transport company which he heads soon will apply for approval of services covering 2,906 miles in 15 Eastern, Northern and Southern States.

The carrier, Airline Feeder System, Inc., would operate from New York's new North Beach Airport as the Northern terminus, and Jacksonville, Fla., as the Southern terminus. Flights would be run as far West as Cincinnati.

Oil Price War To Close Half Of U. S. Wells

Texas Launches Inquiry Into Alleged Antitrust Violation by Standard

Special Dispatch to The Post

Oklahoma City, Okla., Aug. 13.—The rebellion of Southwestern oil States against a cut in the price of crude petroleum crackled forward across a widening front today toward an immediate closing down of nearly 200,000 producing wells, approximately one-half the Nation's total and from which come about two-thirds the daily output.

Texas closed down her 87,000 wells at 7 a. m. today, starting signal in the campaign. Govs. Phillips of Oklahoma, Miles of New Mexico and Ratner of Kansas announced tonight their States' wells would be closed tomorrow. Louisiana and Arkansas anticipated similar action immediately, while Michigan, Illinois and Indiana authorities said they would sharply curtail production.

Coincidentally with this maneuver, direct retaliation for the slash in prices was begun in Texas State's Attorney General Mann announced an inquiry into possible violation by the Standard Oil Co., of New Jersey of the State's rigid anti-trust laws, which specifically prohibit the Standard from operating in Texas.

Texas Agents in D. C.

Mann revealed tonight his agents had gone to Washington to investigate alleged anti-trust law violations by oil companies operating in Texas. Jerry Sadler of the Texas Railroad Commission, asked Mann to determine if the Standard company and the Humble Oil & Refining Co. of Texas, were violating the State's anti-trust law.

What Sadler said was a reproduction of a 15-year contract between the companies for the purchase of oil was given Mann by Sadler. It bound Standard to buy Humble products.

Sadler termed a telegram from W. S. Faris, president of the Standard of New Jersey, saying that his company does not operate in Texas and attempted no control of Humble, as an "insult." He charged "Humble is a mere puppet and stooge for Standard."

Closing of the wells came out of the first emergency conference of the Interstate Oil Compact Commission, composed of the State officials of the producing areas who regulate production within their States.

Humble Followed Sinclair

The vengeance of Texas toward the Standard was inspired by the action of the Humble Oil Co., a reputed Standard subsidiary, in following the cut of 20 cents a barrel set by the Sinclair Refining Co.

Ernest O. Thompson, chairman of the compact commission and member of the Texas Railroad Commission, charged an Eastern "octopus of monopoly" was forcing disruptive prices in the midcontinent area.

Thompson said 77.44 per cent of the Nation's production was represented at today's conference table. California, producing only 17.42 per cent of the Nation's oil, was the only major producing State absent.

So the average motorist won't be worried, oil executives point out there are about 76,000,000 barrels of gasoline and some 250,000,000 barrels of crude in storage.

D.C. Heads to Study Hiring of Colored Glenn Dale Nurses

A list of 15 nurses, certified by the Civil Service Commission and recommended by Health Officer George C. Ruhland for employ at Glenn Dale Sanatorium, will be studied by the commissioners on Friday, Commissioner Hazen said yesterday.

He said "some, not all" were colored nurses.

"They must all pass the District physical examination before they can be hired," Hazen stated.

Hiring of nurses for the tuberculosis sanatoria has been the center of much discussion within the past few weeks between the nurses at present working at the institution and the commissioners. They have requested the District officials that they do not hire nurses from the list.

The Gallup Poll

Slight Majority in Wisconsin Prefers G. O. P. For 1940; Dewey Favorite Candidate

By Dr. George Gallup,
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion.

Princeton, N. J., Aug. 15.—Ten months after a political upheaval which unseated the La Follette State regime and installed a Republican Governor, public sentiment in the State of Wisconsin continues to lean slightly toward the Republican side, in national politics, judging by a special survey on political prospects for the 1940 campaign.

GEORGE GALLUP

The survey, conducted by the American Institute of Public Opinion, finds that a slight majority of Wisconsin voters would like to see the Republicans win the Presidential election in 1940. Although President Roosevelt swept the State in 1932 and 1936, Wisconsin voters, when asked "What party would you like to see win the Presidential election in 1940?" vote today as follows:

Would Like Republicans to Win	52%
Would Like Democrats to Win	48

The survey was not a measurement of the popularity of the Republican State administration in Wisconsin headed by Gov. Julius P. Heil. The results are merely an indication of sentiment toward the forthcoming Presidential campaign.

Thomas E. Dewey, of New York, is the leading choice for 1940 among Republican voters in Wisconsin, the survey finds, with Senator Arthur Vandenberg, of Michigan, runing a fairly close second, and Senator Robert A. Taft, of Ohio, third. The leading Republican choices are:

Dewey	37%
Vandenberg	24
Taft	16
Hoover	5
LaGuardia	4
Others	14

Included in the group labeled "others" are Senator William E. Borah, Alfred M. Landon, Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, of Massachusetts, and Senator H. Styles Bridges, of New Hampshire, who recently threw his hat in the Presidential ring.

Among Wisconsin Democrats, Vice President John N. Garner is the outstanding choice for 1940 in case Roosevelt does not seek re-election. Garner is far ahead of the nearest candidate, James A. Farley. The leading Democratic choices are:

Garner	67%
Farley	8
Wallace	6
McNutt	4
Murphy	4
Others	11

The West Central group of States, of which Wisconsin forms a part, is one of the sections most opposed to a third term for President Roosevelt, according to previous Institute surveys. In Wisconsin itself, today's survey finds that approximately one-third of the voters say they would vote for Roosevelt if he ran again, while two-thirds would oppose him.

Since taking office last November, the Republican administration of Gov. Heil, a prosperous Milwaukee businessman, has caused much debate and controversy throughout the State. To test Gov. Heil's popularity at the present time the Institute plans to conduct another special survey of Wisconsin.

U. S. Studies Way To Raise Prices Of Fats and Oils

By the Associated Press

The Department of Agriculture has three proposals in mind for improving the prices of fats and oils, Secretary Wallace said yesterday, but Government subsidizing of exports is not among them.

Under consideration are:

Diversion of some fats and oils from table use to the manufacture of soap; purchase of lard and other pork products for distribution to the needy; increasing exports by financing of "sound credit transactions" through the Export-Import Bank.

Wallace rejected the subsidy idea, urged by some members of Congress, after Agriculture Department economists informed him stocks of fats and oils were at an all-time high and prices the lowest in more than five years.

With a bumper corn crop indicated, production of pork and pork products is expected to increase, and Wallace said these commodities might be included in the stamp plan's surplus list this fall.

Coupland to Head Air Corps Section

By the Associated Press

Maj. Richard C. Coupland, Army expert on aircraft armament, has been put in charge of a new section created to facilitate expansion of the Air Corps.

Officials said yesterday that the officer, a Virginian, would co-ordinate procurement and development of machine guns and other weapons for the new planes to be put in service in the next few years.

Recent orders, effective August 21, directed his transfer from the office of the chief of ordnance to head of a new armament section in the Air Corps planning division.

House Committee To See Defenses In 17,000-Mile Trip

By the Associated Press

The House Military Affairs Committee will take a look at the Army's vastly expanded aviation facilities on a 17,000-mile air and water tour of inspection starting from Washington on September 20.

Committee attaches said yesterday Chairman May (Democrat), of Kentucky, had asked all 27 members of the committee to accompany him on the trip, to Hawaii and Panama as well as many military posts in the United States.

Ground and air establishments will be included in the wide swing, which will end here November 7.

Committeemen Reopen Dies Hearing Today

Fascist Propaganda, Communist Activities Slated for Exposure

By Robert C. Albright

Representative Martin Dies, of Texas, and the vanguard of his House committee on un-American activities, arrived in Washington yesterday, ready to "spread on the record" at hearings opening today sifted evidence of fascist activities in the United States.

From "fascist propaganda," Representative Dies told newsmen, the hearings will swing again to hearings on communistic activities. In the meantime, he will develop "a picture of foreign propaganda seeking to involve us in foreign wars."

"The United States is regarded as a rich prize for the next war," the Texan declared on his return. "One side desires to keep us neutral and the other desires our active participation. This activity is going to increase and intensify as the danger of war becomes more acute."

Two G. O. P. Members Back

Only three members of the seven-man committee had returned yesterday for the hearings. An informal meeting was held late yesterday attended by Dies and the two Republican members, Representatives Mason, of Illinois, and Thomas, of New Jersey. It was decided to make public no names of witnesses before they appear, Dies said a few witnesses "might be approached" before they testify was among the reasons.

"Our one desire is to get the facts to the American people, without fear, favor or partisanship," said Dies. "After that we can rely on sound public opinion.

"If fascist and communist groups would operate in the open, you could trust to the people. But they masquerade under false titles and false names and use of fine phrases. All this is intended to make them appear worthy in the eyes of the people. It is a cloak to hide a deeper design."

Information On Sabotage

Dies said the hearings would show efforts to "penetrate the country with foreign blocs, with a design to undermine it, as was done in Czecho-Slovakia and elsewhere. The only way you can meet that is by informing public opinion. And that we intend to do—give people facts."

The House committee chairman, whose investigation was extended by the House in the face of a storm of controversy, said the inquiry "is developing a lot of information on sabotage—different incidents set apart." He declined to elaborate.

"Based on my own research and what I have read, France and England want our active participation in event of war. The Rome-Berlin axis would like us to remain neutral. We will be flooded with propaganda to bring about either of those objectives."

Political Arena

Ridiculing reports House Majority Leader Sam Rayburn might be deposed because he indorsed Vice President Garner for the Presidency, Representative Cochran (Democrat), of Missouri, yesterday predicted there would be no split in the House leadership organization.

Rayburn

"The question of changing our Speaker and leader will not even be discussed when the Democrats meet in Congress next January," said Cochran. He said he spoke as a "so-called New Dealer" and as loyal to the President as any member of the House.

"Bankhead will continue as Speaker, Rayburn as leader, and Boland as whip, and no Democrat in our caucus will even suggest replacing them. When that caucus meets, every Democrat will rise in his seat and applaud Sam Rayburn, which will be their answer, at the outset of the session of their loyalty to him."

Cochran, a veteran member of the House, said it was "more or less imagination" that prompted news stories that Rayburn might be ousted.

Two Administration Democrats in their home cities voiced doubts of a third-term effort yesterday, but 40,000 Puerto Ricans, in a petition carrying Secretary of Interior Ickes' "Amen," urged President Roosevelt to run.

Senator Byrnes (Democrat), of South Carolina, told the Associated Press at Spartanburg, S. C., he did not believe the President would seek re-election, and expressed fear of his party's defeat "if the Democrats throughout the country are as badly divided as are the Democrats in the Senate and House."

At Livingston, Mont., Representative O'Connor, New Deal Democrat, said it was his opinion only "a severe economic crisis" or a "war crisis" could influence the President to run.

Ickes, meanwhile, transmitted to the White House the Puerto Rican petition, which had been circulated by Miss Maria E. Campos, insular chairman of the "peoples' movement."

Ickes, an original third-term boomer, wrote the President that, not being a native of Puerto Rico, he could not sign the petition, but it offered an opportunity to add his "Amen."

Representative Taber (Republican), of New York, ranking minority member of the House Appropriations Committee, yesterday charged the President with attempting "to void responsibility for the complete failure of his economic policies" by shifting the blame to Congress.

NLRB Orders Bethlehem to End Its Unions

Johnstown 'Citizens Committee' Also Assailed in Ruling

By the United Press.

The National Labor Relations Board ruled last night that the Bethlehem Steel Co. is guilty of violating the Wagner labor act and ordered it to disetablish "company-dominated" employe representation plans.

The board's order, outgrowth of the 1937 "Little Steel" strike waged by the Steel Workers' Organizing Committee (C. I. O.), specifically directed disestablishment of employe representation plans at plants in Lackawanna, N. Y.; Sparrows Point, Md., and Johnstown, Lebanon, Bethlehem, Rankin, Fleetsdale and Steelton, all in Pennsylvania.

If the board's decision is upheld, after the company's anticipated appeal to the United States Supreme Court, it will apply to Bethlehem's four Pacific Coast plants, where the board and the company agreed they would abide by the final outcome of the Eastern case.

Impartiality Held Violated

The decision vigorously criticized the Johnstown "citizens committee" and Mayor Daniel W. Shields of Johnstown, and held that the company had violated the labor relations statute by "indirectly giving $32,078.25 to Mayor Shields."

"The statements made by Mayor Shields indicate that his conception of the best way to handle the strike situation was to create hostility to the strikers, encourage a back-to-work movement and defeat the SWOC," the NLRB said.

"In providing the money which was turned over to the mayor, and indirectly turning over a sum of money to the mayor, the company was following a program calculated to insure the continuance of this attitude; the company was thus, in the most effective manner, interfering with the organization of its striking employes.

"In a situation in which impartiality by the city administration was essential to a proper preservation of the rights of the company on the one hand and the union on the other, the company was, by the payment of the money, engaging in a course of conduct which necessarily affected that impartiality. Such action by the company was in contravention of section eight (8) of the act."

The board said the company could not justify "unlawful conduct on the assumption that such conduct was made proper because the company thought that there had been a failure on the part of the state of Pennsylvania, Cambria County, and Franklin Boro to perform their proper functions" during the steel strike.

It added that "the record does not reveal impropriety in the actions of officials of the State of Pennsylvania, Cambria County or Franklin Boro."

Cleared of Some Charges

The NLRB found the company innocent of charges that it had:

Offered inducements to certain of their employes not to join or assist the union.

Conducted a so-called "back-to-work" movement of their employes in a manner to interfere with, restrain and coerce their employes in the exercise of the rights guaranteed by section 7 of the act.

Caused the streets of Johnstown and surrounding communities to be patrolled by armed men for the purpose of interfering with, restraining and coercing their employes.

Interfered with peaceful picketing by the striking employes.

Caused union members and organizers to be unjustly arrested, detained and sentenced.

Leiserson Not Participating

The board's ruling was signed by Chairman J. Warren Madden and member Edwin S. Smith. William M. Leiserson, newest board member, did not participate in deciding the case, as proceedings were completed prior to his appointment.

The employe representation plans ordered disestablished were instituted in October, 1918, after a series of war-time strikes at the Bethlehem, Pa., plant and were drawn up by W. L. Mackenzie King, who now is prime minister of Canada.

The board said the plans were "installed and fostered by the company, and . . . the company has, for the whole period of their existence, dominated them, interfered with their administration, and contributed support to them."

Of the citizens' committee formed during the strike and which published the nationally circulated advertisement, "We Protest," the board said that its "prime function was that of vilifying the union organization and engendering public hostility and opposition to the strikers."

Although the board ruled that it had no evidence that the steel company either "induced or participated in the formation of a citizens' committee," it added that the company had, by contributing funds strengthened "an agency which was seeking to defeat the efforts of the union organization and to destroy that organization by creating hostility toward it."

Moral Charges Against Bridges Hinted at Hearing

By the Associated Press

San Francisco, Aug. 15.—A Stanford University professor read a 15,000-word statement on the "content and significance of Marxist philosophy" at Harry Bridges' deportation hearing today after a Portland, Oreg., police captain testified his department had discussed adultery charges against the maritime labor leader.

Capt. John J. Keegan, questioned about expenses the Portland police incurred after the Bridges investigation, recalled a hotel room conversation with Aaron Sapiro, witness against Bridges.

"It was whether charges should be filed against Harry Bridges for adultery——," Capt. Keegan began, when Defense Attorney Richard Gladstein shouted:

"What's that got to do with questions I was asking about expenses?"

After Keegan was excused, the defense called Prof. Harold Chapman Brown, doctor of philosophy at Stanford since 1914, to define communism because the Government is trying to deport Bridges on grounds he is a member of the Communist Party—which he has denied—and that the party advocates violence.

50-Cent Flights Scheduled at 5 Airports Saturday

"Everybody fly" will be the keynote of the celebration Saturday of National Aviation Day when flights over the city at 50 cents a person will be available at five local airports.

The observance of Orville Wright's birthday, authorized by Congress during the last session, is sponsored here by the Junior Board of Commerce. A person who has never flown before will be chosen sometime during the day to receive a free instruction in flying at Capital Airport, Bladensburg, Md., John Delafield, aviation committee chairman, announced.

An aerial view of 50 private planes, in which a squadron of Marine Corps aircraft may participate, is also scheduled.

Besides Capital Airport, aviation enthusiasts will be taken up at Beacon Field and Hybla Valley Airports, Alexandria, Congressional Airport, Rockville, Md., and College Park (Md.) Airport.

Other members of the aviation committee are Sydney Smith; Don Irwin; Guy Saffold; D. Walter Swan and William Briggs.

The Wetaher Bureau said there would be little change in temperature today. Officials forecast partly cloudly weather with local showers this afternoon.

Huey's 'Girl Friday' Talks; Gang Worries

Testifies Before Grand Jury; Ragge Reports Wires Tapped

By the Associated Press

Baton Rouge, La., Aug. 15.—Louisiana political circles wondered uneasily tonight about what Pretty Alice Lee Grosjean, No. 1 confidante of the late Huey Long, told the East Baton Rouge Parish grand jury in testimony supposedly relating to the scandal-torn State government.

The red haired stenographer, who knew more sacrets of the late kingfish than did most of his closest lieutenants, appeared before the grand jury today.

Rogge Wires Tapped

Meantime, in New Orleans, United States Assistant Attorney General O. John Rogge revealed that his telephone wires had been tapped, particularly during a conversation with Attorney General Murphy.

Huey Long hired Miss Grosjean when she was 17, and he had just been elected railroad commissioner, his first public office. Under the kingfiesh's tutelage, she became secretary of state for a short time, Governor for a few days, and a political power.

P After Huey's death, she became collector of revenues, but former Gov. Richard W. Leche, now under Federal indictment, demoted her last February 3, then summarily dismissed her.

Since, Alice Lee Grosjean (Mrs. W. A. Tharpe) has remained silent, and some said this silence bode no good for her enemies. There were reports of photographic copies of documents she cached before she took a trip to California, and it was certain she knew some of the things that had been secrets of the Kingfish.

WPA Projects Posed

New Orleans, Aug. 15 (AP).—Investigation of 28 State-sponsored Public Works Administration projects into which the Federal Government poured many millions of dollars was announced tonight as a new phase of the Government's many-sided probe into State affairs.

William G. Elliott, special agent in charge of investigation for the Fort Worth, Tex., division, said 11 agents had been called into the investigation which is centering on the $13,000,000 Charity Hospital project here.

Sinking of the hospital buildings already has resulted in extensive cracking in some places, with repair estimates running up to $60,000. The Federal grant for the project totaled $3,600,000.

U.S. Takes Over Streamliner Wreck Inquiry

Clews Toward Identity Of Rail Mover Spurs Search in 3 States

By the Associated Press

Reno, Nev., Aug. 15.—Federal officers today took over investigation of the wreck of the streamliner City of San Francisco, and direction of the search for the maniac who, trainmen say, deliberately derailed the train, killing 23 people and injuring 109.

The search was spurred by clews toward the identity of the man, or men, who moved a rail and thus hurtled the 17-car train into a Nevada canyon Saturday night.

"We have some definite evidence," said A. D. McDonald, president of the Southern Pacific Co., who took charge of the railway's investigation, "but it is of such a nature that we do not feel free to divulge it at this time."

An unrevealed number of men were picked up in railway yards and "hobo jungles," and were questioned as the search spread over Nevada, Utah and California.

Reno police still held a man booked as Bob La Duceur, 28, of Lewiston, Mont., although Police Chief Andy Welliver said previously he expected to release the man.

Officers were divided in their opinion as to whether the crime was the work of one or two men. McDonald sided with those who believed it was the work of a lone mad man—"a man with a diseased brain—possibly one with a grudge against some individual on the train, satisfying that grudge without regard for the lives that might be snuffed out."

"A man would be a fool to take another into his confidence in a thing like this," he continued. "A confederate would, sooner or later, be bound to squeal."

Authorities asked to see an amateur motion picture of the wreck scene, in hope of uncovering new clews.

The Southern Pacific, which operated the train jointly with the Union Pacific and the Chicago & Northwestern, reported today 37 of the injured were still in hospitals, most of them in Elko. These included Albert Johnson, of Chicago, who was reported dead yesterday. Doctors described his condition today as critical.

Tennessean Admits Rail Wreck Threats

George Henry Parks, 28, of Cleveland, Tenn, pleaded guilty yesterday to charges of attempting to extort $52,000 from E. E. Norris, president of the Southern Railway, under threat to cause train wrecks, E. R. Davis, Knoxville, Tenn., agent of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, announced.

Norris received a threatening letter nearly six weeks ago, officials of the Southern Railway headquarters here asserted. Parks, a stove factory employe, was arrested Monday, the Associated Press reported.

Goddard Indicted In Girl Slaying

West Palm Beach, Fla., Aug. 15 (U.P.).—Thomas Goddard, alias Cochran, fake talent scout and confessed slayer of a pretty Miami dramatics student, was indicted today by the Palm Beach County grand jury on charges of first degree murder, rape and kidnaping.

The admitted killer of Frances Ruth Dunn was indicted after the grand jury heard details of the slaying from blonde Jean Bolton, attractive young night club singer, who was forced to accompany Cochran and Miss Dunn on a fateful auto trip from Miami last week.

10 Million Saving In War Risk Cases, Claimed by FBI

The Department of Justice said yesterday that the Government had saved $10,197,161.74 during the past fiscal year through FBI investigation of war risk insurance cases.

A total of 1,150 cases were disposed of during the year, officials said. In 77 court judgments were returned in favor of the plaintiffs, and in 121 judgments were for the United States.

Since the FBI began investigating war risk insurance claims in September, 1933, 11,856 cases have been settled, officials reported.

Modern War At Manassas Puzzles Novice

Troop Movements In Field Mean Little To the Spectator

By Scott Hart,
A Staff Correspondent.

Manassas, Va., Aug. 15.—"Now," said the officer, while his officially tagged automobile wormed through the dust and the files of soldiers in the road, "you will see it all the better the farther away you go. It isn't an illusion. It's modern warfare.

Nothing could be made of these maneuvers along the road, or in the fields by the road or in the air where the airplanes roamed, themselves searching for happenings on the ground. The whole thing was in blocks, dispointed, piecemeal along the roads of a 10-mile area, all covered with dust and noisy with the moving trucks and dust-covered tanks.

Around a bend of the road were six tanks, moved in from the roadside and camouflaged with green boughs. Their complements lounged under the pine trees' shade and farther along, at a hidden crossroads, some farmers looked on, mystified.

Regulars Fall Back

Some sweatig ntroops, marching, came down the road, past the tanks and a machine gun ato pa truck started coughing. Another machine gun, on a truck athwart the road, began firing, and a line of skirmishers crept across a defile obliquely from the truck in the road. The officer in the officially tagged automobile swept his hand to a mounted officer with a white band on his campaign hat, an umpire, and said that somebody had scored. A line of Regulars, in blue denim, fell back from the skirmishers, fading, stumbling back into the pines. A farmer who had bought out his family to see the "war," made a deeply rural exclamation and his face beamed as he called back to the family in the car, "How'd yaw'l like that?"

Along the road, the dust swelled again, turning the foliage red by the roadside. The officer's car wormed again htrough the marching files of soldiers. Then the files simmered out and the road around the 10-mile area was empty a momemnt. But other files of soldiers appeared, and then these simmered out. Then soldiers moved on the road in twos toward some destination; lone soldiers appeared, looking lonesome, but bent to getting some place quickly. Convoys of trucks sprung up from the dust they raised. At the top of an incline some firing came from the adjoining field.

Take Shots at Planes

"More action," said the officer in the official car. He ground the dust particles between his teeth. The car stopped. "Ain't nothing," said a soldier who had stopped his motorcycle in the shade. "Just some jokers shooting at them airplanes flying up there."

The officer said: "They don't give them but 20 rounds each day. His eyes flashed at the nonsense in the field. But he remembered that soldiers in fields shoot at airplanes when things are real.

Around the next bend a company of soldiers waited in the shade by the roadside for something. "For what?" said the officer. "Ddin't I say it didn't make sense when one is close up on it. But back at headquarters now the blocks are moving on the charts. Things are moving on the road and one the charts."

A house came in view farther on. A few soldiers sat in the shade there, reading newspapers. At another house a company stood, waiting for something, in the yard. Soldiers moved along again in long files. When they simmered out the countryside fell quiet again and dustless.

More soldiers came, sweating on the monotonous road. "They can't know what it's all about. They're just set to marching somewhere, may be through the woods. Or maybe they'vs marched somewhere through the heat and dust—and then are marched right back where they came from. But the blocks are balancing off and the lines make sense on the charts. You can only see it from far off—it only makes sense from a good ways back."

Nearly Repeat Hannibal Coup

The marching kept on, with occasional fire from left or right. They couldn't march off the road much. The farmer had sen to it that his corn wouldn't be trampled.

When the afternoon was nearly gone, a general was sighted in an apple orchard. He He had posted the chart in the shade of an old apple tree. He and his officers were in conference, running their fingers along the chart where the lines and weavings symbolized the sweating men on the roads.

Something had almost happened. Hannibal had done it; and Von Hindenburg at the Tannenberg fighting had won his fame on the double envelopement. It had almost happened here this afternoon! The officers looked again at the chart. From a distant road a great cloud of dust was rising and a boy, who had been in the dust and marching all day, said: "Look, I've sweat clean through my leggins."

Richmond Veterans Won't Attend Session

Richmond, Va., Aug. 15 (AP).—Confederate veterans of Richmond will not be represented at the convention of the United Confederate Veterans in Denver, Colo., August 22, it was indicated today. Col. William McK. Ens, commander of the Virginia veterans, will not attend and a spokesman at the Soldiers' Home here said none of the veterans there was physically able to make the long trip.

Black Army 'Digs In' to Hold Its Advance on Capital

Units of the Regular Army, the forces driving on Washington in the mimic war at Bull Run, threw up a sandbag defense near Manassas yesterday to retain the advances made against the National Guardsmen "defending" the Capital in skirmishes the day before. Fifth Engineers and the Tenth Cavalry are filling the bags

Yesterday it was Maj. Stonewall Jackson who was the hero at Manassas. A namesake but no relation to the hero of '61, Maj. Jackson, intelligence officer of the Black Army, forced the withdrawal and re-formation of the two divisions defending the Capital. Maj. Jackson, shown studying the orders of the day under a protecting tree, later praised the Blue Army's maneuver

Blasts Wreck 2 Bay Boats; 12 Are Saved

4 Seriously Burned On Va. Patrol Launch; Rescue Boat Damaged

By the Associated Press

Crisfield, Md., Aug. 15.—Four men were seriously burned, ten persons were twice rescued and the Virginia State Conservation Patrol Boat Richard C. Armstrong was destroyed by fire 8 miles off here in Chesapeake Bay this afternoon.

The Armstrong, with seven women, an invalid, Capt. Herbert Drummon and Mate Brady Scott, aboard, was bound from Saxis, Va., to Tangier Sound when a backfire from the engine started a blaze aboard the boat. The Armstrong was not on patrol duty when the fire broke out.

Parson Martin and his 16-year-old son, Eugene, aboard their crab-fishing boat, maneuvered next the Armstrong and took the ten on their craft. Just as they pulled away, the gasoline tank on the Armstrong exploded, showering the Martins, Prentiss Bull, of Saxis, Va., the invalid passenger, and Capt. Drummon with blazing gas. Scott and Mrs. Donald Lewis, of Saxis, were blown overboard.

Capt. L. C. Neilson saw the explosion and picked up the 12 in his fishing boat. The Martins, Bull and Capt. Drummon were all seriously burned, the younger Martin critically.

The women passengers were all from Saxis. They were Mrs. W. C. Glenn, Mrs. Hugh Glenn, Miss Catherine Weaver, Miss Martha Bonawell, Mrs. Lewis and two others who did not give their names.

The Armstrong was a total loss, sinking soon after the fire. The Martins' boat remained afloat.

Capt. Drummon and Scott live in Onancock, Va. Scott and Mrs. Lewis were uninjured when blown overboard.

D. C. Firm Submits Low Bid for New Junior High

Jeffress-Dyer, nIc., of Washington, has submitted the low bid of $769,900 to build the new Thomas Jefferson Memorial Junior High School between Seventh and Ninth and H and I streets southwest, it was announced yesterday.

Funds for the school are contained in the regular District appropriation act.

crossings as the artillery fire theoretically destroyed all existing bridges.

Superior numbers, however, finally dislodged them and they rode back to high ground south of the stream.

Just as troops of the 110th and 111th Pennsylvania Infantry began crossing at Blands Ford, near Lake Jackson, four tanks raced out from the Black outposts, turned a withering stream of fire on the Blue Infantry and attempted to return to their lines. The Pennsylvanians, however, had anti-tank guns mounted across the creek, and let loose. The umpires ruled that two of the tanks were destroyed and ordered them out of action for the day.

Three More Tanks Destroyed

Fighting a delaying action, the cavalrymen dropped back slowly before the Blues. Tanks again were employed by the Black high command, but in a raid upon Blue lines south of Blands Ford, three more of the lumbering land battleships were caught in a crossfire of anti-tank guns and were destroyed.

At 2:30 p. m. Maj. Gen. James K. "Kelly" Parsons, called a truce to the day's activities and the grateful troops pitched camp for the night. Pup tents were thrown up, in the shade wherever possible, and field kitchens rolled up from the rear. Tired but proud in having driven the regulars back, the guardsmen rested in camps for the renewal of fighting tomorrow.

He came rushing back into camp, warning the general and his staff to flee. After some excitement, however, it was discovered that the Black troops were members of the Fifth Engineers, who had come over the lines as neutrals to reclaim bridge equipment borrowed by District Engineer Regiment the night before.

To Resume War Today

During the cavalry withdrawal action, there was heavy fighting at Purcellville School. Col. Hatton's cavalry and the Black tanks clashed with the Pennsylvania infantry in the most spectacular engagement of the "war" so far.

Shortly before action ended, the Twelvth Infantry, "Washington's Own," replaced the cavalry and tanks on the Black right flank. They had been operating on the left against the Marylanders all morning.

Brig. Gen. S. Gardner Waller's Virginia brigade did not get into the battle, but late this afternoon, moved down from Corps Reserve at Gainesville, to Bristow, ready for action in the morning.

Staff officers are awaiting with interest the next move tomorrow. Fighting will be renewed on the same lines, and Gen. Murray must extricate his troops from the position the Blue troops have driven them.

Late tonight his engineers, the Fifth Regiment from Fort Belvoir, threw up a pontoon bridge across Occoquan Creek. Maj. Gen. Julian Schley, Chief of Army Engineers, wha was a visitor in camp today, observed the maneuvers.

This scheduled operation and the shortage of Army bridge building equipment caused near consternation today at Maryland Brigade headquarters. Gen. Woodcock and his staff had established new headquarters south of Brentsville following his troops advance, when an aide spied a large body of Black troops in a field close by.

Defer Quitting City Jobs, U. S. Tells Employes

Advised to Wait for Ruling; Opinion Asked On D. C. Employes

The Justice Department, as yet undecided on whether the Hatch act forbids Government employes from holding municipal office in nearby communities, is advising such employes not to resign their town jobs until someone in authority orders them to quit, it was learned yesterday.

At the same time, the department's problem of interpreting knotty phases of the act was complicated by a request from the District Commissioners for a ruling on whether municipal employes are affected by the law.

Ruling May Affect Allen

In a letter signed by Commissioner Hazen, the Attorney General was advised that in a previous legal case, Penn Bridge Co. vs. District of Columbia, the local government was held to be an "agency of the United States for conducting the affairs of the Government in the Federal district."

Should the Attorney General rule that District employes are affected by the Hatch bill, Commissioner George E. Allen would be prevented from taking the stump for any political candidate. In the past, Commissioner Allen has been very active in Democratic circles, having campaigned for both President Roosevelt and Senator Pat Harrison (Democrat), of Mississippi.

Justice Department officials feel that Government employe incumbents of town offices should not be too hasty in resigning their jobs, pending a conference this week on the subject between Justice and Civil Service Commission officials.

Question Will Be Raised

At this discussion, it is believed, the question will be raised whether the holding of a non-paying municipal office, which is not a full-time job but is held merely incidental to the incumbent's full-time employment in the Government, constitutes taking an "active part in political management"

Many town functionaries have argued that they do not "run" for their jobs in any political sense, that the jobs themselves are actually burdens which they undertake merely out of civic spirit, that the jobs are purely administrative rather than political and that the work done constitutes "uncompensated overtime" in addition to their Federal employment.

ally paid to the Tennessee Electric Power Co. would be cut by about 25 per cent. (TVA officials estimated "annual savings of $4,113,000 to 146,000 customers.")

In the main, the plan of operation calls for ownership and operation of generating facilities and high-tension, cross-country power lines by TVA. This system will bring power to the cities, where TVA will sell it to municipal power boards. These boards will operate publicly-owned distribution systems within the cities, which will carry the power to the manufacturer and householder, send out monthly bills and make collections.

House Passes Power Bill

Montgomery, Ala., Aug. 15 (AP).—The Alabama Legislature passed and sent to Gov. Dixon today a municipal power bill which John M. Carmody, Federal Works Administrator, opposed as granting "a virtual power monopoly to private interests."

Notwithstanding Carmody's assertions that the bill would "scuttle the hopes of Alabama municipalities" to own and operate electric systems, the House passed the bill, 85 to 2. The Senate approved it, 28 to 2, last week.

The measure requires cities to negotiate for the purchase of existing power facilities before setting up their own.

Japan Reported Confining Action To Far East

Toyko, Aug. 15 (AP).—Holding the door open for a possible deeper entry into European affairs at some future time, reliable sources said tonight that Japan had determined to confine her present major activities to the Far East.

The decision, it was reported, was reached August 8 after an exhaustive discussion of recent international developments by Premier Hiranuma and his ministers of war, navy, finance and foreign affairs.

The development left Premier Hiranuma on top in the last controversy. The most serious policy problem has been the question of a military alliance with Italy and Germany. Pressure from Berlin for more than a guarantee that Japan would oppose Soviet Russia in the event a military alliance should be formed was said to have occasioned the August 8 conference.

Holiday Shift Ruffles Stand-pats

Roosevelt Fails To Carry Vermont, Maine, Other States

The average man in the street here refused to get excited. For one thing it was too hot. The veteran newspaper vender at Fourteenth street and Pennsylvania avenue, John Paul Muth (Andy Gump), had this to say:

"It doesn't make much difference to me. I eat duck, anyway."

Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel of Texas, who rode into office behind a hill-billy band, announced that he would decree two Thanksgiving Days, one on November 23 and the other on November 30, thus going along with the President and satisfying the traditionalists too.

Washington retail dealers, along with retail dealers throughout the country, were pleased by the President's announcement.

Arthur J. Sundlun, president of the Merchants and Manufacturers Association here, said:

"It is a great boon to retail trade. Christmas business really never starts until after the Thanksgiving holiday. In the past the interval between the two holidays has not been long enough, when you consider that 25 to 30 per cent of all retail business in a year is done in December. This will give us a greater spread, help the 'shop early' movement and be beneficial alike to customer, clerk and retailer."

Dr. David R. Craig, president of the American Retail Federation, said here that advancement of the date would "logically help in the effort to advance the national income." Records show, he added, that retail stores do a greater amount of business in years when Thanksgiving falls four full shopping weeks ahead of Christmas.

Walter Hoving, president of Lord & Taylor, a New York department store, estimated that as much as $1,000,000,000 additional business may be generated by the change in date.

W. W. Everett, vice president and general manager of Woodward & Lothrop, said he and all local retail men were pleased by the President's action.

Out at Center Market, in the noisy poultry sector, a Post reporter ran into two irate commission men who thought that the President, in extending his efforts to holidays, was taking in too much territory.

Earl Compton, owner of the Manassas Produce Co., said that President Roosevelt had tried to regulate "everything but the sun."

"In Washington," said Compton, "Thanksgiving Day has been hot enough in the past. Now, if it is moved up a week, it is going to be hotter still. In my opinion, we are going to sell fewer turkeys. How would you like your wife cooking a turkey on a hot day? If Roosevelt wants to change something, why doesn't he change taxes?"

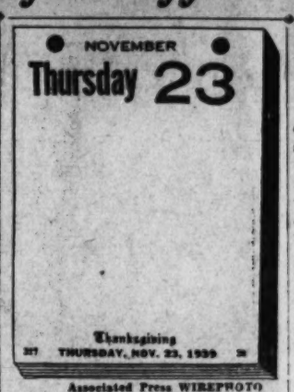
(The Weather Bureau figures don't bolster Compton's argument. Curiously, they show that in the last five years Thanksgiving Day has been warmer than the day a week previously. The average high temperature on Thanksgiving Day was 56, and the average for the day a week earlier was 52.)

Saltonstall Hesitant

Here are the remarks of some of the Nation's Governors:

Massachusetts—Gov. Leverett Saltonstall (Republican) said: "I shall hesitate a long time before I make a change."

Vermont—Gov. George D. Aiken (Republican) said that "if the President thinks the two holidays are too near together, it's a wonder he didn't change Christmas. We aren't quick to change here in Vermont unless it means real progress, and I don't see what can be gained by shifting Thanksgiving Day."



Associated Press WIREPHOTO

Here's one calendar that won't have to be changed. The Defiance Sales Corporation is no longer embarrassed by its year-old error on this page of its 1939 calendar pad. President Roosevelt's decision to advance Thanksgiving Day to November 23 made things perfectly all right again

Traditionalists Insist They'll Eat Turkey On Established Day

Wisconsin—Gov. Julius P. Heil (Republican) said that, as far as he was concerned, Wisconsin would celebrate Thanksgiving on November 30.

Oklahoma—Gov. Leon C. Phillips (Democrat), said he would proclaim Thanksgiving on the usual date. "Business and churches and people and turkeys," he said, "are tuned to the last Thursday in November."

Doesn't Cost Taxpayers

Wyoming—Gov. Nels H. Smith (Republican), said he disapproved of the President's idea. "It is the first time," he said "that the President has done something that hasn't cost the taxpayers a lot of money."

Iowa—Gov. George A. Wilson (Republican) said if he had anything to do with it, the date would remain November 30.

Kansas—Gov. Payne Ratner (Republican), said he was more concerned about having something to be thankful for next November than he is about the Thanksgiving date.

Rhode Island—Gov. William H. Vanderbilt (Republican), said there "appears to be common sense in the idea."

Maryland—Gov. Herbert R. O'Conor (Democrat) said, "I feel that there is nothing else for us to do but conform to the President's decision. Frankly, I don't think it makes a great deal of difference when we give thanks to Divine Providence for our many blessings. We have so much to be thankful for in this country that we could well give thanks every day."

Virginia.—In the absence of Gov. James H. Price (Democrat), who is vacationing, Col. W. M. Kemper, his executive assistant said he felt "confident the Governor will follow the date set by the President."

Gov. Hoey Sees No Benefit

North Carolina—Gov. Clyde R. Hoey (Democrat) said to change the date of Thanksgiving would be "unfortunate." He said the present date had been observed since 1864, and he saw no benefit in making a change.

District Commissioner Melvin C. Hazen said the change in date would be beneficial to Washington businessmen and he therefore favored it.

"I have 50 gobblers on my farm," said Hazen, "and they'll be ready. If I have a nice one, I'll give it to the President."

Fish Flies to Oslo In German Plane, 'Fears War Aug. 20'

Oslo, Aug. 15 (AP).—Representative Hamilton Fish (Republican) of New York, said tonight "we are drifting toward war" and "if something is going to be done to prevent war, it must be done immediately."

The Congressman arrived for the interparliamentary union congress here in an airplane lent by German foreign minister, Von Ribbentrop, whom he visited yesterday.

"I fear war may break out on August 20," he asserted.

Fish said he would urge the interparliamentary conference to approve a resolution "proposing to the big powers a 30-day political truce . . . . during the truce, the foreign ministers of Germany, Italy, France and Great Britain should meet and see if there is a way out."

McCuen Favors Hatch Bill Change

not in political power," he continued. "My own interest in Glen Echo has been to make it a better place to live in. There is no salary attached to the office of mayor."

McCuen moved to Glen Echo in 1922 from the District, and was appointed mayor the following year. During his 16 years in office he has kept the town tax rate at 50 cents. Twenty-three thousand dollars worth of street improvements have been made and lighting has been improved. The town now has an A-1 rating from Dun and Bradstreet, according to McCuen.

"There are no political parties in Glen Echo politics," said McCuen. "We don't elect on the basis of Republican or Democrat. We just elect in the hope that the man who wins will make the town a better place to live in."

Mrs. McCuen, like her husband, has no political ambitions.

"I'm going to carry out Henry's policies as best I can," she said.

"And you can be sure that I won't be doing anything behind the scenes," added her husband.

Mrs. McCuen is treasurer of the Three Seven Democratic Club in Glen Echo and is active in the Ladies' Guild of Chapel of the Redeemer. Mr. McCuen has been in the Government postal service for 29 years. He was attached to the Alexandria, Va., postoffice until 1918.

Up at the corner drugstore an elderly man knew the McCuens.

"Fine people, fine people," he mumbled through a chew of tobacco. "It's a dam' shame Henry had to resign. Beulah will carry on all right." He shook his head. "It's still a dam' shame Henry had to quit."

1,138 Finish Course In Life Saving

District Red Cross officials announced yesterday that 1,138 students had completed life saving and swimming courses during July.

Volunteer workers provided home service for 102 veterans. During the month 343 volunteers contributed 6,435 hours of service, the report said.

U. S. 'Elective Monarchy,' Says Cleric

Schools Perfectnig Democracy, Catholics Told by Rev. Dowling

The American Government is an "elective monarchy" containing some democratic elements, but the tools of a more perfect democracy are being made in the Nation's schools, the Rev. Edward Dowling, of St. Louis, Mo., said yesterday.

He was speaking to a small group of schoolgirls from Richmond, Va., who had "cut" the afternoon seminar of the summer school of Catholic Action, in its second day yesterday at the Mayflower Hotel, to discuss student government wih him.

"Student government is the insulated laboratory for developing the new tools of democracy," Father Dowling said. "The most scientific form of voting in use today, the Hare system of proportional representation now used in New York, is the product of a row over student government in a school at Kidderminster, England, 125 years ago," he told the girls.

Control by People Ideal

Father Dowling's ideal in governmen he described as "aristopractic," a form in which the people would control, but the elected legislators and executives would be the best men for the purpose. The "monarchic" element in American Government, he explained, consists in the over great power of the executive, especially in some cities governed by mayors. "The center of gravity in a democracy is the legislature," he said, "but the center of power in our Government is where the patronage is, which is usuall ythe executive." The closest approach to democracy in America is in some of our local governments, he added.

A blast against strict party loyalty as "a respectable form of treason" figured in Father Dowling's address to his morning class in student democracy. He hailed President Roosevelt's announcement that he would not back a conservative candidate "with the inference that that means Democrats included" as showing a trend away from the party system.

Youth Called Well-Informed

The Rev. George A. McDonald, S. J., of St. Louis, told the general session yesterday morning that American youths are much better informed than their parents were at the same age. Hs urged that lay organizations be set up in each Catholic parish to discuss social problems and take social action.

At the afternoon seminar yesterday Father McDonald discussed the central office of the Sodality of Our Lady, sponsors of the summer school. Students were taken on a sightseeing tour of the city, visiting the Franciscan Monastery, the Shrine of the Immaculate Conception and public buildings after the session.

At tomorrow's seminar the Rev. Ara F. Walker, S. J., of John Carroll University, will discuss Catholic literature.

Packing Union Asks Miss Perkins To Act in Dispute

Delegates from the C. I. O. Packinghouse Workers Organizing Committee will meet today with Secretary of Labor Perkins to ask her intervention to forestall a strike in the 18 plants of Armour Co., the C. I. O. announced yesterday.

It was stated that the delegates will ask Miss Perkins to request President Roosevelt to appeal to the firm to resume negotiations, which the union claims have been ruptured by management refusal to bargain.

Principal issues, the C. I. O. said, are a national contract, protection against discharge of union members and higher wage scales. About 20,000 workers are said to be affected.

Judges Rule Today On Rent Hearings

Judges of the Municipal Court are expected to meet this afternoon to decide whether landlord-tenant cases shall be given a larger place on the court's schedule, as urged by the Washington Housing Association.

The association has asked that cases be postponed until 2 p. m. rather than considered "hurriedly" at 9:30 a. m.

NEW BANDS. Harold Veo, Maryland Gardens' maestro, has two new orcestras in rehearsal. One is a large unit with plenty of strings, plays in Continental style and will wear red jackets, black shirts and cummerbunds (sashes to you). The other, more of a standard dance music assembly, will play in white ties and tails. Tentative names chosen for the new bands are Veo's Continentals and Veo's Aristocrats. Where are these new orchestras going to play? Oh, that's a secret —at this stage of the game.

BEAUTY AND THE BEAST are prancing on the Shoreham Terrace. Beauty is represented by those graceful and luscious blondes, the Stanley Twins, also dark-eyed Marcella Claire. But Ferdinand the Bull (see pic above) holds his own with the beauties. Ferdinand nuzzled Paul McNutt affectionately Monday evening, roared friendly greetings to Mrs. McNutt and daughter, Louise McNutt. We think Ferdinand's a McNutt delegate.

CONSOLE-ING EDDIE. The one-man organ show, Eddie Daniels, will come to the Neptune Room Saturday. Eddie plays his own specially made electric organ which he carries around the country in a trailer. He has just finished a tour of the Canadian provinces. Eddie says fearlessly that he's the "Variety Voice of the Console." Besides playing the organ, Eddie sings the old and new numbers and gives character impressions of celebrities. Something tells us that the new Neptune attraction is going to be very good.

MOUNTAIN GOLF. Milton Davis, of the Rainbow Room, and the Hour Glass' singing and golfing expert, Arthur Todd (he shoots in the 70's), are going to play 18 holes soon. The only condition Milton made was that the game should be played on the Argyle course. (Wait 'till Arthur sees that Argyle course. It's more like the Rocky Mountains than anything east of Denver.)

PRODIGAL RETURNS (bringing his own calf). Vic Hyde, hit of the Capitol Theater show, visits the Lotus every evening. The Lotus has the happiest memories for him. For when playing there a few seasons back, he was spotted by Rudy Vallee and rocketed into a $600 a week job in a few weeks' time. P. S. It's probable that those dancing aces, the "Abdallah Girls," will remain at Lotus next week.

SUNDAY RHYTHM. Pete Macias and his Lounge Riviera Orchestra went a-touring on Sunday. They played for afternoon swimming and evening dancing at the home of Mrs. Karl Corby out Rockville way.

10,000 TO ECHO. The biggest crowd of the season at Glen Echo always is registered on the day of the outing of the Capital Transit Relief Association. Usually about 10,000 folk are on hand. The party will take place this year on August 24. There will be dancing in the afternoon, with Dave McWilliams and his orchestra on the bandstand.

MILK DE LUXE. Mayfair's promotion manager, Jimmy Byrd, just back from a week-end of horseback riding at Blue Ridge Summit, Pa., tells us that all steamed up by accounts of Art Barker's goat ranch, he started to drink quantities of goat's milk—until he found out, while on his sixth glass, that it cost 50 cents a quart. Says Jimmy, "I began to be afraid that my hosts wouldn't appreciate my appreciation of their goat's milk."

UPSIDE - DOWN COCKTAILS. Acrobat Russ Le Beau, in the Bamboo Gardens floor show, is currently drinking Bamboo special cocktails while standing on his head. This becomes all the more remarkable when you remember that a couple of Bamboo "specials" will stand you on your ear, even if you drink them while right side up. P. S.—This is last chance week to see the "Dance Cocktails" revue. An all new show comes to Bamboo Monday.

JITTERS START. The "jitterbug contest" of the A. T. & S. Barbecue got away to a great start last night with a full house of the most expert jitter-dancers of D. C. and nearby Virginia on hand.

DICK'S ART GALLERY. A highly diverting collection of theatrical pictures hangs in Dick's Grill. It runs the gamut from grand opera singers to roller skating acts. Dick had around 500 pictures in his collection once, but many of them were destroyed in a fire.

[This advertisement appeared August 15, 1939 in Chattanooga and Nashville, Tennessee, newspapers.]

we hand over our Tennessee Electric Properties and a $2,800,000 Tax Problem

AT MIDNIGHT, TONIGHT, The Commonwealth & Southern Corporation turns over to various public officials all of its electric properties in the State of Tennessee.

We have always believed, and still believe, that the interests of the public are better served by privately operated utilities than by publicly operated plants. Take our Tennessee properties for example:

The State of Tennessee and most of the communities we have been serving have depended, in no small part, upon the taxes they have collected from us to pay the cost of their governmental activities, including school, water, fire, health and other services.

Our Tennessee properties paid into local and state treasuries a total of $2,225,000 from electric revenues, for the 12 months ended June 30, 1939; with federal taxes, the total for this period is about $2,800,000. That is more than 20 cents out of every dollar received for electric service in Tennessee ... it amounts to over $7,670 in taxes for every day of the year.

All of our facilities in Tennessee have been built with the money of many private investors. The communities never had to increase their debts to build plants and distributing systems; they never had to pay out interest on bonds issued for electric service. The savings of thousands of citizens were brought, and would continue to have been brought, into this territory to help produce more industry, more local wealth and more steady jobs.

Our Tennessee operation has long given its customers one of the lowest average residential electric rates in the country ... as have our other operations in the North and in the South. Our rate has been reduced steadily to where, at the present time, it is much below the national average.

We have continually helped households to own modern labor-saving and convenience appliances, which have already placed the standard of leisure and living in our Tennessee territory considerably above the average in the country.

As result of our progressive merchandising and low electric rates, the average home in our Tennessee territory used far more electricity last year than was used by the average home in the entire United States.

* * * *

We have had to sell our electric properties and turn over a splendid organization to the Tennessee Valley Authority and other governmental agencies because we could not stay in business and compete with virtually tax-free and heavily subsidized plants.

Incidentally, our taxes have been multiplying and mounting for years. They are an ever increasing problem ... a veritable "headache", which other taxpayers can well appreciate. To be rid of any tax worries is, of course, always a relief.

We now turn over to government agencies, for about four-fifths of its real value, one of the finest public utility services in this or any other country ... one representing private investments of about a hundred million dollars.

The Commonwealth & Southern System now comprises the following operations:

	*Electric Customers
Michigan	440,314
Illinois	69,538
Indiana	38,229
Ohio	197,749
Pennsylvania	49,697
Alabama	143,363
Georgia	211,461
Florida	17,818
Mississippi	44,012
South Carolina	29,411
Total	1,241,592

On July 1, 1939.*

Almost all the money we are receiving from this sale will be used to pay back the owners of the outstanding bonds and preferred stocks of The Tennessee Electric Power Company, at 100 cents on the dollar. A substantial percentage of these investors live in Tennessee. The common shareholders, principally The Commonwealth & Southern Corporation, are taking all of the loss.

To buy our properties, the municipalities are selling bonds largely tax-free and TVA is selling Government obligations which, in addition, will be a lien upon the incomes of all of us. These tax-free municipal and federal securities will be owned largely outside Tennessee. As a result, much income which citizens of Tennessee received from our Company will no longer benefit this community.

The incomes from all Tennessee Electric Power securities have, of course, been subject to taxation and have long helped to carry the costs of government. Whenever government takes over a private business, not only does the public lose the benefit of taxes paid directly by the business but also the substantial taxes paid by the owners of its securities.

* * * *

We sincerely hope that our former customers in this territory will continue to enjoy one of the best electrical services in the country.

To numerous friends and associates in Tennessee, many of whom have been most helpful and considerate, we are deeply indebted and very grateful. We wish them every success. Our hope is they will never be required to defend a business of their own against government subsidized competition.

Wendell L. Willkie, PRESIDENT

Drumstick And Pigskin

In planning to advance Thanksgiving Day this year from November 30 to November 23, President Roosevelt is acting as a friend of little business, but without any deference whatsoever for at least one branch of big business.

Little business, in this instance, is represented by retailers. Because the now traditional date of Thanksgiving Day, namely the last Thursday in November, has been uncomfortably close to Christmas, all the pleas of storekeepers that people do their Yuletide shopping early have tended to fall on stony ground. Nobody even begins to think of Christmas until the Thanksgiving way station has been passed, which means that nobody begins to think of Christmas shopping until it is too late to do it early.

However, President Roosevelt's edict will play havoc with the well-laid plans of an important group of big businessmen —those in charge of collegiate football, an important, lucrative and highly organized branch of the amusement industry.

The Turkey Day classic, as sportswriters are prone to designate football games played on Thanksgiving Day, is for many colleges the peak performance of the season. Receipts from it are expected to pay the deficits of less lucrative games and less lucrative sports than football. It can be expected that college football authorities will join with the selectmen of Plymouth in protesting to high heaven against Presidential tampering with what has come to be almost a sacred institution.

In the meantime the ones who really have reason to complain are the turkeys. Their brief span of well-fed existence is, by orders of the White House, to be reduced by a week. But then turkeys are neither little nor big businessmen. They fall in the category of what ultimate consumers consume, or what the wives of selectmen select.

Maritime Union

There is little doubt about the potential benefits to be derived from a united front of the seamen's unions on both coasts. It would prevent political and jurisdictional disputes which have long harassed West Coast employers, and it would reap all the benefits of united action for the workers themselves. Indeed, an earlier effective effort in this direction might have obviated some of the strong anti-union feeling now being voiced by many shipping men. If unity among the seamen were accomplished, it would open the way for the further C. I. O. objective of a union of all maritime labor.

On the face of it, this offer made by Mr. Joseph Curran, president of the National Maritime Union, sounds like a thoroughly democratic and sensible procedure. Commendable as it is in theory, however, the gesture probably heralds further strife on the West Coast, rather than a chance of peaceful solution.

Though it was undoubtedly made in good faith, the offer seems primarily a matter of tactics. Harry Lundberg, executive secretary of the Sailors' Union of the Pacific, one of the three West Coast groups now operating independently, will probably never consent to unity on the terms of his arch foe, Harry Bridges. The offer, therefore, appears to be an appeal over the head of the leaders to the rank and file. As such it may be groundwork for further internecine struggles on the part of the rival unions.

And so another case is offered where a united front might reap great benefits for all concerned, workers, employers and the general public, but where the prospect of its achievement is very dim.

Cock-a-Doodle-doo!

It is perhaps an indication of our innate chivalry that while ever and anon we pay fulsome tribute to the Great American Hen it never occurs to us to glorify the Great American Rooster.

But they do things somewhat differently in Russia.

And so we note with trepid pride that every day is Father's Day in Moscow; and will be while the Agricultural exhibition continues.

There is there being shown a 60-foot statue of a rooster whose descendants lay 300,000 eggs annually. The statue is equipped with a voice which, we are told, faithfully reproduces the original's cock-a-doodle-doo; and, presumably, about 50 or 60 times louder.

This is quite as it should be, let the feminists rave if they must. The female of the species may cackle as she pleases, but it has now been authoritatively decided, at least by implication, that every rooster has also a right to crow. He is the fellow who puts the thread of continuity into the serial stories the hen herself so jubilantly reviews.

The League And Danzig

Reports from Geneva yesterday made clear that at the next session of the Council of the League of Nations, scheduled to convene September 8, an earnest effort to grapple with the Danzig issue may be expected. This effort, the dispatches indicate, will take the form of considering termination of the present League protectorate over the Free City, assuming the possibility of a German-Polish agreement to replace the existing arrangement.

The nature of the present government of Danzig is perhaps not generally understood. Under the Treaty of Versailles the city and surrounding territory—791 square miles in all—were constituted a Free City under the protection of the League of Nations, which has since 1920 maintained a High Commissioner as its agent there.

Danzig is not, as some seem to think, a part of Poland. It is included in the Polish customs system and is subject to Polish control in its foreign relations. But Poland has no more right than Germany to interfere in the internal affairs of what is constitutionally a Free City under League protection. As the situation was summarized by Viscount Ishii, in a report adopted by the League Council in 1920: "This collective protection by the League implies the exclusion of all individual interference by other powers in the affairs of Danzig."

The independence of Danzig, which is 96 per cent German in population and which unquestionably desires to be reincorporated in the Reich, is one factor which makes the problem here much simpler than that of the Sudetenland, which was legally Czech territory. On the other hand, the guarantee of Danzig's independence given by Great Britain and France, as League members, makes the responsibility of these powers to oppose a forceful German conquest unequivocal.

In other words, the Danzig problem is such that a peaceful revision, if revision is in order, must come through the agency of the League of Nations, which alone has the authority to liquidate the present status and establish a new arrangement.

Partly because of Hitler's contemptuous attitude toward the League, it has not been possible heretofore to employ the machinery of that agency for a solution of the Danzig issue. Twice the question of a withdrawal of League control over the Free City has been raised before the Council, but each time heretofore Poland has not unreasonably refused to consider that step. The Poles cannot be expected to approve elimination of the existing arrangement, which favors them, without some equivalent international guarantee for a new status.

Hitler, for his part, has so far refused to consider solution of the Danzig issue as a problem requiring League approval. He has made offers—superficially reasonable if it could be assumed they would be respected—to Poland direct. The Poles, with the sequel to the Munich agreement fresh in mind, have refused these overtures.

But now a somewhat different attitude is apparent on Hitler's part. The abundant evidence that the British and French mean business; the equally abundant evidence that Italy does not want to fight for Danzig, seem to be having their effect. So the Fuehrer has conferred with Dr. Burckhardt, the Swiss commissioner of the League at Danzig, and has thereby tacitly recognized both the authority and the importance of Geneva in the issue.

A peaceful solution of the Danzig issue is still far from assured. The most that can be said is that a formula for peaceful solution is now beginning to take outline. This, however, is relatively a real advance. If Hitler can offer guarantees which to the Poles seem reasonable and reliable, the prospect of settlement will quickly become real. A chance to test the Fuehrer on this point may soon be forthcoming.

Return Of "l'Indifferent"

Scientists and men of letters have long sought to draw the line between genius and insanity, but with indifferent success. In many cases, the two are curiously mixed.

So it may be with Serge Bogousslavsky, who took Watteau's valuable little painting "l'Indifferent" from the Louvre and returned it to authorities after putting it "into shape." The young artist has a poor opinion of the usual method employed in restoring old masters. He has even written a book on this subject, and in the final chapter sought to explain his motive in stealing the precious canvas.

Certainly his was no ordinary crime, else the painting never would have been returned. Only a few blocks from the Louvre, Bogousslavsky was living and working in perfect peace. There was no need to give himself up unless, like the hero of "Crime And Punishment," he had deemed himself above the law until he had violated it, after which he found he was the unhappy possessor of a conscience.

As far as the thief's talent is concerned, however, there are many who will question the artistic pretensions of one who chooses Watteau as his favorite master, and "l'Indifferent" as his favorite painting. The Louvre authorities, for instance, did not even mention the little figure in their list of paintings to be saved in case of an emergency. Perhaps they will regard it with increased respect, now that Watteau's admirer has restored it, in more ways than one. At any rate, absence may have made the heart of the world grow fonder, and "l'Indifferent," only slightly modified and inclosed in a new frame, has gained new status in a world which was formerly inclined to return its "indifference" with interest.

The Humane Spirit

Years ago H. G. Wells observed that civilization is a race between education and catastrophe. If there is truth in that aphorism, the race would seem to be entering its decisive lap.

In many parts of the world civilization, measured not in terms of mechanical progress but as a measure of the liberation of the human spirit, is in a state bordering on collapse. In country after country the minds of men once free have become fettered. Education has been replaced by propaganda designed to crush free inquiry and make men wholly subservient to dictated ideas.

As the lights have gone out, one by one in other parts of the world, the uneasiness of democratic nations has understandably increased. How long, thoughtful persons ask, before the darkness envelops the lands still free?

In defending democracies against enemies from within and without, education has a tremendous role to play, but that role must be its historic role of a liberating force. It is this fact which gives point and pertinence to the World Congress on Education for Democracy which opened in New York yesterday under the sponsorship of Teachers College of Columbia University.

Participating in the three-day discussions are important leaders from this country and abroad. And it is hoped by the sponsors of the congress that out of their deliberations "will come a plan by which laymen and educators may continue to meet to discuss common educational problems and thus further the training for citizenship in a democracy."

The purpose is of the utmost current importance. Democracy, whether as a system of government or as a way of life, is not and cannot be self-perpetuating. It must rest on the continued understanding of its principles by those who live under its rule and on their readiness to make it work.

For, as Charles A. Beard, the eminent historian, pointed out in his address to the congress yesterday: "Unless the agencies of popular will can legislate appropriately and administer efficiently, then democratic forms will perish, no matter what oceans of ink are spilt and what flowers of eloquence bloom in their defense."

Democracy involves, therefore, far more than a system of popular government. Its perpetuation depends on the efficient adaptation of that government to meet the needs of the changing times, not least the economic needs. And in this endeavor the quality rather than the quantity of education is decisive.

Education, as Dr. Beard emphasized yesterday, "may point the way upward or downward. It may prepare the people for the fulfillment of a great mission or for subjection to sheer force." Its essential task, therefore, is to provide the knowledge required by citizens to make popular institutions effective in every sphere and in preserving civil liberties.

Himself a great teacher, Dr. Beard rightly emphasizes the importance in educating and cherishing and quickening the humane spirit. For "knowledge is not enough. Science is not enough. Both may be employed to kill as well as to heal . . . It is the humane spirit that points the way to the good life."

The Realistic School

Short Story by Bill Hullinger (age 11) in St. Nicholas.

Today was the day of the big game. Crosley University faced their bitterest rivals, Carlton Tech. The Carlton Ducks were favored over the visiting squad, the Crosley Bruins, by 9 to 8 odds.

Carlton scored 8 runs in the first and 2 in the second, driving pitchers Burgh, Smith and White to the showers. Johnny Wilson was the successor of White and held the home team.

Meanwhile, the Crosley Bruins were fighting desperately for runs and at the end of the eighth inning the score stood 10 to 9 in favor of Carlton.

With the bases loaded and two men away in the first of the ninth, Crosley's star leftfielder, Steve Johnson came to bat. There was a roar of applause by the Crosley rooters as Steve stepped into the batter's box. His big chance to make good! He had to get a hit!

The first pitch was high and inside, but called strike one. The next pitch was a ball as was the pitch following. The Bruin fans cheered!

The pitcher wound up and threw an out drop, called strike two. The next pitch was very high and the catcher walked out to settle the pitcher down.

The big pitch! Three balls and 2 strikes! This pitch would mean victory or defeat for both teams.

The pitcher wound up and pitched a sizzler. Steve fouled it into the stand.

The pitcher again wound up and threw another out drop. Steve swung hard. The game was over!! The fans cheered!! But not the Crosley fans, Steve struck out.

Civil Service

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The splendid prospect for greatly needed liberalization of the Civil Service retirement law having gone aglimmering for the time being, due to the opposition of certain great organizations to an increase to 4½ per cent in the salary deduction, raises the question whether any good purpose is served in treating practically the entire civil service of the Government as a unit in this matter.

Representatives of the organized employes in great branches of the Government service, numbering tens if not hundreds of thousands, indicated to the Senate and House conferees the willingness of their organizations to accede to the terms proposed, namely, a 4½ per cent deduction from salary, in order to obtain the very substantial benefits contemplated by the proposed legislation. The representatives of other large organizations declared their unwillingness to go beyond a deduction of more than 4 per cent. The conferees thereupon dropped the matter.

Since these great branches or services are separate and distinct, permitting of different treatment without resulting confusion or embarrassment, it would seem the part of wisdom, in making plans for action when Congress again convenes, to provide for a division by which those services willing to pay 4½ per cent of salary for increased benefits in the matter of voluntary retirement, etc., could do so, while services unwilling to accede to the terms proposed could remain outside—this by their own voluntary act.

There is nothing novel in this proposal. At the present time the personnel of some Federal services are outside the scope of the retirement law, and other units, the Diplomatic Service, for instance, have a retirement system of their own, in which, by the way, the contribution or deduction exceeds 4½ per cent of salary.

Can anyone advance any good reason why the personnel in great distinct units of the Government service should be denied the benefits of legislation they desire and to the terms and conditions of which they are agreeable, because other units, equally distinct and severable, do not wish to go along?

Biting the Hand

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In a distressed home the interest on the trust as well as taxes were two years in arrears. The owners had been hoping to sell for enough above the indebtedness to take them back to their old home; but no sale seemed possible. The holder of the trust hesitated to foreclose because it would mean taking over the property or sustaining a cash loss.

The writer called at this home to discuss a possible sale at a price. Coming to the subject of possible sale, the owners almost gleefully replied to this effect: "We do not have to sacrifice our property now; the Government not only provided the funds to pay off the trust, back interest and taxes, but actually advanced the money necessary for needed repairs. The monthly payments on the loan are so low we can meet them easily. We are now sitting pretty and don't have to sell." Soon the subject changed, and believe it or not, the owners made a vicious attack on Roosevelt and all his works. "Yes," I replied, "this Administration has ruined the country just as it has ruined you." There are some millions of the same kind of people, no doubt.

The smart boys quite dexterously picture the utter ruin of business and the country generally by the New Deal, but no one seems to dare paint a picture of what was and might have been but for the New Deal. An honest painting might reveal such horrors that they shudder to undertake it. Here are some suggestions for such painting.

The election of President Roosevelt held the situation in abeyance. The words of Mr. Roosevelt in his inaugural address worked like magic. Brooding and despair of millions was changed into hope and confidence. Roosevelt saved the day for the country!

But for the hope and confidence inspired by President Roosevelt in his inaugural address, there might have been life, treasure and stability lost to us beside which the added public debt would have been insignificant. And besides, all this money is not lost. Billions in needed public improvements resulted, to say nothing of rehabilitation of man power and morale.

Three Of A Kind

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In The Post of August 9, 1939, appeared two letters by Messrs. Cohen and Dolinsky. Both were unanimous in condemning fascism and nazism and in like manner were unanimous in portraying Russia as a democratic country.

No true believer in democracy will quarrel with their complaint against the sins of these "isms." Both nazism and fascism are repugnant to real democracy, as we know it here in America. Both are contrary to the American tradition of individual liberty and representative government. Both practice the same compulsion upon individuals and minorities. However, it is surprising to note that both writers failed to see, much less condemn, communism as a dictatorship of the worst kind. Why? They would have us believe that Russia is a democratic country. Let us see.

In March, 1917, Kerensky established a democratic form of government, with a parliament and an executive having a limited term. Why did the Communists destroy it if they were interested in democracy? Communism denies freedom of speech, property rights, the right of its citizens to organize an opposition party. Is that democracy?

The Soviet Code of May 18, 1929, says: (a) No minister of religion has a vote or any civic right. (b) No minister of religion can give regular religious instruction even in private to person under 18 years of age. (c) No religious services can be especially organized for children or for women. (d) The distribution of religious literature is forbidden. Does that look like democracy?

Messrs. Cohen and Dolinsky also made the mistake of calling the former loyalist regime in Spain democratic. "The proof of the pudding" is not in its label but in its content. These gentlemen overlooked the historical fact that both loyalist Spain and Russia started out republican but both ended communist. Also, that whenever communism prevails a counteraction rises, such as nazism and fascism.

Let us be clear about this. All these three "isms" are undemocratic and un-American. All lovers of true democracy must fight not only nazism and fascism but communism as well. We don't want any of them!

Urges American Aloofness

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: For the past several years the European situation has figured most prominently in the American press. In screaming headlines the newspapers never lost an opportunity to keep the public more than well informed as to the hectic conditions existing in the various countries of Europe. In boxcar type we are told that Europe is on the brink of war. Much is said regarding the totalitarian states versus the democracies. The proponents of war make much ado over the apparent fact that the governments of Adolph Hitler and Benito Mussolini are pitted against France, England, Rumania et cetera. They tell us that war is inevitable.

Be that as it may, we, the people of the United States, should not only exercise every effort to "play down" this war talk but should do everything within our power to prevent the United States from entering another European war. The European situation, so the English and French newspapers inform us, parallels in many respects, that of 1914. It certainly corresponds in one respect, namely their (France and England) attempt to embroil the United States in another European catastrophe.

England, by sending her former secretary of foreign affairs, Anthony Eden, to the United States last fall was supposed to have made a gesture of good will. But actually it was a very clever trick to keep us "war conscious" and sympathetic toward England in order that we may not protest too bitterly when she calls on us for men and money.

The democracies of Europe are constantly bewailing to the United States what they term an "impairment" and "curtailment" of the people's liberty under the dictatorships. To an extent this may be true but if recent statistics are accurate Uncle Sam has enough suffering humanity in these United States to occupy his time for several years to come.

If England and France were not tacitly assured of our assistance in the "scheduled" war they would move more cautiously and discreetly than has been their custom in the past. Would it not be good policy, therefore, for the United States to take a firm, strong neutrality stand, promising them nothing in way of men or armaments? This should serve to deter some of those European countries that are so militaristically inclined.

"Particeps Criminis"

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Your editorial "Particeps Criminis?" was most acceptable and fitting. A vigorous campaign along the lines you indicate is urgently needed from the decent press.

The "Hollywood talent scout" murderer has had an endless field of luscious victims ripe for picking. The "ingenuous village girls" in such tragedies are no more susceptible to the blandishments of perverted "charm men" than tens of thousands of "big city" girls, conditioned incessantly by the "romantic" rubbish of screen and radio.

A quietus seems to have been put upon the alley cat crooners after trenchant thrusts by Cardinal O'Connell and others which were reiterated and widely published.

As you say, the rubbish is all too often abetted by the newspapers.

Lay on!

Disenchantment

IN LONDON in the spring I met Orville. And from the moment we were introduced I knew by a certain deep and indescribable look in his eye that I could talk with him about anything—the curious and the wonderful, and that which chills the blood and curls the hair.

We were sitting in the lounge of an old hotel in Russell Square where the lights were dim and the walls were musty, and where the waiter, who brought us Scotch and ginger beer, was himself no less ancient than the wainscoting that went clear up to meet the lofty ceiling. It seemed fitting then that Orville should tell me about a ghost who has inhabited a baronial manor in Warsaw since 1821 and that I should tell him about Sontata, the girl who was rendered headless by an accident in a French munitions plant and who when I saw her last fall was being kept alive for science and for the New York World's Fair.

When I had finished, Orville set his glass down and, leaning forward, patted my hand. "You surely don't believe she's real, do you? We've had any number of headless girls here in London, you know, in the past few months." The truth is I had allowed myself to grow too fond of Sontata. I doted on her. And when I was asked so suddenly to relinquish my love, there came a stubborn look on my face, which forced Orville to add, "My dear, I know that trick, and I could tell you how the illusion is created . . . but . . ."

But Orville happens to be a conjuror, making professional appearances in London. He belongs moreover to an exclusive conjuror's club whose members would no more disclose a professional secret than a big league catcher would reveal what he says to the pitcher when he walks out to hand him back the ball. So Orville hastily reverted to the ghost, and told me how in faultless evening clothes, outmoded now by 118 years, an elderly Polish gentleman with no corporeality to boast of, stalks about the manor. There is a cigaret always between his lips, and he carries in his hand a lighted candle.

The present baron and his family, after failing in an attempt to have the ghost exorcized by the bishop, became more or less resigned to having the old fellow about. Of course, it is a bit uncomfortable to have guests to dinner, and those that come never stay overnight. The ghost's features are strange to the family, as no face of his cast appears among the ancestral portraits. We therefore concluded, Orville and I, that the phantom himself was probably the last house guest the manor ever had, and that he was interrupted on his way to bed—and sent unhouseled and unaneled to meet his Maker.

"But how do you know all this?" I asked.

"My cousin is English tutor to the children at the manor and he writes to me," replied Orville. "How can you be quite sure your cousin isn't just a little . . .?" I persisted.

"I've been invited to come to Warsaw and find out for myself," said he, "and I leave for Poland in a fortnight."

Returning from Europe I stopped briefly in New York. Thoughts of Sontata had continued to pop up in my head every now and then. Although what Orville said had somewhat damped my ardor for the lady, I was yet unable to put her completely out of mind—in the same way that a man in love cannot instantly stem the tide of his affection upon first receiving assurances that he has been betrayed. I determined to make a special trip to the fair for the purpose of seeking out Sontata, but in a manner I shall never be able completely to explain—although I suspect it had something to do with an unconscious clinging belief that there was only one headless girl—I was sidetracked on my way downtown, and found myself instead at Ripley's Odditorium in the vicinity of Forty-eighth street. The feature attraction was a headless girl.

When the curtain was drawn, and I saw a trim little body, manicured hands, and shapely legs in silken hose, beneath the rubber tubings that rose from the girl's shoulders, I knew at once she was not my old friend. Sontata at least had looked the part. This girl's name, one of the "believe-it-or-not" boys announced, was Elsa Schopenhauer, and she had lost her pretty little head in a munitions plant in Czecho-Slovakia. "The pox take it," I said to myself, "a girl's head is shattered every time a whistle blows in the munitions factories of Europe, and science will keep them all alive waving their arms and legs in people's faces!"

And then the showman had two assistants place a screen in front of the place where Elsa's head was supposed to be, saying: "Since we're here to entertain you, and not to fool you, allow me to introduce Miss Mary X, of New York," and with those words the shapely legs stepped off the platform bringing with them not only the torso but a lovely blond head as good as yours, and better than mine. (Good old Orville!")

I didn't get to the fair at all, but I have since learned on good authority that the girl on the Midway is from Germany, that her name is Olga, and she works in three shifts! They don't use the munitions factory story, however, but gravely assure the customers that this girl (whose name ought to be Hydra) lost her three heads in a train accident at Darmstadt. That may be a delicate touch on the part of the showmen who perhaps do not wish to embassass any of their patrons by referring to the manufacture of ammunition in Germany.

So adieu, my sweet Sontata, and likewise good-by. Your vision will come no more in the dead of night to curdle my blood—and the thought of you will no longer fall on my half-waking consciousness like a spray of icicles from a blowtorch. You must henceforth give place in my phantasmal dreams to a nice old gentleman who may be seen any night in the year at a certain baronial house in Warsaw; and who is no less real because you can put your fist through him. And I know he's there because Orville wrote to me.

Fair Enough

A Misstatement

GEORGGE MEANY, the president of the New York State Federation of Labor, misstated the case when he reported to the convention of that body that there had been a reaction against labor in the legislative field throughout the Nation. What he should have said was that there has been a reaction against extortion, mob violence, racketeering, an attempt to censor the entire American press in the interests of the New Deal and later, in favor of communism, and the establishment of an irresponsible invisible government in the hands of union leaders. That is a far different situation. The protest is directed against both Meany's own A. F. of L. and John Lewis' C. I. O., but not against men who work or want to work.

On the contrary, unless the Legislatures of the States and Nation and the various units of Government do intervene, the workers themselves will have no protection against vicious oppression at the hands of professional unioneers, many of them Communists, who have been dealing with working people in a manner comparable to that of the Chicago racketeers who sold "protection" to businessmen.

If the individual refuses to join a union which is going to "protect" him from his boss, he may suffer worse harm, including physical damage, than that which the union was going to protect him from.

Communist Party Enjoys Privileges

NO LONGER is the boss permitted to regulate his politics and religious activities, unless, of course, the boss happens to be an enterprise of the Communist Party, which enjoys special privileges as an employer. No longer is the boss legally permitted to extort a kickback from his wages. That is the privilege of the union. If it can be proved or even shown circumstantially that the boss has phoned the workman's wife that her husband will come down of a broken skull or leg as a consequence of joining a union, the boss is pretty sure to be punished.

But if the union threatens similar discipline for refusal to join, that is just one of the regrettable irregularities which are bound to occur, and, after all, a matter of no consequence.

The employer may not fire a man for joining a union, but a union can compel the employed to fire him for refusal to join, even though that union be a political organization working for the election of candidates to whom the individual is firmly opposed on patriotic principles. The union can compel the individual to contribute to the campaign funds of a party which the individual regards as dangerous to the country.

A union can establish control stations on the highway and compel the farmer to take on a passenger from the union for the ride to the market and force him to pay union wages as a teamster. If the farmer refuses, he may blow a tire and break his neck in a ditch or be hauled off his flivver and beaten to death. And if neither of these accidents befall him, he may discover that he can't sell his stuff in the market because the market itself is under the "protection" of the teamsters or some allied union.

Union Officials Have Kidded Public

MR. MEANEY'S own A. F. of L. at this moment is disturbed by the affairs of one of its members—the theatrical employes—which demands an initiation fee of $1,000 from some of its members as a license to work, and then collects a higher income tax than the legitimate Government of the country. And the experiences of theatrical producers are full of incidents in which members of this union had to be accepted on the pay rolls and paid higher salaries for doing only the most nominal duties or absolutely none. Otherwise their shows would have been closed.

Mr. Meany should have examined the causes of the reaction, in which he would have learned that unions have attempted to limit and regulate competition in business and to license business firms to operate. He would have learned, too, that this reaction is directed against mobs of rioters, not necessarily strikers, but expert street fighters, moved into situations in which two unions are fighting for the power and dues, to destroy property and beat up American workmen whose only offense is a determination to earn a living at their regular employment.

Union officials such as Mr. Meany have kidded the public a long time with the bland pretense that they regarded such reactions as reactions against labor. They know, however, that the object of this reactionary feeling is not labor but the arrogant criminal oppression of labor by certain unionsers.

Army Plane Falls In Pacific; 4 Hurt

San Jone, Costa Rica, Aug. 15 (AP). A United States Army plan was broken into four parts and two of its four-man crew seriously injured today when a motor failer, causing the ship tocrash into the Pacific Ocean near Parrita, 60 miles south of Puntarenas.

The bi-motored plans was one of six en route from Panama to San Antonio, Tex. Lieut. Frank Smith and Second Lieut. Jack E. Merrill were the most seriously injured. Lieut. Leon W. Gray and Sergt. Edward Payesky, the other two members of the crew, were only slightly hurt.

Hitler Demands Danzig by Sept. 2

Danzig committee, was being studied in London. France, Poland and Sweden also presumably were given copies of the report, and it seemed obvious that German and Italian officials knew the general tenor of the talks.

Although Nazis professed ignorance of the subject matter discussed, and the British foreign office insisted the report was strictly a secret, one high British official was quoted as saying Hitler had told Burckhardt that he must have Danzig—or a promise of its return—in time for him to announce a "new bloodless conquest" at Nuremberg September 2.

Hitler is said by this source to have declared he is considering a proclamation conferring Reich citizenship on Danzigers, a move which he indicated might be followed by a "plebiscite" among Danzigers on "return to the Reich."

He is represented as saying he would offer Poland certain rights in the Port of Danzig, and would be willing to negotiate a new trade and "non-aggression" treaty.

Hitler Does Talking

According to some observers the Hitler-Burckhardt interview lasted little more than half an hour Friday night. Hitler, it was said, did most of the talking, expressing in his customary forceful language his own views about Danzig, and his irritation with "local incidents" in the Free City, for which he held Burckhardt partly responsible.

Hitler, according to the same observers, then asked Burckhardt "a few questions," and without giving the professor much of a chance to speak, ended the monologue and showed Burckhardt the door. Burckhardt, it was said, returned to Danzig "suffering complete disappointment."

British official quarters said Burckhardt had not asked for any "guidance" from London before seeing Hitler, had not been given any, and saw the Fuehrer on his own responsibility. Officials thought it probable that if Burckhardt had an opportunity he gave Hitler his own "estimate" of where Britain stands on the Danzig issue.

The persons most concerned about Burckhardt were the Poles. Burckhardt, they said, had always dreamed of stepping into the limelight as a peace-maker, and the Nazis, aware of this ambition, invited him to meet Hitler. Subsequently, it was argued, the British press unwittingly played the Nazis' game by dishing up a score of rumors and reports about Danzig peace moves, thus focusing attention on the problem, as one which "must be solved."

Officials and Nazi party members insist that a Danzig solution will be a bloodless one.

This may mean the German leaders are convinced that Poland, like Czecho-Slovakia, will yield and that the German army may soon peacefully march into Danzig, lost in the World War, and into at least a section of the corridor which would connect Germany with its one separated segment, East Prussia.

The hurried return to Rome by airplane of the Italian foreign minister, Count Ciano, after his conferences with the German foreign minister and Hitler last week-end were interpreted in some quarters as an indication that whatever action Italy might be prepared to undertake to support Germany had to be synchronized quickly.

Peaceful Solution Derived

The desirability of a peaceful solution of the Danzig question was said on authority to have been agreed upon when Hitler and Foreign Minister Von Ribbentrop conferred over the week-end with Italian Foreign Minister Count Ciano.

The two powers of the Rome-Berlin military alliance also agreed, however, that there could be no turning back and that if it came to a test of strength between the axis and the western powers, Italy and Germany must throw everything into the balance and fight to put through the broad demands covering Europe and the Mediterranean.

An examination of the axis military position was reported to have convinced Hitler, Ribbentrop and Ciano that the totalitarian position is favorable for a showdown—better now than it probably ever will be again.

Foreign observers believe that if Hitler persuades the western powers to settle the Danzig question as a local issue it will not mean the end of Nazi ambitions by any means.

The Nazis frankly admit their eventual aim is the establishment of full leadership in that portion of central and southeastern Europe which they designate as the Reich "Lebensraum," or vital space to live.

Poles Want Smigly-Rydz

Warsaw, Aug. 15 (U.P.).—Polish leaders tonight rallied to a movement to install Marshal Edward Smigly-Rydz, inspector general of the armed froces and the nation's "strong man," as president of the republic.

Prominent leaders of various parties, meeting in Cracok ten days ago, were understood to have agreed on sponsoring the 53-year-old Smigly-Rydz for the presidency when President Moscicki completes his second term next spring.

With Smigly-Rydz in the presidency, it was argued, Poland would be able to present a strong front against any menaces to her independence or territorial integrity and would, at the same time, achieve a greater internal unity.

Mail Order Teeth Practically Up To Supreme Court

By the Associated Press.

The Supreme Court may decide next term whether people can "eat, laugh, talk and chew" with mail-order teeth.

Dr. S. B. Heininger, of Chicago, whose views on the subject do not coincide with those of the Postoffice Department, brought his dispute to the high court yesterday in an appeal from a decision of the District of Columbia Court of Appeals.

In 1937 the Postoffice Department charged the dentist with conducting a scheme for obtaining money through the mails by false representations. The department contended artificial dentures could not be made properly by letting the patient take his own impression and mail it to the dentist for manufacture of the teeth.

A Postoffice inspector—presumably hand-picked for the job—testified that teeth made for him by this system were unsatisfactory, and that he could not eat, laugh, talk or chew with them in his mouth.

The dentist said he had 3,700 letters from satisfied customers.

Rebellious Democrats

Women's Blacklist

ON PAGE 20 of the August issue of the Democratic Digest is an innovation which will catch the eyes of practicing politicians. It is a list of the members of the House of Representatives—47 Democrats and 146 Republicans—who voted against consideration of the President's lending-spending program.

The list is common property, of course, and was widely published in the daily press. But the significance of its publication in the Democratic Digest will be appreciated by the politicians. For this is the official organ of the women's division of the Democratic National Committee.

The Democratic Digest has been consistently loyal to the President. The New Deal has been its gospel for seven years. But with the studied obliviousness characteristic of such party organs—even when they are brightly edited—it has managed to maintain the pleasing fiction that the Democrats are just one happy family of Roosevelt rooters.

In the early days of the Roosevelt Administration, James A. Farley kept a tally sheet of Democratic votes for and against every Administration measure in Congress. The record was helpful in distributing patronage, and the knowledge that it existed—and that there still was plenty of patronage to dish out—held individual aberrations to a minimum.

Committee Caught Between Two Fires

THIS WAS ALL "behind-the-scenes" stuff, however. Outwardly, through all the publications and utterances traceable to the Democratic National Committee, etiquette was preserved. The rule was: "Never smear a Democrat." Charley Michelson kept his guns trained on the Republicans and brought his most withering sarcasm to bear on those who were unkind enough to find deep significance in recurring and broadening revolts against the President.

During the last two years, the Democratic National Committee has been caught between two fires. The anti-New Deal Democrats have protested on the rare occasions when the publicity issuing from it has seemed to hint criticism of them. (More than a year ago Vice President Garner raised Cain when he found that editorials friendly to him were being classified as "unfavorable" in the national committee's periodic summaries of editorial comment.) From the other side the national committee has been lambasted by the New Dealers who have felt that it failed to "go down the line" for the President in his efforts to liberalize the party.

Now, for the first time in its history (I am informed), the Democratic Digest prints a list of Democratic rebels. It doesn't denounce them, but it groups them with the Republicans who voted against the President's lending-spending program and quotes his comment to the effect that while the House had a right to refuse to consider this program, the public has a right to know where the responsibility lies.

"We, therefore, print below the names of those who voted to deny the lending bill a rule and thereby prevented its consideration and passage," the Democratic Digest explains.

Democrat Rebels Listed With G. O. P.

AT THE BOTTOM of the page, in blackface type, appears the vaguely ominous announcement that: "Other important bills which continue active will be discussed in later issues of the Democratic Digest."

The women's division of the Democratic National Committee has a corps of enthusiastic workers stretching down through the States to the counties. It has done more, probably, than the men's division to spread factual material about the Roosevelt program. It lists publicity directors in more than 1,200 counties.

Political observers have written millions of words about the strained relations between the President and James A. Farley. They have generally overlooked the fact that Mrs. Thomas McAllister, able and energetic director of the women's division of the Democratic National Committee, has been going around the country for months telling the women of the party that the Presidential candidate in 1940 must be "a liberal candidate on a liberal platform."

When it comes to picking delegates to the National Convention, the women's influence is subsidiary to the men's, but women vote, and, outside the South, the women in the Democratic Party have enough power to be reckoned with. The Democratic Digest's discreetly presented blacklist is of more than symbolic importance.

C. I. O. Charges Maritime Board Is Anti-Labor

By the Associated Press

After accusing the Maritime Commission of engaging in "anti-labor" activities, the maritime committee of the C. I. O. voted yesterday to conduct its own investigation of the commission preparatory to asking Congress to make a similar inquiry.

William Standard, counsel for the National Maritime Union, told reporters the union also hoped eventually to compel the commission, by court action, to permit seamen employed on Government ships to bargain collectively under the labor relations act.

Standard said the organization's inquiry would cover contracts, subsidy applications, proposed shipping routes, and the question of whether responsible persons were applying for Government subsidies.

The Summer And The President

THE AMERICAN foreign policy, reiterated often in words, adds up verbally to about the following: Noninterference in the political affairs of Europe; the maintenance of the Monroe Doctrine; the open door in the Far East; the maintenance of the sanctity of treaties, and a readiness at all times peacefully to arbitrate differences and to collabroate in the reduction of armaments.

As a matter of fact, we can hardly be said to have a foreign policy at all, and the Congressional action in rejecting the Administration's recommendations regarding neutrality makes it difficult for us to have one. Without implementation, policy is merely platitude. The Kellogg-Briand pact denounced aggressors, and the President has suggested quarantining aggressors, or attempting to halt them by every method "short of war." But we have no definition of what constitutes aggression, and it is hardly possible for any one nation unilaterally to find one.

Indeed, the strategy of the foreign policy of "dynamic" powers is to create a situation in which they can claim to be the victims of aggression. Danzig is an illustration. The National Socialist plan is to engineer a coup in Danzig, by peaceful means—peaceful means nowadays meaning propaganda, house-by-house organization, and steady terror—in other words, revolutionary means. Danzig will then declare its intention to join the Reich, and the declaration will immediately be accepted and Danzig declared part of German soil. Resistance to this unilateral decision on the part of the Poles will mean aggression against Germany, and the question of who was aggressor will be settled by history, according to who writes the history.

Japan Closing Door With U. S. Help

WE STILL assert the open door in the Far East, but meanwhile the door is being steadily closed by Japan, until now with the assistance of our scrap iron and our oil. The theory that we alone can stop this process by means short of war is highly questionable. An embargo of the United States alone against Japan would certainly cripple and inconvenience her, but it would also furnish her with the best possible argument for her own very clear foreign policy, which is to create self-sufficiency for herself in the Far East by establishing a monopolistic area in China for her sole exploitation.

Sanctions undertaken by one nation alone—partial sanctions—demonstrably will not work. We saw the example in Ethiopia. American oil is oil in the hands of American companies and it is scattered throughout the world. Trade is for profit, and highly ingenious. It does not need to clear for its eventual goal, and unless the whole world agrees on a policy of economic strangulation, the loopholes will be so numerous that the trade will slip through.

Economic sanctions against Japan imposed by the United States alone will not stop Japan in China. They may serve to rivet Japan inexorably to the axis powers, to destroy our own trade with Japan, and eventually we will still be faced both by the loss of our markets in China and by the permanent loss of our market in Japan. For Japan's object in taking China is to make herself economically independent of us and of everyone else.

Modern Conquest Political, Economic

THEN, there is the Monroe Doctrine. The essence of the Monroe Doctrine is that the United States will not tolerate that any South American state should become the vassal of a non-American power. This is a condition devoutly to be wished, but just how are we going to prevent it?

We still seem to think that this possible vassalage can only arise if some non-American power lands troops in South America and proceeds to take over state after state by force. This is old-fashioned stuff. Conquest in the present day is undertaken by totalitarian political and economic penetration. The foreign power arrives not in cruisers but on regular ships, and its envoys are not soldiers but commercial and political agents who get possession of strategical economic points and engineer revolutions, setting up puppet states which then enter a political and economic bloc, and from then on take orders.

If we seriously wanted to prevent the possibility of South America, a continent with the most intimate cultural ties to Spain, from becoming eventually an outpost of the axis powers then the opportunity lay in the last three years in Spain, where an active and positive policy pursued with with others could have determined the outcome of the Spanish civil war—to the obliteration in Spain of both fascism and communism.

But, instead, we chose to regard the Spanish civil war as a purely European affair and to keep clear of interference.

Which leads us to the fundamental fallacy of the Congressional thinking about Europe as represented in their ideas about neutrality.

Europe's Crisis Is World Crisis

WHAT IS COMING to a head in Europe is not a decision about Europe. It is a decision about this planet.

It has nothing to do with the rectification of the Treaty of Versailles. The issue involves the total redistribution of world power and the complete reorganization of the whole world, along revolutionary lines that, if successful, will end the very conception of Europe. The plan of the "dynamic" powers is to divide the earth into monopolistic areas, or "spheres of influence," to be administered by a new form of imperialism consisting of state socialism under absolute government, each area ruled by a master race over subject "aliens" of second-class citizenship. These will work in return for economic and political security in a permanent condition of benevolent slavery.

We are asked not to become entangled in this. The answer is that we are already entangled. If it succeeds, with or without war, either by "appeasement" in cahoots with Britain and France—which is still not outside the limits of possibility—or by a showdown in war, it will involve every point of our foreign policy. There will be no open door in the Far East no Monroe Doctrine, and no Europe. All the small states will disappear or be federated into "followers of Germany, Italy or Great Britain—if the British Empire survives—and Japan.

We shall then have isolation confined to North America. And this isolation will involve a social revolution. For the system, however modified, under which we live will be unable to exist in a world of monopolized and controlled trade administered by autocratically controlled systems of state socialism. We shall have to come into the new world-wide new deal on the terms dictated to us or fight alone or perish.

It is toward this issue that Congress asks us to maintain a neutrality that is the equivalent of complete disinterestedness. The failure of Congress to act on the neutrality bill has brought the issue much nearer to fateful decision, for it has strengthened the courage of the axis powers and discouraged those elements in Germany who have been exercising a somewhat restraining hand.

And the danger that our foreign policy will become an issue in the forthcoming Presidential election is the greatest possible danger to our domestic peace. Both political parties are under a fearful responsibility. For unless they agree, and and agree to put our foreign policy on a national basis above partisan politics, we shall have world issues fought out on our soil in a manner that will divide poth parties and divide the country end to end. Given the possibility of a postponement of a world crisis until 1940, such a Nation-wide controversy in America will, with almost mathematical certainty, set the moment for Armageddon.

The nearest approach to party unity came in the Allen amendment to the Bloom bill (the Administration's bill), which would have simply repealed the existing legislation and returned neutrality to the domain of international law. It looked as though sufficient Republican voters could have been marshaled for this solution. It is to be hoped that they may be marshaled again at the earliest opportunity before a world crisis of an acute nature makes the problem more hotly controversial and more dangerous.

Widow Tells Of Japanese Sentry's Insult

Nipponese Explanation Unsatisfactory, Her Version Sent Here

By the Associated Press

Tientsin, Aug. 15.—The United States Consulate was reported to have sent Washington a full report today on the slapping of a 59-year-old American widow by a Japanese sentry after finding a Japanese explanation unsatisfactory.

It was understood the report followed a visit by Japanese Vice Consul N. Nishida to the consulate to attempt adjustment of the incident. It involved Mrs. Mary Frances Richard, who was slapped and detained for an hour yesterday when she sought to enter the Japanese-blockaded French concession.

Japanese said the differences arose because of language difficulties and Mrs. Richard's alleged "arrogance."

Was Carrying Vegetables

Mrs. Richard, a native of San Francisco, who has been a resident of China 34 years, said the slapping occurred when she tried to enter the concession with vegetables and fruit "prohibited" in the blockaded area.

She was carrying the produce into the foreign area for use in her small canning business which she operates to supplement her income as a teacher of English.

Her account follows:

The sentry ignored her identification card issued by the American consulate and ordered her into a shed where another Japanese ordered her to dump her baskets.

She was about to comply when she saw a Chinese in front of her removing his trousers while undergoing search by the Japanese. Thereupon she turned and dumped the vegetables and fruit in another place.

Slapped With Open Palm

This apparently angered the sentry, an argument ensued and the Japanese slapped her hard with his open palm.

Mrs. Richard, who held a personal card from Nishida requesting that the sentries extend her courtesy, said the vice consul appeared later, apologized and offered to take her home in his car, but that she declined.

She said Nishida accused her of being "very angry" and that she retorted:

"Young man, I'm not angry but humiliated and insulted. I only want justice."

Mrs. Richard said the sentry kept one pumpkin, but returned her other vegetables.

U.S. Role in China Assailed

Anaconda, Mont., Aug. 15 (AP).—Presence of United States cruisers in Chinese waters, Representative Thorkelson (Democrat), of Montana, told 100 delegates to the convention of Montana Red Men, constitutes "a provocation of war" with Japan.

The Representative said he believed "it would be much better" if Americans and American cruisers were ordered home to let China "settle its own problems."

France Regrets Film Smuggling

Sumner Welles, acting Secretary of State, said yesterday the incident involving introduction of films into the United States in French diplomatic pouches in violation of customs regulations was now closed.

Welles said he had received a note from Count de Saint Quentin, the French Ambassador, telling him the French government had begun an independent investigation of the case last March and expressing his regrets for the occurrence.

Welles said he was glad to accept the Ambassador's assurances misuse of the pouch was not motivated by a desire to evade the customs duties.

The Once Over

A Voter Reasons It Out

I do not think I'm always right—
At times I see my errors;
The thought of criticism does
Not fill my soul with terrors.
When I'm opposed I don't get glum
And steadily get glummer . . .
There is no doubt I'm Tweedledum—
And maybe Tweedledummer!

II

I hold a debt can get too big
And even be a menace;
I see a difference between Bookkeeping and lawn tennis;
I do not like to think I am
An economic slummer—
I'm very much like Tweedledum
And also Tweedledummer.

III

I think the lessons of the past
Are sometimes worth attention!
I do not think my enemies
Are subjects for detention;
I don't insist that all is well
When things get bum (and bummer);
I wonder am I Tweedledum
Or merely Tweedledummer?

IV

Two sides I see to every case—
I welcome frank discussion;
Against all those who disagree
My manner is not Prussian;
I'd like to run for President
(I feel I am a comer)
But can't; I am a Tweedledum
Or else a Tweedledummer.

V

I lean a little bit to thrift
And pay just as I go, sir;
To pleas for strict economy
I shout no vibrant, "No sir;"
I like to see where I am bound
In winter, spring and summer;
It's plain that I am Tweedledum
If not quite Tweedledummer.

VI

I think that wild extravagance
Should sometimes be averted;
To "Danger" signs on railroad tracks
I'm easily converted;
I do not think a microphone
Can quite replace a plumber . . .
I guess, if not a Tweedledum,
I am a Tweedledummer.

L'ENVOI

I often cheer F. D. R.
And make each cheer a whopper;
At other times I think him wrong—
Which ought to be quite proper;
One day I'd vote for him again,
The next for some one new, sir . . .
I'm Tweedledum, it's plain to see,
And Tweedledummer, too, sir.

'These Glamour Girls' Boosts Stocks of Three

Previewed Film Play Lampoons 'Debbies;' Korda's 'Four Feathers' for Palace; News Notes and Gossip of the Theater

SOME OF US are not too sure precisely what "glamour" is, but there seems to be a lot of it in "These Glamour Girls," coming along to the screen at Loew's Capitol Theater on Friday. There are girls all over the place. Glamour, we suspect in our artless, naive way, has something to do with girls—or vice versa.

To the drama desks that previewed this Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer subject yesterday afternoon, it became increasingly difficult to catalogue the thing specifically as the reels unwound. Of course, there is a resounding slap dealt class consciousness, the foibles of the rich and their alleged superiority to the honest poor, but so many elements enter into the teaching of the salutary lesson in social behavior that it seems easiest to denominate the picture as just a lot of good, clean fun, with a couple of heart-pangs and a little remorse thrown in.

BELL

One thing, however, is certain. "These Glamour Girls" boasts three feminine players in its cast who really have it, if we know what glamour is supposed to be. They are Lana Turner, the vibrant young blonde who has gone up the ladder rungs at a time in four pictures; Marsha Hunt, the almost-Washingtonian, who has her most fruitful opportunity in many months here, and Jane Bryan, who is able to imbue her work with a degree of naturalness, honesty and intensity beyond that within the command of most of her sisters of the cinema.

Lana Turner first came to notice as the stormy little vamp in "Love Finds Mickey Rooney." She magnified the agreeable impression made in that juvenile romantic comedy, with Robert Young in "Rich Man, Poor Girl" and lost nothing of her prestige in "Young Dr. Kildare." Now she is cast as the taxi-dancer tossed in with a group of Park avenue snobs and has the time of her life. Marsha Hunt, as the "college widow" debutante who has been around the school proms for years on end, reveals a wholly new facet of a rich and versatile talent. They have given her an exit that is a little too sensational in this one, but there can be no gainsaying the value she has been to the film up to that tragic moment. And Jane Bryan—leading woman with James Cagney and George Raft in "Each Dawn I Die," incidentally—if she isn't careful, will find herself another Margaret Sullavan the first thing she knows.

Anita Louise, Ann Rutherford and the rest of "These Glamour Girls"—with the exception of Mary Beth Hughes—are already pretty well up there.

But there are some boys in the cast, too—some glamour and some plain, or garden, variety. Lew Ayres, Tom Brown, Owen Davis, Jr., former member of the National Theater Players; Ernest Truex, Dennie Moore and scads of others are among them. The picture, you should know, takes its punch at the "No. 1 Deb" business via the taxi-dance hall and the week-end house parties at dear old Kingsford College. Such goings-on! And does Kingsford hate Harvard!

So, if you have been worrying about what might have become of them, Arthur De Titta, associate European director of Fox Movietone News, and his vivacious wife, Helen, are at Cannes, "seeing some of this beautiful country and resting a few days." You can have the stamp off the card, if you're saving them—or even if you aren't.

This Master Tommy Lewis, playing the small son of Ruth Chatterton and Barry Thomson in "You Can't Eat the Goldfish," out at Panjandrum Stephen E. Cochran's Olney Theater this week, is a youngster worth watching. Tommy has a pretty sure sense of timing and an equally keen notion of what a "punch line" is all about, and must be put down as about the most agile comedian in the cast. Why the screen hasn't gobbled him up is one of the mysteries of show business. Or has he been in pictures?

A great deal remains to be done to it, but to these aging eyes and ears there seems to be enough "stuff" in "You Can't Eat the Goldfish" to have more than an even chance among the lighter of the racy Broadway comedies—especially with Miss Chatterton and Mr. Thomson doing such engaging work in the leads. And the pert Miss Dorothea Eller, she belongs in there too, as the elder daughter. In short, it is "big time" entertainment they are putting on out at Olney this week. Cool ride, too.

Speaking of juvenile actors, the Glen Echo Playhouse is in quest of a junior Booth, between the ages of 6 and 12, for the role of Lady MacDuff's son in their forthcoming production of Shakespeare's "Macbeth." Call MIchigan 5417 and leave your number to be called back for appointment. Hope they find another Tommy Lewis.

There obviously is no monopoly on the hit-and-run proposition of switching motion picture bookings. No sooner has the Earle supplanted "Angels Wash Their Faces" with "The Old Maid" than word comes shooting along that "The Man in the Iron Mask" will not follow "Stanley and Livingstone," at Loew's Palace. Alexander Korda's Technicolor production of "Four Feathers" will follow the jungle epic instead. Quite a picture, this "Four Feathers," according to all report. It was adapted from the A. E. W. Mason novel by R. C. Sherriff, author of "Journey's End," and has Ralph Richardson, C. Aubrey Smith, John Clements and June Duprez at the head of a cast that is imposing both in length and personnel. This story of the "coward" who saved his regiment has been filmed before, but never in Technicolor and never under the skillful auspices of Korda.

It trickles in over the grapevine that our recent guess was correct. The Gayety Theater will inaugurate its 1939-40 season on Sunday, September 3, the day before Labor Day. With what and starring whom, Jimmie?

Just then a foam-flecked messenger dropped word on the desk that the S. S. Potomac is pulling a fast one this week-end. Glen Gray and his famous Casa Loma Orchestra are coming to town for four cruises on two nights, which is sort of by way of hitting the musical jackpot. Friday and Saturday are the nights. Two cruises will leave the dock each night—the first at 8:45; the second at 12:30 a. m. This really is sump'n for the jitter-bugs and swing-happy moonlight dancers, no kidding.

Why-They-Took-It-Down Note!

With official temperatures reported in the 90s, what do you suppose they would be in that old kiosk that used to stand in the sun at the conjunction of Pennsylvania avenue and E street? Well, that's where you have to walk!

Playboy Evidently Enjoys His Surroundings

LEW AYRES ENTIRELY HEMMED IN BY GLAMOUR

Lana Turner, on Mr. Ayres' right, seems to be the only slightly perturbed one in this group of principals from "These Glamour Girls," opening Friday on the screen at Loew's Capitol Theater. You'll know why when you see the picture. Reading around the clock, the smiling others are Anita Louise, Jane Bryan, Marsha Hunt, Ann Rutherford and Mary Beth Hughes, a newcomer to leading roles

The New Yorker

By Leonard Lyons

By Fredric March.

(Famous actor now appearing in the play "The American Way," who is today's guest columnist during Leonard Lyons' vacation.)

Dear Leonard:

YOU CAN'T change an actor's habits just by calling him a guest columnist. From the moment he starts his career, an actor is conditioned to say "I" whenever a newspaperman approaches within 6 feet of him. I recognize the fact that columnists who abuse the personal pronoun run the risk of reaching a limited public, but, on the other hand, actors have been trained by columnists to believe that they run the same danger of anonymity unless their names are mentioned regularly in the columns.

What I mean is that, at the risk of alienating millions of your readers and because I am the creature of you and your ilk, this piece is going to be concerned almost entirely with Fredric March and his loving spouse, Florence Eldridge.

NOW THAT I've stated my position I find myself slightly embarrassed at my affrontery. Strange as it may seem, I still have lingering traces of inhibiting modesty. I'm accustomed to the question and answer method of revealing my private life to the public gaze. Somehow, it takes the curse off if someone asks you to talk about yourself. It provides a snug feeling that there are people who really might be interested in your story. There's only one way I can see to overcome this obstacle, I'll have to interview myself. Here goes:

Q.—You're aware, Mr. March, that this is a gossip column. Much as I hate to do this I should like to touch for a moment on a rather personal matter of a delicate nature. Reports have appeared from time to time in other columns that Miss Eldridge is going to have a baby. Is that true?

A.—I'm glad you asked me that. There have been so many of those reports that a denial is in the nature of news. Miss Eldridge is not about to have a baby. If she had as many babies as she's been given credit for lately we'd have to sublease the old lady's shoe. Friends of ours, definitely gossip column fodder, are expecting so-called blessed events but none of the snoopers have gotten wind of that. Florence called one of these friends recently and said, "Isn't it a shame. You do all the work and I get the credit."

G.—Have there been any other stories printed recently about you which are untrue?

A.—Well, there's one that keeps popping up from time to time in various columns about my having invested anywhere's from $5,000 to $50,000 in the play in which I'm appearing, "The American Way." While I'm flattered at this reflection on my business acumen, the fact is that I haven't a nickel in the show. If Sam H. Harris and Max Gordon ever feel that they'd like to let me in on the ground floor of their next play, however, I shouldn't mind taking a little flier and trust in their unfailing good judgment and luck.

ANOTHER ITEM which appears in the reactionary press occasionally and which a great many people appear to believe, to judge by the mail I get, is that I'm a communist. This always disturbs me somewhat. Not because I think communists are strange, horrible creatures, with matted beards and bombs concealed under their long black, blood-stained cloaks. I'm disturbed because the word communist has become a label by which some people hope to smear every progressive, liberal tendency in the country.

I EARNED the label because I was involved in the fight to free Tom Mooney, because I contributed money to the Spanish loyalists, and because I was associated with the Hollywood anti-Nazi movement. It's all part of the good old-fashioned fascist technique, the red-herring act. It worked in Italy and it worked in Germany. In both places the liberals went down with the communists. We've got a fight on our hands to see that it doesn't work here.

Q.—I applaud your sentiments, Mr. March. Now if you'll kindly step down from that soapbox perhaps we can digress and strike a lighter vein. For instance, how do you think our New York women compare with the women in Hollywood?

A.—Just a moment. Don't you agree that that's a pretty silly question? The public's fed up with that "what do you eat for breakfast, on what side of the bed do you sleep, and which do you prefer, blonds or brunettes," type of interview. I am.

A.—Don't ask me. You're the interviewer. Ask me questions.

Q.—All right. Here's something original. What are your plans for the future, Mr. March?

A.—I always like that one because it indicates the interview is almost over. I intend to remain with "The American Way" as long as it runs. After that I'll probably return to Hollywood and make a picture. I expect to return to Manhattan from time to time to do a play.

Q.—Where do you and Miss Eldridge feel most at home, here or in Hollywood.

A.—We feel equally at home in both places. Of course, we started our acting careers in New York so we're not strangers here, even though we have spent the last 10 years in Hollywood. This summer we did something we've always wanted to do. We rented a house in Connecticut and recently spent five pleasant, restful weeks there away from everything. I find the life of a gentleman farmer extremely satisfying. Anything else you'd like to know?

Q.—Nothing in particular. Perhaps you'd like to say a few words to your host.

A.—Oh, yes. I hope you have a thoroughly pleasant vacation, Leonard, and many thanks for the use of your column. Anytime you'd like to come over to the Center Theater and play my role in "The American Way" for me, just let me know. Sincerely, FREDRIC MARCH

With Hedda Hopper

Hollywood, Calif., Aug. 15.—Well, "The Wizard of Oz" has done it! Made humans as interesting as Disney's cartons. They've given you real people, moving in a world of fantasy without taint of ridicule. And oh, what a relief to be carried away into another world and not have to look at propaganda, prison, triangle or spies. At least for an hour and a half.

HOPPER

It lifts you right out of a drab, work a day world and makes you long for your lost childhood. Mervyn Le Roy's done a beautiful job of casting. With Judy Garland, just before she's bloomed into womanhood. Ray Bolger as the Scarecrow, a part made memorable by Fred Stone. Frank Morgan as the Wizard. Jack Haley as the Tin Woodman. The eternal youth of Billie Burke as the Good Fairy. And frightening wickedness of Margaret Hamilton as the Witch.

But to me, the one who stole the show was Bert Lahr as the Cowardly Lion. We've been watching Bert for years. And he's finally come into his own. But in all that time, it never occurred to me that he was a lion—and certainly not cowardly.

Bert, now that he's made a terrific hit, bought a home, and won prizes for his avocados, will soon be packing for Broadway again. Because Buddy da Sylva and Cole Porter have written a play around Bert and Ethel Merman. It's called "Du Barry Was a Lady." And it wouldn't surprise me if he forgets himself and started snarling at her.

Jack Haley took over the Tin Man after Bubby Ebsen found a can opener large enough to cut him out of his torture. Ray Bolger was so long making "The Wizard" that he missed doing the part he originated on Broadway at Warner's in "On Your Toes." And with Zorina. Believe me, that's something to miss.

It was pretty smart of Metro sending Judy Garland and Mickey Rooney East for the opening of "Oz." And they're creating as great a sensation as the picture. No wonder you find a child on your doorstep with the morning paper, asking for a chance. Ever since Jackie Coogan caused a stampede at the box office in "The Kid" they've been our top money makers.

The music throughout surpasses anything sound has done up to date. And what a time they had getting voices that matched the midgets. Which peeved the midgets, 'cause they wanted to make their own noises.

And did Adrian have himself a field day designing the costumes? His one fear was that he might get them mixed up with those he did for "The Women." When it's released, I can just hear some of you men say: "He did." Those gals didn't have to put on a false stiff upper lip—they just held their own that way, when they watched another member of the cast steal a scene from them.

One of the critics whose fondest memory was of Montgomery and Stone in "The Wizard of Oz," said: "This new production compared to the old, is like the threering Barnum and Bailey circus against a side show."

And why not? Since it cost nearly $3,000,000 and I'm sure the other didn't run over $100,000. When we make these comparisons we should weigh the cost, time element, technical perfection and ability to bring the greatest talent from all corners of the world for our applause and enjoyment.

In other words, what I've tried to say is: Metro came through. And did what I thought was impossible. Humanized fantasy, without making it fantastic.

Additions Made to 'Abe Lincoln' Cast

Twelve supporting players have been added to the cast of "Abe Lincoln in Illinois," a screen adaptation of the Robert E. Sherwood Pulitzer prize play which goes into production soon with Raymond Massey as star.

Those signed were Rose Hobart, Gene Lockart, Harvey Stephens, Minor Watson, Alan Baxter, Edwin Mills, Harlan Briggs, Louis Jean Heydt, Clem Bevens, Aldrich Bowker, Herbert Rudley and Erville Anderson. The picture being produced for RKO by Max Gordon and Harry Goetz will start on location near Eugene, Ore., with John Cromwell directing.

Thwarted Love Is Theme of Keith Film

Irene Dunne, Charles Boyer Costars of 'WhenTomorrowComes'

By Nelson B. Bell.

"WHEN TOMORROW COMES." Universal production, produced and directed by John M. St. Stahl, costarring Irene Dunne and Charles Boyer, with Barbara O'Neill, Onlom Stevens, Nydia Westman, Nella Walker, Harry Bradley, Milton Parsons, Fritz Feld and Greta Meyer. Reviewed Tuesday night. At RKO-Keith's Theater.

Irene Dunne and Charles Boyer, in "When Tomorrow Comes," their first joint vehicle since the memorable "Love Affair," attracted greater crowds than the theater could hold to RKO-Keith's last night. Although they saw an excellent picture, they did not see one that is the equal of its immediate predecessor.

"When Tomorrow Comes" is a celluloid love story that begins on a briskly comic note and ends on one of almost tragic implications. Its motivation is not always as impregnable as it should be and one feels, somehow, that it started out to be a more pungent and vital document than the one which has reached the screen. The two leading characters are a waitress in a "blue plate" lunchroom and a celebrated concert artist, who takes a strange interest in the labor problems of the waitresses' union. By a few transparent deductions he knows all about the attractive young woman who has served him so efficiently in the place of an utter bungler and follows her to the mass meeting where a strike is voted. That is about the end of the labor issue involved in the plot. It is only the beginning, however, of the romance that is to ensue between Helen and Philip.

A Hurricane andLove

Through a series of brittle and amusing conversations they become aware of their complete harmony of viewpoint and thought and their fitness for each other. They fulfill numerous "dates," afloat and ashore, and finally spend a charming evening in Philip's opulent home, where everything is in such striking contrast to Helen's modest room, shared with the less nimble-witted Lulu. A hurricane blows up off the Sound and in an attempt to reach the city the two are marooned in a deserted church, where they spend a long and comfortable night. Not too long, or too uncomfortable for them to fall desperately in love. Then the truth is divulged.

Philip has a wife, whose mental processes occasionally are impaired by the ordeal through which she passed when she lost her baby at birth. The wife is helpless and needs Philip; Helen is self-reliant and does not. Such is the impasse that is finally reached. Philip and his family sail for Paris and Helen sits alone, able only to offer him the assurance that when he comes back "in just a little while," she will be waiting.

Romance of Frustration

This romantic tale of frustration is played with simplicity and sincerity by its costars. Miss Dunne contrives to be in every intonation of voice and peculiarity of mannerism the waitress for which she is cast. Mr. Boyer impersonates the concert pianist with his usual polish and shrewd sense of subtle humor. The two make of "When Tomorrow Comes" as close an approach to "Love Affair" as its content will permit.

Nydia Westman, as Lulu, is one of the play's fountainheads of comedy and Barbara O'Neill provides a vividly contrasting touch as the wife whose mind is more clouded than clear.

Close-Ups and Long-Shots Of the Motion Picture Scene

Hollywood, Aug. 15 (NS).—Why hasn't Margaret Sullavan made a picture since the birth of her daughter six months ago? That's what the fans all over the country are asking. So today I inquired at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer what had happened and why we hadn't seen Mrs. Heyward on the screen for so long. I was told that she is all set now to go to England in six weeks, to star in "Ruined City," an adaptation of Neville Shute's "Kindling."

LOUELLA PARSONS

Maggie and Robert Donat will be costarred and here's a surprise. Clarence Brown, one of M-G-M's top directors, is now working with Victor Saville on the script and will direct that and later "Pride and Prejudice," both with Donat. I suppose both of these are contingent on Edward Small's lawsuit against the British actor.

We hate to cry "wolf" too often and yet, at this moment, Greta Garbo's romance with Dr. Gaylord Hauser is so hot, close friends believe she may marry him. She has gone on a motor trip with the health specialist and one of his friends, but where only they know. However, last summer she traveled all over Italy with Leopold Stokowski and a few years ago the papers were filled with her mysterious motor trip with Director Rouben Mamolian. She was supposed to marry both of them. Then suddenly there was a coolness. You can never tell about Greta. Jack Gilbert got her right up to the city hall in Santa Ana when she pulled her classic line, "Ay tank ay go home." So to guess that she will marry Dr. Hauser is a hazard this writer isn't willing to take, but I do know that she finds him companionable, that she is interested in his health diagnosis and that she shares his dislike for dress-up parties. Apparently Stokowski has stepped right out of her life and it is said the reason for the coolness is the publicity.

Reginald Denny, who used to be one of the top comedians on the screen, gets his first big break in years in "Rebecca." He'll play Frank Crawley, the close friend of both Max and Mrs. De Winter and the manager of Manderlay, the De Winter home. Reg has been in movies since 1919 and of late has been appearing in the "Bulldog Drummond" dramas, but this ought to bring him back in the right way and it is nice that he gets the recognition he deserves. But don't think that Denny suffered financially, for his Hobbies, Inc., have come over big and his miniature airplanes are popular with Hollywood youngsters.

Chatter in Hollywood: The most disappearing girl in Hollywood is Ginger Rogers, who is here today and gone tomorrow. Just when her bosses at RKO thought she was all ready for the preview of "My Fifth Avenue Girl," she beat it out of town, headed for New York. Despite rumors, Ginger isn't meeting a boy friend in Manhattan, but will join her mother, Mrs. Lela Rogers, who has been there for some weeks. The chitchat about Ginger and a well-known film director is no longer Hollywood gossip, despite the rumors printed elsewhere.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: Adrian added a wing to his home for his bride, Janet Gaynor, to be ready when they return from their honeymoon; Douglas Fairbanks, jr., has a yarn coming out in a current magazine titled "Chronic Short Storiosis;" Conrad Nagel, who is supposed to be carrying the torch for Joan Fontaine, at the Cafe Lamaze, with Earl Carroll's most beautiful show girl, Beryl Wallace; Marjorie Weaver and Shipwreck Kelly, schoolmates at the University of Kentucky, are becoming a habit; Jerry Wald has the love light in his eye every time he looks at Lucille Fairbanks; Joe Rivken and June Story, a Victor Hugo twosome. Ditto Lee Bowman and Helen Del Valle.

Ronald Colman, who was not so friendly with Richard Barthelmess at the time of his marriage, at Catalina with Mrs. C. and the Barthelmesses. Apparently time heals all wounds, which is as it should be. Life is too short to hold grudges; Gilbert Roland won the tennis championship at the Cataline Hotel; Orson Welles stepping out with Helen Whitney; Shirley Temple, taking a leaf out of Mrs. F. D. R.'s book, has joined both the Camp Fire Girls and the Girl Scouts, so there can be no ill feeling on either side; Kay Griffiths and John Howard will be the next Hollywood elopement, say their friends; Katherine De Mille has lost pounds and looks stunning again; Virginia Peine, out of the hospital today, starts rehearsals for her play immediately; Errol Flynn's South American trip is off and now Warners are asking his whereabouts. Don't believe even Lili Damita knows, but he'll show up. He always returns when least expected.

That's all for today. See you tomorrow!

Your Figure Madame!

By Ida Jean Kain.

There Are No Hard And Fast Rules for Summer Reducing

THERE ARE no hard and fast rules about the "summer sliming menus." As long as you do not overstep your calorie requirement or skip the foods you need, you can change and substitute to suit your taste and budget.

Take meat, for example. It's a big item in the reducer's diet, but hamburger is just as low in calories as filet mignon. However, the Department of Agriculture predicts that due to a meat surplus, the butcher's bill will be lower this fall. That's good news for the housewife.

Meat Important

Since you need from 75 to 100 grams, or 300 to 400 calories, in protein, meat should not be too low in the menus. If you are a vegetarian, however, eggs, cheese and milk may be substituted. In this case, your diet should contain daily three glasses of milk, an egg and a serving of cheese, plus the whole grains, vegetables and fruit that are necessary for their vitamins and minerals.

The bean family is an economical source of protein and it is also high in iron. But beans are fairly high in calories and when used care must be taken to have the remainder of the meal low in calories so as not to exceed the reducing requirement. An excellent meal would consist of a cup of baked beans, a lettuce and tomato salad, a slice of whole wheat bread and fruit. Instead of the baked beans you might have kidney beans, baked with a strip of American cheese, or limas cooked with tomatoes and onions. Not more than one cup of any kind of beans should be used in the meal.

Spinach, turnip greens, beet tops and various other greens are low in cost and calories and should be used liberally. Salads, mixed with Reducets Dressing or Mayonnaise are filling and tasty without being fattening. Fresh fruit in season is always a safe and inexpensive dessert for the reducer.

Use Whole-Grain Breads

Breads and cereals should always be of the whole grain variety to supply vitamin B—and they cost no more than the highly refined variety. In addition to vitamin B, the whole wheat breads and cereals supply protein, calcium, phosphorus and iron. A family could manage to be fairly well fed on a diet of whole wheat bread and milk!

The following list of foods may prove helpful in keeping the balance between your reducing diet and your budget:

MEATS, 100 CALORIE PORTIONS

Beef, corned, broiled (with fat), 4½ inches by 1½ inches by 1½ inches.
Beef, dried, 4 thin slices, 4 inches by 4 inches.
Beef loaf, slice 4 inches by 6 inches by ½ inch.
Beef, round steak, pan broiled, slice 3 inches by 3 inches by ½ inch.
Beef stew, vegetables, ⅔ cup.
Lamb, leg roast, slice 3½ inches by 4 inches by ½ inch.
Veal, leg roast, slice 2 inches by 2½ inches by ½ inch.
Salmon, canned, ½ cup.
Halibut steak, piece 3 inches by 1½ inches by 1 inch.
Bluefish, broiled, piece 3 inches by 2½ inches by 1 inch.
Frankfurter, 1.

Calling All 'Isms'

"DOWN with all isms!" is the new battle cry of Mrs. Henrietta DeGoofey, world-famous reformer. The redoubtable president of the Do Something About It League announced yesterday at her press conference that she would start on a coast to coast crusade to "rout all 'isms' out of American life."

Mrs. DeGoofey

"Plenty of people are fighting fascism, communism, Marxism, radicalism and even toryism," declared Mrs. DeGoofey. "But I expect to go much further. I intend to attack every 'ism' in the dictionary!"

"What will be your first line of advance, Mrs. DeGoofey?" asked a former war correspondent.

"I am starting in immediately on nudism," was the reply. "I shall fight this subversive, un-American practice at bathing beach, ballroom, sun roof, tennis court—everywhere that exhibitionists foregather. In fact, I have just received a petition signed by 10,000,000 men golfers begging me to do something about alleged women players who use golf links to exhibit their figures. I understand that countless men have found their golf games all shot to pieces this summer by such incipient nudism.

Plans to Pep Up Vegetable Plates

"I also intend to do something at once about vegetarianism. I feel definitely that the vegetable plate is undermining American life. The sight of those sickly carrot-string-bean-mashed-potato combinations has destroyed more appetities this summer than has the humidity. Considering the state of our vegtable plate, is it any wonder Hitler regards us as a Nation of weaklings? I shall issue an ultimatum demanding that the vegetable plate be completely reformed within ten days. If this is not done, I shall call out the 30,577,898 women I represent and wage a war to the finish on vegetarianism."

Mrs. DeGoofey, do you also intend to fight pacifism?" asked the editor of a patriotic magazine.

"I shall drive it out of American life," was the reply. "I shall also war against militarism, jingoism, and, of course, bingoism. It may also interest you to know that I shall turn my guns on those two great enemies of democracy—materialism and idealism. Let them go back to Europe where they came from, I say."

"What about liberalism, Mr. DeGoofey?" asked an editorial writer.

"Well—if I can find any—I shall certainly war on it. But I was under the impression it was virtually extinct."

"What about modernism?" asked an art editor.

"It is a viper in our bosoms, destroying our American way of life. But my biggest offensive will be against medievalism. Offhand, I should say, there were more medievalists in these United States of ours than there are motorists, bicyclists and psycho-analysts combined."

If You Are an 'Ist' Take Warning

"What other 'isms' will you attack this summer, Mrs. DeGoofey?" asked a radio commentator.

"There are literally thousands on my list. Surrealism is one. I understand its agents are spreading its propaganda secretly in our women's clubs, our colleges, even in our churches. Why, for all that you know, your next door neighbor might be a surrealist! I shall also attack escapism, symbolism—"

"Just a minute, Mrs. DeGoofey," interrupted a police reporter. "Just what do you mean by 'symbolism?'"

"I haven't the slightest idea," was the reply. "But—it is an 'ism,' isn't it? Now, another 'ism' I intend to investigate is syllogism. I have definite evidence there is some foreign propaganda back of it."

"I suppose you will fight anarchism, Mr. DeGoofey?" asked a political reporter.

"Yes, of course. Also, Methodism, Republicanism, alcoholism, nepotism, unionism, individualism—oh, it would take me a week to enumerate them. But I particularly want to do something drastic about infantilism. One of the big troubles with this country today is infantilism. If you don't believe it, go to any night club, cafetaria—for that matter, any home or office—"

Just a minute, Mrs. DeGoofey," broke in an European correspondent. "Just WHAT do you intend to do about Americanism?"

The interpid reformer paused a moment. The press waited with pencils poised.

"You may quote me as saying," she announced at length, "that I shall fight all but—but the RIGHT kinds of Americanism."

Perfume Regime For Summer

Decide first on the type of after-bath lotion which pleases you most. Then choose fragrances for the cool summer fashions you will wear; for instance, zestful carnation for sleekly tailored jersey in flamboyant colors. Blue grass, cyclaman or lily of the valley for summer fabrics in sweet pea shades, or white orchid for the fragile loveliness of white chiffon at night.

Find a fragrance to dramatize the clothes you wear, then splash it all over yourself after bathing. Sprinkle it on your hands after washing them, use it during the day to bathe your forehead and the back of your neck. Let your lingerie and handkerchiefs be fragrant with it to give a lift to your spirits, for cool flower fragrances are refreshing as mountain spring water or rain on newly cut grass.

I'll Take Steamed Crabs, Says L. E. Williams

Favorite foods of Washingtonians are presented daily in this column.

By Martha Ellyn,
By The Post Food Editor.

ALMOST WITHIN the shadow of our city of Washington is the "crab capital" of the world. Crisfield, Md., is the center of the crab fishery, for it packs and ships more crab meat than any other locality in the world.

Mr. Williams

There is no greater booster of the crab industry than Lawrence E. Williams, president of the Washington Board of Trade. Mr. Williams' interests are versatile. He is one of the most efficient clay pigeon demolishers around these parts. A veteran of the "splinter fleet, he formerly commanded a sub-chaser in the Adriatic. Always one to be interested in civic affairs, he was the chairman of a former Halloween celebration of the District, and has long been a champion of th eGravelly Point airport project. Of course, his first interest is in the "ups" and "downs" of stocks and bonds, wheat and corn and soybeans and the position of the dollar abroad.

Mr. Williams has an enthusiasm for a "bath tub dish"—steamed hard crabs. When I asked him what he liked to eat with the steamed crabs, he said, "beer." I inquired if he didn't eat anything else with them, but he insisted nothing else was needed.

The following is a recipe for steaming hard shelled crabs which was given me by a Washington fish merchant who knows sea foods very thoroughly.

Steamed Hard Shell Crabs

For three dozen crabs, make a liquor of 1 quart vinegar, 2 tablespoons cayenne pepper, 1 teaspoon celery seed, 3 bay leaves, 2 tablespoons salt, a garlic bud (optional) and 2 onions cut in pieces. Place a rack in the bottom of the steamer, lay crabs on it and pour the mixture over it. Be sure to have the lid of steamer fit tightly. Steam for 25 to 30 minutes.

Mrs. Karl Core Gives Party for Dance Team

Miriam Winslow, Forest Fitz-Simmons Make Guests Forget Heat and Humidity; to Be at Watergate Tonight

By Carolyn Bell.

Two youthful dancers—Mirian Winslow and Forster Fitz-Simmons—made Washington forget the ever present heat yesterday.

Anything but Washington's infamous humidity was discussed at the merry cocktail party given in their honor yesterday by Mrs. Karl Core and Lyle Brookover. Guests arrived at Mrs. Core's home on Twenty-third street to find that the jolly, titian-haired hostess had gathered in even more people than we thought possible at this time of the year to fete the talented dancers.

Pale green walls and crisp glazed chintz gave the Core house an atmosphere of serenity. But yesterday it rang with peals of laughter and plenty of conversation.

Miss Winslow, who is from Boston and is a crackerjack horsewoman as well as dancer, featured a new style note—a daisy-scattered snood was caught about her raven-black hair. Her floor-length gown was of a wispy material appliqued with black flowers. Not far away was Mr. Fitz-Simmons, whose youthful appearance belies his extensive background in dancing.

They will dance at the Watergate concert tonight and have chosen a rather light program. Asked if they preferred comic bits to serious ones, petite Miss Winslow answered, "No, I suppose we like equal parts of both." One of their favorites with audiences, "American Chromo," will be put on tonight. Of course it is amusing—having been inspired by the tintype era.

Guy Fraser Harrison and Bride-to-Be, Miss Cecile Becker, Among Guests

Causing no end of commotion at yesterday's party were Guy Fraser Harrison, conductor of the excellent Rochester Symphony Orchestra, and his bride-to-be, Miss Cecile Becker, of St. Paul, Minn. Extremely pretty, Miss Becker had chosen a chic gray and white printed ensemble and tiny white straw hat. Mr. Harrison, who conducted the Watergate symphony on Sunday and will do so tonight and next Sunday, and Miss Becker will be married on Friday.

"This marriage of ours is creating quite a storm," the bride-elect exclaimed, "but I suppose I should understand it, having once been a newspaper woman myself."

Miss Natalie Core, daughter of the hostess, was busy passing around delightful cocktails, stuffed eggs and canapes. Miss Core, who is playing in the current production at the Roadside Theater, had chosen a smart black sheer frock, tea length, with tucked sleeves. Mrs. Core's gown was of black and white print.

Dropping in for a moment were Dr. and Mme. Karel Brejska. Dr. Brejska formerly was with the Czecho-Slovak Legation here. Wearing a chalk white ensemble, blond Mme. Brejska chatted about her summer plans. They are leaving shortly for a visit to Gibson Island where they will be the guests of Prof. Emil Novak, of Johns Hopkins University.

Mrs. Nell Fleming, of Australia, Here To Try Her Hand as a Comedienne

From Australia had come Mrs. Nell Fleming, who has been connected with radio here. Yesterday she wore a sheer frock and fetching poke bonnet of white straw. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry E. Crouch, of Tennessee, has returned to Washington, where she spent many years, to try her hand as a comedienne.

The buffet in the dining room was laden with food yesterday. Larkspur and bright red zinnias centered the bountiful table. A cluster of lucious looking green grapes added an unusual note to the cocktail table.

Mrs. Allan Squire was among the guests as were her son, Allan Squire, Hugo Inden, talented designer; Mrs. Helen Ray Hagner, whose entire ensemble was of smart black, and Mrs. Joseph Mullally, who had chosen white for the occasion.

Miss Marion Chace was there as were Peter Chamberlain, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Beers, Mannix Walker, Rudolph Justice Watson, who is playing the villain at the Roadside this week, and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Romney.

Social Events For Regatta Being Mapped

Annual Banquet, Set For September 23, To Climax Calendar

Officials of the President's Cup Regatta Association are busy working out plans for many social events in connection with the annual regatta, which this year will extend over two week-ends, September 16 and 17, and September 22, 23 and 24.

There will be luncheons, dinners and cocktail parties for the array of racing drivers. Saturday, September 23, will be the date for the annual President's Cup Regatta banquet, always the climax of the social events of the races. Officials hope to hold this function at the National Press Club, as they did last year.

Count Rossi Expected To Attend Again

Parties galore will be held at Washington's several yacht clubs, and spectators who watch the events from their boats will entertain parties of friends on board. As soon as the regatta queen is selected, a program of luncheons and other events in her honor will be arranged. Last year Miss Elizabeth Reed, daughter of Capt. and Mrs. A. B. Reed, a student at Smith College, had this honor.

Count Rossi, dashing Italian bachelor who won the President's Cup last year, is expected to attend the regatta again this season, although his entry is not yet official. The Count is very popular in Capital society and is always entertained by members of the Italian embassy staff during his stay here.

Cabinet and Diplomats Invited to Take Boxes

All the members of the Cabinet and the chiefs of mission of the Diplomatic Corps are being invited to take boxes for the regatta, which always marks the beginning of the Washington social season.

John A. Remon is president of the Regatta Association. Other officers are R. Lyman Sexton, H. P. Somerville, Robert V. Fleming and J. A. Councilor. Thomas P. Morgan, jr., is chairman of the promotion committee; the coronation committee is under the guidance of Minor Hudson, and other committee heads inclue Gen. Alber tL. Cox, Harold A. Long, G. R. Wilhelm, I. A. Bickelhaupt and Samuel A. Syme.

The Hunt Country

By Nina Carter Tabb

MANY PEOPLE WILL LEAVE here by plane, train or motor today for Saratoga, for tonight numbers of fine thoroughbred yearlings from this State will be put on the block. Interest runs high as to what our Virginia horses will bring. William H. Lipscomb, of Lesburg and Washington is selling some of the best bred yearlings that will be offered at the Spa this season. Mr. Lipscomb received top price at the yearling sales last year, when his prized Ksar colt was bought for $22,000 by Mrs. Isabel Dodge Sloane. He has some equally as fine horses to sell tonight, nine in all. Others selling fine yearlings tonight from here are David N. Rust and Westmoreland Davis, of Leesburg; also Coldstream Stud, John H. Morris, A. B. Gay, H. H. Temple, Norris Royden and Le Bus Brothers.

Those who are not going to Saratoga expect to attend the Berryville Horse and Colt Show to be held there tomorrow and the next day. A. B. Hummer, secretary of the show, says they will have the largest show in the history of the association; with more entries and finer horses than ever before. Among the large and well-known stables that will compete in the many classes will be the strings of Mrs. John Hay Whitney, and Mr. and Mrs. George P. Greenhalgh's well-known horses; also Mrs. Dorothy N. Lee, Dr. Lewis N. Allen, Ernest Redmon, Turner Wiltshire, Louie Leith and many others.

MANY ARE FLOCKING to Manassas this week as guns roar, planes fly, tanks rumble, machine guns are heard and everything is excitement during the war of the Blues and the Blacks.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Nelson, Manassas, entertained many friends at luncheon at Saturday at their home, Rob Nel, after the review of troops. Among their guests were Gov. James H. Price of Virginia and Gov. O. Conor of Maryland.

Gov. Arthur James, of Pennsylvania, was also asked to the Nelson's party but the officers from Pennsylvania of the Twenty-eighth Division, who are camped at Manassas, had arranged to give their Governor a party so he went to the Third Corps Headquarters for luncheor

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Smith, of Manassas, have as house guests this week Senator and Mrs. Dennis Chavez, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Green, and Miss Katherine Stewart, of New Orleans, La.

MR. AND MRS. Frank C. Littleton, jr., gave a buffet supper party on Saturday night in Middleburg, in honor of her sister, Miss Polly Montague and H. Gwynne Tayloe, jr., whose engagement was announced that afternoon. The Littleton party was held on the back lawn and in the garden of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Fred, which was lighted by Japanese lanterns swinging from the trees. Candles under hurricane shades decorated the tables. The announcement of the engagement was made by Richard Tayloe, who acted as toastmaster. After supper and a gay evening, everyone went to the dance given by Miss Elizabeth Turner, Miss Edith Buckler and Miss Jane Aiken, at Buchanan Hall, Upperville.

Mr. and Mrs. Henri de Heller, of "Glenburnie," Warrenton, gave a kitchen shower on Sunday night in honor of Miss Mary Virginia Eastham, of Flint Hill, Va., and Washington and Randolph Hicks Carter, of Warrenton, who are to be married in Washington on September 2.

MISS ANNE LEITH, of Middleburg, is taking part in the "Birth of the Flag" celebration at Arlington, which is being held every night this week. Miss Leith, one of the best young horsewomen in Virginia, leads the "Banners of Faith" episode, riding a horse on side saddle and wearing an old-fashioned costume.

World's Fair To Observe Dominican Day

The Dominican Minister and Sonora de Pastoriza went to New York yesterday afternoon to attend the festivities today at the World's Fair in connection with Dominican Day. Yesterday morning the envoy and his wife released from the Pan American Union a brace of messenger pigeons which will arrive at the Dominican pavilion today in the last lap of their flight which began several days ago from the Cathedral of Santo Domingo in Cuidad Trujillo. These pigeons are bringing a message from the President of the Administrative Council of the District of Santo Domingo to Mayor LaGuardia of New York.

Today has been chosen as Dominican Day at the fair because it is the anniversary of the restoration of the political independence of that republic.

The minister will be escorted by fair officials to oulevard Gate, where he will receive a salute of guns. After signing the Distinguished Visitors' Guest Book, he will review the troops, and will then be escorted to the Summer City Hall, where he will deliver to Mayor LaGuardia the pigeons' message. The party will return to the fair grounds to attend a luncheon to be given by Mr. and Mrs. Grover Whalen at Perylon Hall.

At 3 o'clock the envoy and his official party will arrive at the Dominican pavilion, where he will deliver the principal address of the day. An official reception will follow from 5 to 7, when the Minister and Senora de Pastoriza will receive members of the Dominican colony in New York.

The ceremonies will end at 9:20 p. m., when the World's Fair will honor the Dominican Republic by displaying the Dominican national colors in the water at the Lagoon of Nations while the national anthem of that country is played.

The W. C. Albrechts, Jr., to Live In Arlington After Bridal Tour

Mary Isabelle Slye Becomes Bride At St. Paul's Episcopal Church

After a motor trip through the New England States, Mr. and Mrs. William C. Albrecht, jr., who were married on Monday evening at 8:30, will make their home at 454 Barton street, Arlington Village, Arlington. The bride is the former Miss Mary Isabelle Slye, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry E. Slye, of Washington, and Mr. Albrecht is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William C. Albrecht, of Albany.

The ceremony took place at St. Paul's Episcopal Church here, the Rev. Charles W. Wood, assistant to the rector, officiating. White flowers and palms decorated the church. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white mousseline de soie with insets of Chantilly lace at the neck, in the sleeves and around the waist. Her long veil, also trimmed with the lace, fell from a halo of seed pearls, and she carried a shower bouquet of roses and lilies of the valley.

Miss Norma D. Brown served as maid of honor, wearing a peach marquisette frock trimmed in aqua, with a matching heart-shaped hat and elbow-lehgth mittens of peach lace. She carried an arm bouquet of Joanna Hill roses.

The other attendants were Miss Jeanette Albrecht, of Albany, sister of Mr. Albrecht; Miss Margaret Smith and Miss Isabelle Hewlett, of Takoma Park, and Miss June Fisher. They were gowned in frocks of yellow and green, trimmed in contrasting shades, and wore hats similar to that of the maid of honor. Their flowers were talisman roses.

Norman Frey, of Albany, was best man, and the ushers were J. J. Lang, of Pittsburgh; Elbert Allen, of Largo, Fla.; Albert Richie, of Altoona, Pa., and Marvin Schneider, of Maribel, Wis.

A reception at the bride's home followed the ceremony. Mrs. Slye was gowned in peach colored mousseline de soie with accessories of royal blue, and the bridegroom's mother had chosen dusty rose lace with matching accessories. The house was decorated with white flowers and palms.

Out-of-towns guests at the wedding included Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Weisel and Miss Mary Kline, of Albany.

How Much 'Risk' Is Involved in Adopting a Child? And How Much Should One's Friends Be Told?

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: We have been married five years and have no children of our own. Recently we have decided to adopt a child. We have received very little encouragement. Most of our friends have told us that we are "taking too much of a risk." We shall appreciate your views on the subject. Also, just how much information should we give our friends about the child's parentage, etc? We are in comfortable circumstances and have a lovely home. Both of us are in our late twenties. We shall look for an early reply in your column.

CONSTANT READER.

DEAR C. R.: My views on the subject of adoption were stated in this column as recently as May 11. At that time, in discussing the problem of a young wife whose "otherwise perfect marriage" was being spoiled by her unrelieved longing for babies, I made the following comment:

While the proposition of undertaking the responsibility of rearing "a strange child" as one's own is serious, it is scarcely more serious, when intelligent precautions are taken, than undertaking the nurture and social development of children of one's own begetting. Though the adopted child's actual parents may be unknown to the adopting parents, the latter are entitled to know, should know and usually do know, enough of the child's hereditary history to be able to say whether he is a suitable candidate for the social environment and cultural opportunities they have to offer him.

Natural parents can only know, in a general way, what mental and social aptitudes to anticipate in their legitimate issue—basing their expectations on what is known, in general, of the recorded or legendary abilities and behavior of their collective ancestors. Painstaking inquiry and research may reveal as much concerning the child who is eligible for adoption. Moreover, the ancestral history and immediate parentage of many such children is an open book; and some, indeed, might prove, on inspection, to embrace more social promise than many of those would-be adopting parents who sought to claim them. (End excerpt from previous column).

More recently, I have discovered these views substantially indorsed by Grace Sloan Overton in her latest book, "Love, Marriage and Parenthood" (Harper & Brothers, $2). On page 84 of this volume, which came to my attention about a month ago, Mrs. Overton dicusses "the foster child" in a chapter entitled, "Shall We Have Any Children?" What she has to say would prove greatly reassuring to you, and since the purpose of the book is to give the reader "a full view of the whole married existence, with all its possibilities for full personal living," I suggest that you become acquainted with its contents in entirety.

As for how much information to give your friends concerning an adopted child's parentage, I should say there is as little need to stress one's foster child's ancestry as there would be need to extoll, or defend the ancestry of one's natural offspring. If direct questions are asked you may indicate briefly that thorough investigation of the child's background has convinced you that he is all that could be desired.

I feel that it would be scarcely fair to the child to make casual inquisitors privy to detailed facts which properly concern his foster-parents alone. After all, he will—if adopted—become your child, and you should protect him against the embarrassing or injurious possibility of learning from other lips than yours any specific data concerning his origin and ancestry. It is sufficient for your world to know that his credentials met your requirements in every respect. By drawing an impenetrable curtain across his past, (so far as curious bystanders are concerned) you will be making him all the more your own.

When he is old enough to comprehend, he should gradually be given to understand that while he was not born to you, he was deliberately chosen by youfrom all the children in the world—to be your child, because you loved him and wanted him. This knowledge will serve him as a shield in years to come against possible thoughtless taunts or reminders of other children that he "doesn't belong" to his "father and mother!" He can point out to such hecklers that he belongs specially since his parents chose him because they wanted him, whereas the other children's parents had to keep them, whether they wanted them or not! M. H.

Miss Haworth will be glad to help you in solving your problems. Write her in care of The Post Woman's Page.

Nightcaps Return In New Styles

The Victorian influence is seen in the new nightgowns shown at the Chicago Merchandise Mart. One gown was in pastel blue, with long sleeves edged in cotton chenille and completed with a tiny nightcap. From the Victorian period other nightgowns, completely feminine, with off-the-shoulder sleeves and ribbon beading, were presented as new lingerie notes for winter 1939.

Back fullness, much discussed in women's dresses, was also shown in house coats, as was a polonaise side draping for a slim waistline effect.

Paillettes for Duchess

Paris (AP).—When the picture "Wuthering Heights" had its premiere in Paris, the Duchess of Windsor wore a white lace evening gown with the pattern embroidered over with silver paillettes. With this went a blazer jacket entirely of paillettes, forming horizontal blazer stripes in pastel colors.

Why Let Yourself Get Constipated?

Why endure those dull headachy days due to constipation, plus the inevitable trips to the medicine chest, if you can avoid both by getting at the cause of the trouble?

If your constipation, like that of millions, is due to lack of "bulk" in the diet, the "better way" is to eat Kellogg's All-Bran.

This crunchy toasted breakfast cereal is the ounce of prevention that's worth a pound of emergency relief. It helps you not only to get regular but to keep regular, day after day and month after month, by the pleasantest means you ever knew.

Eat Kellogg's All-Bran every day, drink plenty of water, and see if you don't forget all about constipation. Made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. Sold by every grocer.

$10,000 Fire Razes Fairfax Landmark

Flames Threaten Property Adjoining Burke Station Store; Water Pumped ¼ Mi.

One of Fairfax County landmarks was destroyed yesterday when fire razed the store and building operated by Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Staub at Burke Station. The damage was estimated at $10,000. It was partly covered by insurance. The property was owned by R. E. Marshall, of Burke Station.

Firemen from the county fire department, responding to the call in an effort to save adjoining property, pumped water from a stream more than a quarter of a mile from the burning building.

Hog Farm Hearings Today

Fairfax—The Fairfax County Board of Supervisors will hold a public hearing today at 2:30 p. m. on three applications for permits to operate commercial hog farms.

Those whose applications will be considered include W. F. Halley on Stoneleigh Farm in Lee District; Dr. J. H. Ferguson on the Ferguson Farm in Centerville District and Wayne Kendrick on the Horgan Farm in Centerville District.

Co-operatives Elect Directors

Fairfax.—The Fairfax branch of the Southern States Co-operative last night elected Ronald Blake, of Fairfax, and Maurice Fox, of Vale, to the board of directors for three-year terms, succeeding George Gillingham, of Woodlawn, and John Ferguson, of Clifton. The directors, in turn, re-elected T. J. Stockton, of Burke, as chairman; Charles E. Keller, of Andrew Chapel, vice chairman, and Garland Benton, of Vienna, secretary.

The meeting was attended by several hundred patrons. Julian Baker, district manager of the co-operative, gave a report of the business done during the year throughout the State, while Garland Benton gave the summary for the local group, the latter speaking on what the distributor owes to the patrons. J. A. Dyer, of Vienna, talked on what he as a farmer expected of the co-operative, and Mrs. E. H. Krehbiel, of Fairfax Station, spoke on the woman's part in the co-operative movement. Moving pictures were shown of the co-operative at work, its different factories for mixing feeds and fertilizers, and its distributing system.

Scouts Report Trouble

Falls Church.—Unexpected difficulties facing the Falls Church Scout Building Association, now erecting a cabin for scout headquarters in Falls Church, were detailed last night to the town council by the scout building committee. The committee's request for permission to tap the town sewer was referred to the council committee on water and sanitation, R. E. Ankers, chairman, for final action.

The Mayor reported $1,698.67 collected during the year from police fines and costs, a decrease from the previous year when approximately $4,000 was collected.

Plans for several new subdivisions including the Gordon subdivision in West Falls Church were approved. Mayor L. P. Daniel was authorized to confer with the county board of supervisors in an effort to eliminate conflicts between State and county laws governing subivisions.

Corporation Counsel John F. Bethune reported approximately $2,000 due the town in back taxes from residents of East Falls Church, due prior to the separation of the section from the corporation. Legal action to collect this sum was authorized by the council, which also instructed the town clerk-treasurer, Capt. John Galt, to cut off water and sewer service from residents whose bills are in arrears. The town is due $500 from such delinquents.

Rice Heads Legion

Fairfax.—Harvey L. Rice, of Lorton, has been elected commander of Lorton Post, No. 162, American Legion, for the coming year. Other officers named at the annual meeting include:

George T. Williamson, first vice commander; J. Bruce Simpson, second vice commander; Charles W. Shaver, adjutant; Elmer E. Payne, finance officer; Selah H. Hawkes, chaplain; Marshall E. Davis, historian; Hilton B. Lamphier, service officer, and Elvin D. Reid, sergeant at arms.

Delegates to the department convention in Richmond are Elmer E. Payne and Elvin D. Reid, with Todd M. Webb and Charles W. McInturff as alternates.

P. T.-A. Plans Carnival

The Herndon Parent-Teacher Association will have a carnival on the Herndon Volunteer Fire Department grounds, corner of Spring and Nash streets, beginning tomorrow at 7 p. m. and continuing through August 19. Mrs. Frank Wickers, general chairman, has appointed the following committees:

Bingo, Albert Brown, Richard Kohlway, Mrs. Paul Powell and Mrs. John aJckson; grab bag, Mrs. J. H. Broome and Mrs. Ben Brown; archery, Mrs. Ben Wilson; shooting gallery, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Parr; dart game, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Walker; penny pitch, Walter Wiley, Frank Wickers; shoot, Mrs. C. A. 7th Division, A.E.F., Plans Reunion Here

Plans for a reunion in Washington of members of the Seventh Division Association, A. E. F., were made yesterday at a meeting in the home of Col. Paul B. Parker at Arlington, Va., who was named chairman of arrangements.

The reunion will be held at the Raleigh Hotel on November 18, it was announced. Secretary of War Woodring and other ranking Army officials will be invited to attend. Most of the Seventh Division veterans are from New York, Philadelphia, Washington and nearby Virginia.

Alexandria Appoints 31 New Teachers

A staff of 188 teachers will comprise the faculty of the Alexandria school system for the coming semester, it was announced today by T. C. Williams, principal. Included in this list of appointments are thirty-one new teachers, including eight for the new George Mason School on Cameron Mills road which will open its doors to the pupils for the first time.

The Alexandria schools will open on September 7, and on that date books will be assigned and classes organized before the students get down to work. Many of the city schools have been renovated during the summer months for the term, and the changes are expected to prove beneficial.

Prince Georges Board Orders County Survey

Area to Be Mapped; Dr. Fisher Approved as Temporary Health Chief

The Prince Georges County Commissioners yesterday authorized a survey and mapping project for the rapidly growing metropolitan area of the county.

The Franklin Survey Co., of Philadelphia, Pa., received the contract for the work. There will be furnished to the county three plat books of this section, showing property lines, dimensions of lots, lot and block numbers, owners' names and acreage of large tracts, house numbers, street widths, railroad tracks and stations, trolley lines, bus lines, paved and unpaved streets and original subdivisions.

On recommendation of Dr. R. H. Riley, director of the State department of health, the commissioners approved the appointment of Dr. Daniel S. Fisher as temporary county health officer, succeeding Dr. A. B. Hooton, resigned.

Reports from Police Justices Walter Green and Alan Bowie showed $1,075.49 collected in fines and costs in the month of July. Judge Green's report said $316.70 had been collected in criminal cases and $34.60 in civil cases. Judge Bowie reported $585.50 in criminal cases and $138.69 in civil cases.

The commissioners conferred with Circuit Judge Joseph C. Mattingly on the problem of where to hold court this October because reconstruction work on the present courthouse will make it impractiable to use the courtroom. No decision was reached, however.

Remodeling of the present structure is not expected to be completed before next summer. The front of the building is being reconstructed and two new wings added.

Burial Saturday For H. J. Schulze In Alexandria

Funeral services for Harry James Schulze, 56, brakeman on the Fruit Growers Express, who was killed in an accident in the Duke street yards at Alexandria Monday night, will be held at 10 a. m. Saturday at his home, 215 Linden avenue, Alexandria. Burial will be in Ivy Hill Cemetery.

A certificate of accidental death was issued yesterday by Coroner E. C. Shull, of Fairfax County.

Mr. Schulze leaves three sons, Ernest J., of Charlottesville, Va., Paul F., and Louis F., of Alexandria; and two daughters, Mrs. James B. Burch, of Washington, and Miss Lillian Rose, of Alexandria.

A native of Colorado, he has been a resident of Alexandria since 1921.

Rural Life Advantages Cited to Bible Conference

Senior U. S. Agriculture Economist Tells Massanetta Group Farmer Sure Of Livelihood Even in Depression Era

By the Associated Press

Harrisonburg, Va., Aug. 15.—Dr. O. E. Baker, senior economist of the United States Department of Agriculture, today told the Rural Life Institute section of the Massanetta Spring Summer Bible Conference why he wants his boy to be a farmer.

"The farmer and his family," said Dr. Baker, "have more and better food to eat than most city people and in times of depression they are more certain of a livelihood. The farmer has better health than the city man and lives longer. If the farm people had equal medical facilities the difference in duration of life still would be greater.

"The farmer becomes a wealthier man than the majority of the city men judging by the per capita wealth of rural and urban States. This may not be true in the South, but it is true in the North because of the millions of city people who have almost no property at all except an automobile and some second-hand furniture.

"The farmer is more likely to enjoy his work than are most city people. Most city work is monotonous and the man and woman are mere cogs in a big machine.

"In the last place the farmer is more likely to rear a family and promote the welfare of the nation and race. The family is becoming smaller and weaker in the cities. Only two-thirds or three-fourths enough children now are being born in our large cities to maintain their population permanently without accessions from the outside."

Dr. Baker emphasized that he does not minimize the difficulties facing farmers of the United States saying "the approach of a stationary and probably later declining suggests a long period of low prices for farm products.

"The message to carry home to the farm boys and girls is that the prospects for becoming rich through farming are not bright, but the opportunity to serve their Nation and civilization is greater than it has ever been."

'Chainless Gang' Tiring, Alexandria Drinker Walks Off

Thomas McLaughlin, who was given a ten-day jail sentence in Alexandria on Monday for being drunk in public, cut it down to five days by working on the city's "chainless chain gang," and then cut it down to a day and a half by walking away shortly after lunch yesterday.

McLaughlin is the first culprit to make a "break" from the gang, which for the last few weeks has been helping to mend the city streets under the watchful eye of a guard. Persons convicted of serious offenses are ineligible for the work, but others who volunteer for it have their sentences cut in half as a reward and are given three meals a day instead of two.

Police broadcast an alarm for the fugitive, but at a late hour last night he had not been found.

S. E. Norris Dies Of Heart Attack

Samuel Elmer Norris, 55, for many years an employe in the solicitor's office of the Department of Agriculture, died Monday at his home, 8 Rosemont avenue, Alexandria, Va. Death was attributed to a heart attack.

Mr. Norris was a member of the Second Presbyterian Church in Alexandria and an active member of the Knights of Pythias.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Esther Hahn Norris; his mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Ann Norris; three sisters, Mrs. Lula Lee, Mrs. Charles Humphries and Mrs. George Harrington, all of Alexandria, and a brother, Robert E. Norris, of Washington.

16 Arlington Homes Swept By July Fires

Five Grass Blazes Reported; Third Disease Clinic to Be Opened

The report of County Fire Chief A. C. Scheffel, released yesterday by County Manager Frank C. Hanrahan, lists 15 fires in July, with a loss of $2,670. Of these 6 were in houses, 5 were grass blazes, 3 automobiles and 1 shed. An average of 16 firemen responded to each call.

During the month there were 63 inspections of buildings by Chief Scheffel. There were 33 calls for the county ambulance.

Third Clinic to Open

Arlington.—Dr. Ralph G. Beachley, county health officer, yesterday announced a third veneral disease clinic will be opened each Wednesday at 1 p. m. in the clinic room at the courthouse for treating veneral diseases.

The venereal disease program was organized in Arlington County in August, 1938, and since that time two clinics a week have been conducted on Tuesday at 7 p. m. and Friday at 1 p. m.

The additional clinic is made possible through funds obtained from the State and because of the increased number of patients to be treated, Dr. Beachley said.

Dr. Henry L. Batien and Dr. Alfred M. Palmer have been in charge of the clinics and Dr. J. H. Judson has been appointed third clinician to assist in the work.

The venereal disease activities in the county, Dr. Beachley pointed out, are conducted jointly by the Social Hygiene Society, of which L. C. McNemar is president; and the county, State and Federal Government.

Traffic Plans Coming

Arlington.—Announcement was made yesterday at the office of the Arlington Chamber of Commerce that County Engineer C. L. Kinnier will receive definite information from State highway officials regarding plans for regulation of traffic along Route 1.

The plan, which was suggested by the Chamber of Commerce and approved by State officials, provides for a green arrow lit at all times, indicating a right turn from the highway into Columbia pike.

It is further planned to have the Richmond highway marked at the intersection of Columbia pike showing that traffic wishing to make a right turn must drive in the extreme right lane.

Navy Diver to Speak

Hazen Crowns Helen O'Day Miss Columbia

Commissioner Returns To Native Virginia For Flag Pageant

Commissioner Melvin C. Hazen returned to his native Virginia last night to crown pretty 17-year-old Helen O'Day "Miss Columbia" and open the second performance of the "Birth of a Flag" pageant at Arlington Youth Center.

"As a Virginian, it is a great privilege and honor for me to take part in this spectacle," Commissioner Hazel declared, as he made Miss O'Day the District's representatives to the pageant at the stadium on Wilson boulevard near Stafford street.

Smiling, Miss O'Day accepted her new "office." "It is a great pleasure to represent Washington and Western High School," she said.

A crowd of nearly 2,000 attended last night's pageant, re-enacted historical events made significant by the presence of the flag.

Realistic episodes emphasized the Inspiration of the Stars and Stripes in American history—in Revolutionary days, at the Battle of Fort McHenry, and in the pioneer West. The significance of the flag was emphasized by the contrast of Stone Age and Babylonian scenes when there was no flag or only the banner of ruthless power.

Today the Queen of the Flag, Miss Mildred Bolen, will go to Annapolis to invite Gov. O'Conor of Maryland, to be present at the performance on Friday, Governor's Day. Former soldiers from Washington, near-by Maryland and Virginia who fought for "Old Glory" in 1918 will occupy the limelight in tonight's showing, Veteran's Night.

The honor guest will be Lieut. Col. Francis Scott Key Smith, Washington Army officer, and direct descendant of the hero whose composition of the "Star-Spangled Banner" is dramatized in the Battle of Fort McHenry scene.

Montgomery Police Trial Board Filled

Commissioners Name Clarence H. Small, R. W. Farmer; First Case Called Monday

The Montgomery County commissioners yesterday named Commissioner R. W. Farmer and Clarence H. Small, of Laytonsville, to fill vacancies on the police trial board.

Organization of the trial board was provided for in an act of the 1939 Legislature. Third member is B. Peyton Whelan, police civil service commissioner.

Commissioner Farmer succeeds John Oxley, who was ousted from his post of police commissioner several months ago as the result of a factional fight among members of the board. Oxley, former Fusion Party follower, has frequently opposed measures recommended by the majority members of the board, both of whom are organization Democrats.

Officer Merson Faces Charges

The trial board will handle its first case next Monday when Officer Harry W. Merson will defend himself against charges of misconduct. The policeman is under a 30-day suspension.

Notified by Attorney General William C. Walsh that the general property reassessment must be completed by next January 1, the commissioners took steps to speed up the work by appointing nine new assessors.

Carrie E. Quinn, of Bethesda, $300; Allison Chapin, of Rockville, $250; N. R. Robertson, of Silver Spring, $250; C. B. Osborn, of Takoma Park, $200, and Robert E. Lee, of Kensington, $200.

The other four will receive $8 per day. They are J. Truman Seibel, of Spencerville; G. G. Griffith, of Laytonsville; William Warfield, of Clarksburg district, and Clay T. Carlin, of Boyd.

B. Dorsey Downer was named to replace F. J. Downey when the latter completes the reassessment he is conducting in Laytonsville.

Andrews Honored

Richmond, Va., Aug. 15 (AP).—City Comptroller T. Coleman Andrews has been nominated for a five-year term on the council of the American Institute of Accounts, governing board of that body. The nominations will be voted on at the annual meeting of the institute in San Francisco, September 19-21.

Gomez Hurls As Champs Beat Nats

Ken Chase Gives Only Six Hits, but Loses; Gelbert and Estalella Star at Bat

By Shirley Povich.
A Staff Correspondent.

Yankee Stadium, New York Aug. 15.—Ken Chase and the Nats had the misfortune to meet up today with Lefty Gomez on an afternoon when the Yankee Southpaw was a three-hit pitcher. The result; New York 3, Washington2, in ten innings.

For nine innings the equally left-handed Chase gave Gomez a valiant battle of it to the tense interest of 8,049 customers in Yankee Stadium, and then he ran out of poise and skill. With two out in the tenth the Yankees launched the winning run and rushed it across the plate.

Chase, who had been pitching four-hit ball in the first nine innings, found himself in trouble of his own making in the tenth before Charley Keller, former campus hero at the University of Maryland, applied the finishing blow—a two bagger to right center field.

Wild Pitch Licks Chase

The Nat's southpaw easily disposed of the first two Yankees in the tenth and then trouble ensued. He found himself in a 3-and-2 hole against Red Rolfe and then saw Rolfe pound the next pitch over Bloodworth's head for a single. Chase's next gesture was the act that actually licked him—a wild pitch into the dirt which eluded Giuliani and moved Rolfe to second with the winning run.

Then came Keller with his line-drive two-bagger to right center and the Yankees owned the ball game.

Bucky Harris' lads were a peurile outfit at bat against the left-handed offerings of Gomez, who was notching his tenth victory of the season against five defeats to lift the Yanks into a 6½ game lead over the idle Red Sox. Save for Bobby Estalella and Charles Gelbert, the Nats went hitless.

Estallella Gets Two Hits

Estalella was the author of two of the three hits Gomez yielded and his two-bagger in the fourth drove in Washington's first run which tied the score briefly at 1-1. In the seventh inning, the veteran Gelbert produced his first home run in a Washington uniform to set the Nats up in a 2-1 lead.

The first Yankee hit off Chase produced the first Yankee run, because it happened to be Joe Gordon's nineteenth homer of the season, an enormous clout into the left-field stands 402 feet distant with none on in the second inning. In the third inning, after Left Gomez had led off with a single, George Case averted two runs by the Yankees by leaning far back against the low rightfield wall and making a one-hand grab of Red Rolfe's long fly as it was about to pass over his head into home-run territory.

Likewise, Washington's first hit netted the Nats' first run. The hero of that tally was George Case, whose sheer speed made the run possible. Case was safe in the fourth inning when Crosetti, forced to hurry a throw, fumbled a grounder. Whereupon Case promptly stole second for his forty-second theft of the season, and then showed rare speed to reach third on Lewis' dash to DiMaggio, whose perfect throw to Rolfe was futile.

Caught Stealing

The Nats' hopes of getting a run out of the proceedings sagged when Gomez slipped a third strike past Sammy West, but Bobby Estalella, who is fond of Gomez's pitching, rapped a line-drive two-bagger to left center to score Case. DiMaggio got his glove on Estallela's clout after a long run, but was unable to hold it.

Washington kissed off a run in the seventh inning when they might have scored two as easily as one. Estalella, who beat out a hit to Crosetti with one out, attempted to steal second and was caught. He had scarcely retired to the dugout when Gelbert boomed a home run into the leftfield seats.

The Yanks surged back immediately to tie the score at 2-2, with the help of a bit of wildness by Chase. He walked Selkirk with one out and then hit Dalhgren with a pitch. He struck out Gomez, but Crosetti, a .213 hitter, lammed a single into left to score Selkirk.

Only 19 Nats faced the effective Gomez in the last six innings.

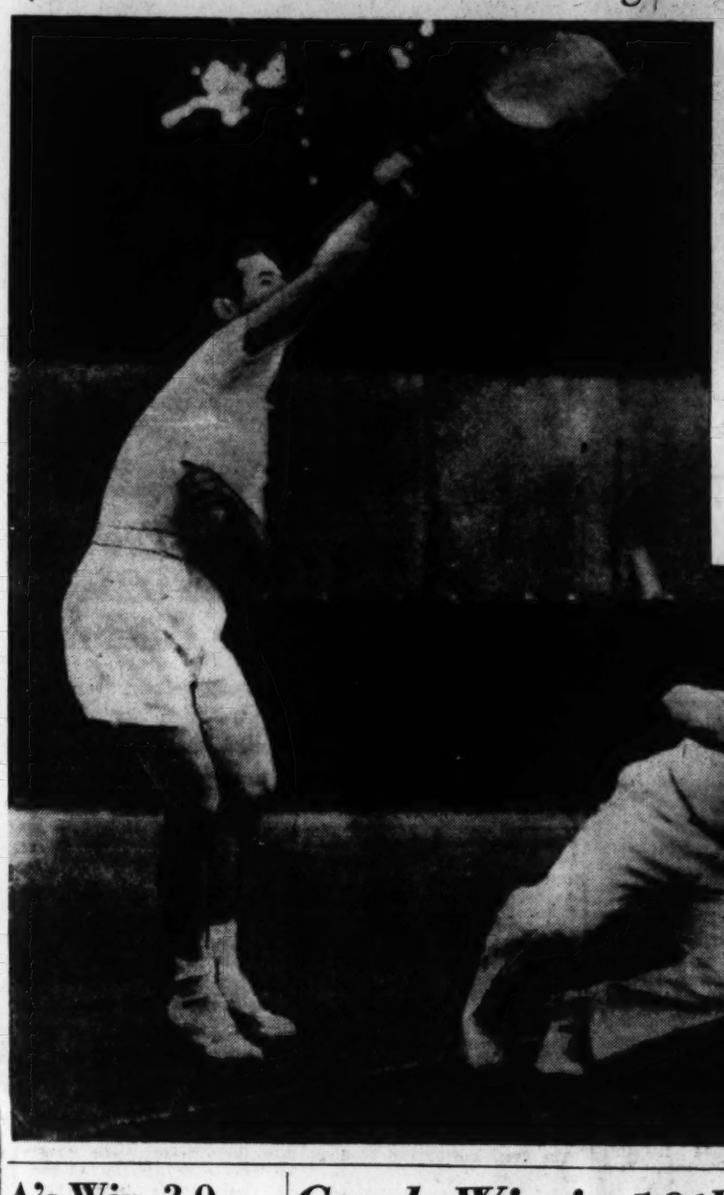
Cooke Does a Job of Ducking on Brookline Courts



Associated Press WIREPHOTO

Bobby Riggs (left) reaches for a high one yesterday during the National Doubles matches as his partner, Elwood Cooke, ducks low to escape the blow. The Wimbledon titlists did not extend themselves to defeat Norman Bickel and John Shostrom, 6—2, 6—4, 8—6

U. S. Davis Cup Heads Pleased

Showing of Teams Raises Hopes for Cup Triumph; Mako and Tidball Also Advance

By the Associated Press.

Brookline, Aug. 15.—The die-hards in the United States Lawn Tennis Association family gained new courage today as they compared the returns from their possible United States Davis Cup doubles combinations against the performances of Australia's reputed invincible Adrian Quist and two-fisted Jack Bromwich in the second round national doubles matches at Longwood.

Quist and Bromwich gained the third round, but they were more than a bit extended by unseeded Jack Kramer and Welby Van Horn, the promising Los Angeles youngsters, in winning, 6—1, 4—6, 6—3, and 6—4.

What brought smiles to the faces of the U. S. L. T. A. badge wearers, however, were clean-cut triumphs by three possible Davis Cup pairs against stronger opposition.

Parker-McNeill Score

Frankie Parker, of Beverly Hills, Calif., and Don McNeill, of Oklahoma City, top-ranked here, waded through Dave Freeman, of Pasadena, Calif., and Ted Schroeder, of Los Angeles, 6—1, 6—3, and 9—7. Second-seeded Bobby Riggs, of Chicago, and Elwood Cooke, of Portland, Oreg., Wimbledon titlists, took such sturdy opponents as Norman Bickel and John Shostrom, of Chicago in stride, 6—2, 6—4 and 8—6.

And Gene Mako, the Davis Cup doubles veteran, now reunited with his winter West Coast partner, Jack Tidball, also of Los Angeles, overcame Morey Lewis, the Kenyon (Ohio) collegian, and Al Stitt, of Boston, in another straight-setter, 6—4, 6—3, 6—3.

Meanwhile, the doughty Murphy twins from Chicago, Chester and Bill, were unavailing against Charles Hare, of England, and Ladislaw Hecht, former Czecho-Slovakian Davis Cupper who won 7—9, 6—4, 6—4, 6—3.

The list of foreign favorites was twice cracked.

French Star Beaten

Bernard Destremeau and France's beloved veteran, Jacques Brugnon, were eliminated in a first-round match by Robert Peacock and Douglas Imhoff, the National Intercollegiate doubles titlists, 6—4, 6—2, 6—3. Then the San Franciscans defeated Gardnar Mulloy, of Coral Gables, Fla., and Charles Mattman, New York, 5—7, 6—3, 6—2, 6—3.

The Philippine Davis Cuppers, Felicisimo Ampon and Amada Sanchez, surrendered to Russell Bobbitt, of Atlanta, and Frank Guernsey, of Orlando, Fla., the Intercollegiate singles champion, 8—6, 6—3, 4—6, 6—3.

The only other internationalists to survive were Jack Crawford and Harry Hopman, of Australia, who struggled through Bob Kamrath, of Austin, Tex., nad Darrell Hudlow, of Phoenix, Ariz., into the round of eight, 6—4, 6—4, 3—6, 6—3.

$n the women's section of the tourney all of the six teams to reach the third round were seeded.

Marble-Fabyan Advance

Among the day's victors were Alice Marble, of Beverly Hills, Calif., and Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Fabyan, of Brookline, the defending champions; the second seeded Helen Jacobs, of Berkeley, Calif., and Dorothy Workman, of San Francisco, and Mrs. Dorothy Andrus, of Stamford, Conn., and Mme. Sylvia Henrotin, of France. Third seeded Virginia Wolfenden and Patricia Canning, of San Francisco, qualified yesterday.

Two of the four seeded foreign teams kept pace with those domestic stars. England's Kay Stammers and Mrs. Freda James Hammersley defeated Mrs. Philip Theopold and Virginia Ellis, of Brookline, 6—1, 6—0, and the former's Wightman Cup etammates, Mary Hardwick and Valerie Scott, bested the capable Dedham sisters, Mrs. Whitfield Painter and Polly Morrill, 6—4, 6—4. Four other women's teams remained in the second round when play was called.

This Morning

With Shirley Povich

New York, Aug. 15.—The aging Wizard of Odds allowed as how the Yankees are a better bet to win the American League pennant than are the Reds in the National League. "I'm laying 1 to 7, against the Yankees," said Jack Doyle today. "My price on the Reds is 1 to 6."

POVICH

Jack Doyle never actually closed his book on the Yankees when, on the first of July, they had a 12-game lead, although published reports were that he was taking no more bets on the Yanks. "I was taking no more bets on the Yankees then" he was saying today, "because nobody wanted my price at the time which was 1 to 10. They didn't want to risk $10 to win one, and I don't blame them. The Yanks were simply so far in front I could do no business on them."

The Reds would never be a 1-to-6 shot except for the fact that they are in a league full of bad teams, says the dignified Mr. Doyle who, gray-haired and soft-spoken is the perfect antithesis of the popular conception of a Broadway bookmaker. "They're not a great ball team," says Doyle, "perhaps they're not even a good ball team, but in that league I have to make them 1 to 6."

There isn't much doubt that Doyle has a decided preference for American League baseball. "All down the line, the American League is a better circuit, I'd say," says Mr. Doyle. "Why, that All-Star game at Yankee Stadium last month should have been enough to cure any National League fan. It was outrageously played by the National Leaguers.

N. L. Sets Lower Standard—Doyle

"Of course the American League had better ball players in the game, but the National could have done better. I honestly believe that I could take a soap-box orator off his perch at Times Square and watch him do a better job of managing the National League All-Stars than Gabby Hartnett did. And I don't mean simply that Gabby kept his league-leading hitter, Morrie Arnovich out of the lineup.

Remember the sixth inning, when the Nationals had the bases full and knocked Tommy Bridges out of the box. Well, in came Bob Feller. Arky Vaughan was at bat. Everybody in the park except Hartnett and Vaughan knew, apparently that Feller is a wild man. But did Vaughan get a "take" sign from Hartnett? He did not. He swung at the first pitch, a bad ball high and inside, and blooie—double play and it's all over. That was horrible."

He wouldn't be surprised, he says, if one reason the National League does not play as good ball as the Americans is because the National sets a lower standard for its ball players. They don't demand the same sort of skill from a young player. "It may not be typical, but you can take the case of Eddie Miller, the Bees' shortstop, for example.

"It isn't a case of the National League clubs refusing to spend as much money as the other league, because they do, but they don't demand their money's worth. The Yankees owned Miller who was with the Kansas City team. He was a fine shortstop as a fielder, but American League clubs were convinced he couldn't hit. I don't think any A. L. club would have gone as high as $10,000 for Miller, but the Bees took him for $35,000. He played a fine fielding game before he was hurt, but didn't hit much, yet he is something of a star in the National."

Donald .500 Pitcher on Any Other Club

Doyle blames nobody for refusing to take his 1 to 7 odds against the Yanks and admits he's doing very little business at those figures. He thinks the Yanks are a virtual cinch to win the pennant despite the revival of the Red Sox. "And if the Yankees had only a 3-game lead by the first of September they'd still be 1 to 2 shots in my book," says Doyle.

"Look at this fellow, Atley Donald," he says. "With what other club in the league except the Yankees could he win 12 straight games. He'd be lucky to have a .500 average with another team. He may not even be a good pitcher, he's just lucky enough to be playing with the Yanks.

"It's the Yankee infield that wins games for ordinary pitchers. The balls they get, the double plays they perform make the Yankee team a pitcher's heaven. No wonder the Yanks can carry a .210 hitter like Crosetti. His fielding is the reason.

"Crosetti's probably the most under-rated fellow on the Yankees even when he's not hitting. I remember back in 1934 when Crosetti was in the hospital during the last month with water on the knee. He wasn't hitting much that year, either. The Yankees missed him all right. They blew their lead and the pennant to the Detroit Tigers.

"This Yankee infield is one of the great infields that comes along about once in every decade. I remember 'em all from back in the eighties. In the eighties it was Anson's Colts with Anson, Pfeffer, Williamson and Burns. In the nineties it was the Braves' great infield with Tenney, Loew, Long and Collins.

"No team ever won the pennant without a good infield, and great teams always had great infields. Look at the old Cubs of 1906-7-8-9-10, and think of Chance, Evers, Tinker and Steinfeld. And the old Athletics a few years later with McInnis, Collins, Barry and Baker.

"Why did Washington win the pennant in 1924-25? Because they had a grand infield of Judge, Harris, Peckinpaugh and Bluege—the best in the league. And the Yankees came along a few years later with Gehrig, Lazzeri, Koenig and Dugan. That Yankee infield would outhit the present Yankees by plenty, but it was no better defensively. Not quite as good, in fact. Great infields make winning pitchers and that's why the Yankees have so many."

A's Win, 3-0, As Bosox Get Only 4 Hits

Nelson Invincible As Boston's Pennant March Is Halted

By International News Service

Philadelphia, Aug. 15.—The Athletics tonight handed the pennant hopes of the Boston Red Sox a severe jolt when, with a 3-to-0 victory, they dropped the Sox to a full seven games behind the league-leading Yankees.

The coup de grace was administered to the Red Sox by Lynn Nelson, aided by Bob Johnson, who drove in the winning run in the sixth inning, and Dick Siebert, who hit a telling blow in a two-run tally in the eighth.

Nelson's part was in refusing to permit the second placers more than four puny singles, two of which they managed to obtain only in the ninth inning. Only Jimmy Foxx, who reached third in the fourth, and Rog Cramer, who got there in the ninth, passed second base on Nelson.

Alonzo Stagg, Noted Grid Coach, 'Keeping House'

Stockton, Calif., Aug. 15 (AP).—Amos Alonzo Stagg, 78-year-old dean of American football coaches, is "keeping house," he disclosed today, while plotting the strategy for his fiftieth campaign this fall.

His wife, Stella Stagg, has been ill in a hospital for a month. Of cooking and other household chores Stagg said: "It's a bigger job than coaching a team."

Niggeling, Veteran Relief Hurler, Scores For Pace-Setters

By the Associated Press

Cincinnati, Aug. 15.—The veteran Johnny Niggerling went the route in his first start for the Cincinnati Reds today and turned in a 6-to-5 victory to give the pace-setters a sweep of the two-game series with the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Brought up from Indianapolis for relief roles, he was assigned today after six hurlers were used to win last night's contest. Niggerling allowed the Pirates eight hits and fanned six.

Goodman Stars at Bat

He was in danger at the start when the Bucs combined two hits and a walk for two runs, but regained command until the ninth when Pittsburgh scored two more tallies.

Ival Goodman, who got three hits for four times up, tripled in the first and came in on Young's error. In the fourth, the outfielder started a rally with a double and scored on McCormick's safety. A sacrifice and single brought in another counter to give the McKechnie men a lead.

Five singles and two sacrifices in the fifth gave the Reds command of the game and routed Joe Bowman and Bill Swift from the mound.

Bucs Threaten in Ninth

In the ninth, the Bucs threatened as Fletcher walked, Young singled and Mueller's single scored Fletcher. Pinch-Hitter Paul Waner's long fly tallied Young but Goodman snagged Lloyd Waner's liner to end the rally.

Ernie Lombardi, who was fined $25 by National League President Ford Frick for disputing with Umpire Larry Goetz in last night's game, was replaced by Willard Hershberger to catch the knuckleball artist.

Ed La Fleur Scores Victory in Western Maryland Tennis

By the Associated Press

Oakland, Md., Aug. 15 (AP).—Unseeded Ed La Fleur, of Baltimore, pulled the biggest upset of the western Maryland tennis championships today when he blasted Alex Keiles, Baltimore, seeded No. 2, off the courts with well placed drives, to win, 6—4, 6—4, today.

Keiles, runner up in 1938, could not cope with La Fleur's all-court game. Rboert N. Brown, Elkins, defending champion and seeded first, romped through his first and second rounds today after a delayed start.

Brown took Bob Albert, Baltimore, 6—0, 6—0 and then coasted to a 6—1 6—1 win from Johnny Spangler, Morgantown.

Le Fleur, Price Colvin and Frank G. Roberts, all of Baltimore, reached the quarter-final round today. Colvin trimmed Ansel Knotts, Morgantown, 6—3, 6—3, and Roberts winning from Larry Middlekamp, Cumberland, 6—0, 6—1. Middlekamp earlier won from Joe Skrentry, Baltimore, 6—1, 6—4.

Women's singles play started today, with 13 entered. Joyce Martman, Pitsburgh, seeded first, is the defending champion.

Record Field Entered In Women's Amateur

Six District Players to Compete At Norton, Conn., Next Monday; Mrs. Walper, Marvin Brown Top Locals

By Merrell W. Whittlesey

An all-time record field of 206, including an unexpectedly heavy entry of six players from the District, will play in the forty-third Women's Amateur Championship, starting next Monday, August 21, at the Wee Burn Club, Noroton, Conn. Pairings were released yesterday by the United States Golf Associatino.

Mrs. Leo Walper and Marion Brown, winner and runner-up in the District women's championship, from Capital and Manor, respectively, top the local sextet. Mrs. Myron Davy, a qualifier last year from Congressional; Mrs. Ellen Kincaid Harris, Beaver Dam, and the No. 1 duo of Chevy Chase's local team champs, Mrs. Bishop Hill and Mrs. Landra Platt compromise the near-record District entry.

hTe field is so large that the late starters may have trouble finishing in Monday's qualifying round. Mrs. Harriett Randall, Indianapolis, starts the day-long parade at 7:30 a. m. and the field will go off in threesomes at seven-minute intervals until 3:26. The 64 qualifiers will be reduced to 32 in the first round of match play Tuesday, two rounds follow os Wednesday, the quarter-finals Thursday, semifinals Friday and the 36-hole finals Saturday to decide the successor to Patty Berg, out due an appendicitis operation.

Miss Brown an Early Bird

Miss Brown, last year's District champion and present Middle Atlantic titleholder, playing in, her third National event, plays at the early hour of 7:44 with Patricia Orling, Manoa, Pa., and Mrs. Sam Isreal, jr., a prominent Southern golfer from New Orleans.

Mrs. Myron Davy, who lost to Patty Berg last year in the first round, directly follows her traveling companion, Miss Brown, off the tee. Mrs. Davy plays at 7:51 in company of Alice Rutherford, well-known Baltusrol Club member from Springfield, N. J., and Isabell Pepall, foreign entrant from Lambton Mills, Ontario, Canada.

Mrs. Hill is another of the early starters, at 8:54 with Mrs. Russell Holman, Harrison, N. Y., and Hope Seignious, Utica, Mich. Mrs. Platt's partners include Jeanne Cline, the recent youthful sensation of the Western tournaments, from Bloomington, Ill., and Louise Iselin, Locust Valley, N. Y., at 11:42.

Mrs. Ellen Kincaid Harris, playing in her first tournament in several months, drew Mrs. Morgan Baker, Glen Head, N. Y., and Esther Klinck, another Canadian entrant from Ridgeway, Ontario, as partners at 11:56.

Mrs. Leo Walper is the last of the District contingent to leave the tee, drawing the desired time of 12:31 with Mrs. Harvey Mack, Phillipsburg, N. J., and Mrs. Frederick A. Neuberg, Oradell, N. J.

The Maryland State Women's champion, Mrs. Jerome Sloman, and Mrs. T. E. Schluderberg, who won the medal in the State play at Congressional, are also entered. They represent the Suburban Club

Argyle's First Pro-Am Golf Slated Today

Largest Entry Of Season Expected To Compete in Event

Argyle's first pro-amateur tournament in history is expected to draw one of the largest entries of the season today, with virtually every District pro and several from Baltimore planning to compete with their amateur partners. A pro sweepstakes and amateur handicap are also carded.

Wiffy Cox, Congressional mentor, will make one of his few local tournament appearances of the year, playing with Dr. R. A. Kelly and George DeWitt in the Maryland State Golf Association tourney.

It is the first tournament carded over the Silver Spring course since it has been a member of the State Golf Association.

The pros are allowed three amateur partners, with half handicap allowance. The pro sweepstakes with a $2 entrance fee and amateur handicap event in A, B and C classes are side events.

Landis Rules Poffenberger Out of Baseball

Brooklyn, Aug. 15 (AP).—At the request of the Brooklyn Dodgers, Elwood Cletus (Boots) Poffenberger has been declared ineligible by Commissioner K. M. Landis and placed on the blacklist of organized baseball.

The eccentric pitcher, whose many escapades have formed a bizarre part of current baseball folklore, deserted the Dodgers in Cincinnati on May 23, and after being ordered to report to Montreal failed to do so.

He cost the Brooklyn team $25,000 this spring.

The 24-year-old Williamsport, Md., righthander was with Detroit last season, winning six and losing seven. He had an earned run average of 4.82.

The Brooklyn Club had an opportunity to sell Poffenberger and recoup some of the loss in purchasing him from Detroit, but officials said they felt his conduct was detrimental to the best interests of baseball and asked Landis for the ruling.

Bill Leapley Second For Third Straight Year; Victor Rallies To Take Title

Bob Ruane, Bethesda-Chevy Chase High graduate, won the District Public Links Junior championship yesterday at Anacostia with a 290 total for the 72 holes, including a last round 66 that dropped Bill Leapley into the runner-up role for the third straight year.

Leapley, 18-year-old freshman golf team member of Western State Teachers in Kalamazoo, Mich., led Ruane by nine strokes at Monday's half-way mark. At the end of the third round, Ruane chopped the margin to four with a 73 to Leapley's 77 and then came back with a 66 to the runner-up's 76 for the title by five strokes.

Ruane's 2-under par finish included an out 9 of 31, 3 under par, and a back 9 of 35, 1 over. Leapley finished over an hour ahead of Ruane, and was fingering the S. G. Leoffler trophy while the new champion was putting on the subpar spurt.

Chester Twomy, Interhigh diamonder from Eastern, missed a 4-foot putt on the seventy-second green to tie Leapley, and what at that time appeared to be a tie for the title. He finished with 296, while Tom Cook was next with 298, despite 15 three-putt greens for the four rounds.

Leapley's rounds of 77 and 76 were far off his first day's total of 74, 68, for a five-stroke lead over Twomy and Cook, while Ruane was 12 strokes lower that his 151 total of the first two rounds. Leapley was runner-up to Bob Morris in '37 and Gail Holmes in '38.

Tennessee Golfer In Favorite's Role Of 'Lefty' Tourney

Birmingham, Mich., Aug. 15 (AP).—Bespectacled Bill Guynes, of Fountain City, Tenn., got downright serious about his golf game today and stepped smack into a favorite's role for the National Lefthanders championship.

Guynes, bright and chipper despite a night of conviviality, won his first two matches to march into tomorrow's quarter-finals at the Birmingham Golf Club in the fourth annual portsiders tournament.

First Guynes, tourney medalist, whipped W. F. McKelvey, Sparta, Ill., 4 and 2, although blowing himself to an 11-over-par 83. In the afternoon he shot a 74 to win from Al Johannes, South Bend, Ind., 4 and 2.

"That's the only way I can shoot golf," Guynes grinned. "I just can't train like lots of people. Sometimes I win, sometimes I lose, but mostly I come out all rgiht. I wasn't the least bit tired even though I didn't have any sleep."

Dizzy Dean Settles $6,989 Law Suit Out of Court

St. Louis, Aug. 15 (AP).—William O. Dewitt, general manager and vice president of the St. Louis Browns, today announced an out of court settlement of his suit for $6,989 against Jerome Herman (Dizzy) Dean, Chicago Cubs pitcher.

The suit was filed yesterday. DeWitt alleged Dean owed him that amount for acting as his agent in obtaining commercial contracts while Dean pitched for the St. Louis Cardinals and DeWitt was secretary of the National League Club.

Dean said the settlement was for $1,125. DeWitt would not comment on this angle.

Collom, U. S. L. T. A. President Dies at 63

Philadelphia, Aug. 15 (AP).—Samuel H. Collom, president of the United States Lawn Tennis Association in 1928 and 1929 and prominent in that sport for 20 years, died today at his summer home in Beach Haven, N. J. He was 63.

Collom, who had been ill for two years, was president of the Pennsylvania Flexible Metallic Tubing Co., Philadelphia. As chairman of the Germantown Cricket Club, he managed the national championship and Davis Cup challenge rounds at Manheim.

For Fox-Hunting Pack Transatlantic Hop

Baltimore, Aug. 15 (AP)—Fox-hunting men are used to hurdles, but Harvey S. Ladew's proposed transatlantic fox-hunting jump will probably set some sort of record in the sport.

Ladew, former master of the Elkridge-Harford Hunt, will hunt with that pack Friday, board the Yankee Clipper Saturday morning, fly to England and hunt with a British pack in the shires on Monday.

Hamlin Wins As Dodgers Rout Giants, 8-5

11,599 See Brooklyn Pile Up Eight Runs in First Three Innings

Brooklyn, Aug. 15.—Luke Hamlin gained his fourteenth victory of the season today as the Brooklyn Dodgers piled up eight runs in the first three innings and coasted to an 8-5 victory over the New York Giants.

The Dodgers, performing before 11,599 fans, knocked Harry Gumbert out of the box in the first, contiued to pound Jim Lynn, his relief, and wound up with six runs. They made one each in the next two off Walter Brown.

The best the Giants could do was a three-run outburst in the second, when they combined five hits to good advantage.

Ehringer Chosen York Assistant

Charlotte Hall, Md., Aug. 15.—Shel Ehringer, football mentor at Charlotte Hall Military Academy, has been chosen to coach the ends of the William Penn High School, York, Pa., for the first two weeks of their preseason training grind.

Ehringer, who will call out his Cadet squad for the first drill on September 14, has been selected for the York spot by Snaps Emanuel, well known Pennsylvania coach, who is taking the helm at York for the first time this season. Ehringer played under Emanuel at Altoona (Pa.) High School in 1931-32-33, later starring at Millerville (Pa.) Teachers College.

Phils Defeat Bees, 4-3, by Rally in 8th

Fette Gives Only 6 Hits, but Loses Spectacular Contest

By the Associated Press

Boston, Aug. 15.—Beaten ten times during their last road trip by a one-run margin, the Boston Bees returned home today only to be nipped by the Phillies for another disheartening defeat, 4 to 3.

It was the Bees' twenty-ninth loss by that one-run margin this season, and came despite six-hit pitching by Lou Fette. Until the eighth inning, Fette had given up only two hits, but the Phillies pushed over three runs in that frame to come from behind and win.

Hughes started the winning rally by beating out a bunt, and Pinch-hitter Mueller walked. Pitcher Walter Beck, who gave up only eight hits himself, fouled out while attempting to bunt, but another pinch hitter, Gil Brack, doubled over third base to score both runners. Brack tallied a moment later on Arnovich's single to left with what proved to be the winning run.

Pepco Beats Naval Air, 5-3, Wins Crown

Home Run in Fourth Inning With Bases Loaded Brings Title

A home run that came in the fourth inning after the generous pitching of Naval Air Station's Lefty Ban Holzer had filled the bases yesterday gave Pepco the game and the championship of the Government Sandlot Baseball League on the East Ellipse before some 1,800 sweltering fans. The score was 5 to 3.

With only one man out and three men on base, put there by walks which Ban Holzer issued, Centerfielder Eddie Fitz-Patrick stepped up to the plate and welcomed Relief Pitcher Reb Garrison into the game by hitting the first ball into the never-never lands beyond centerfield on the Ellipse diamond.

Ban Holzer had wilted badly under the blazing sun, and Garrison, who pitched Naval Air to victory Monday, was rushed in in an attempt to pull the game out of the fire. Pepco had seen the bases filled twice in the first inning with no score, however, and were not to be stopped.

Bad Base Running

But for some bad base running on the part of Pepco players, the score might have been more disastrous for Naval Air. In the second inning, First Baseman Jim Roach allowed himself to be caught in a trap off first. Virtually the entire Naval Air nine took part in the putout. In the next inning, Frank Tonker started for home from second base on Jitch Joe Varvey's long fly to centerfield, where Sandy Korab took it for the putout and then threw Tonker out at second. A similar occurrence came in the eighth when Roach left second on a long fly to leftfield and was doubled out.

After allowing five hits and three runs in the first three innings, Garvey settled down and struck out nine men in the next five innings, while allowing only three hits. Twelve Naval Air batters were fanned by Pepco's stocky right-hander.

"Rubber Game" of Series

The occasion was the "rubber" game between Pepco and Naval Air. They played a 3-3 tie Friday; Pepco won, 4 to 3, Saturday, in 11 innings, and Naval Air evened the series with Monday's victory.

It looked like another Naval Air day yesterday as the first two men at bat in the last half of the first inning scored. Joe Gilfoil slammed out a double to lead off, and then Joe King stepped up and hit a powerful home run over the head of Centerfielder Fitzpatrick.

Pepco came back in the third inning with one run when Fitzpatrick took first when hit by a pitched ball, went to second when Cleo Chumbris walked, and came home on Catcher Joe Keegin's single to left field. Naval Air retaliated with another run in their half of the inning. King doubled to Chumbris in right field and scored when George Segner fouled out to Chumbris and his throw home was wild.

Buck Newsom Wins 14th for Detroit, 12-3

Rookie McCoy Drives In Six Runs as Tigers Turn Back Cleveland

By the Associated Press

Detroit, Aug. 15.—Buck Newsom, allowing three hits, and Rookie Benny McCoy, driving home six runs, colloborated today to whip the Cleveland Indians, 12 to 3, and give Detroit the series, two games to one.

Notching his fourteenth victory of the season, Newsom hurled brilliantly. With the help of star catches in the outfield by Barney McCosky and arl Averill, the veteran right-hander retired the side in order in seven innings.

Cleveland's three runs were the result of Hal Trosky's sixteenth homer, his second in two days, in the second inning, and Ken Keltner's eleventh two-bagger, also the second in two days, with one on in the eighth.

Three D. C. Women Advance in Golf Play at Shawnee

Special Dispatch to The Post

Shawnee-on-Delaware, Pa., Aug. 15.—Three Washington golfers today advanced into the second round of the Shawnee Women's Golf Tournament championship. Mrs. Betty Meckley, the medalist, took the measure of Alice Pearson, of Echo Lake, Pa., 7 and 6.

MRS. HILL

Mrs. Bishop Hill won from Mrs. S. Schaffer, of Montclair, N. J., 8 and 6, and Mrs. R. C. Mitchell won from Mrs. J. Feinstein, of Lake Hopatcong, N. J., 1 up.

Mrs. Meckley, who led the field yesterday with an 80, played equally well today. She was out in 43 to be 3 up and really put the pressure on during the homeward journey, touring the back nine in 37 shots.

Mrs. Mitchell played fine golf in eliminating Mrs. Feinstein, getting a great 3 on the eighteenth to win the verdict. Mrs. Hill was back on her game today and out in 42 to be 5 up and played the next three holes in 1 under perfect figures to close out the match.

Tomorrow Mrs. Hill meets Mary Gumser, of New York, while Mrs. Meckley takes on Mrs. Mitchell.

Cubs Buy Outfielder From San Diego Club

Chicago, Aug. 15 (AP).—The Chicago Cubs announced today the purchase of Dominic Dallessandro, outfielder with San Diego of the Pacific Coast League, for an undisclosed sum of cash and two players to be named later.

Charles Drake, assistant to Owner P. K. Wrigley, said the 25-year-old Dallessandro was built along the lines of Hack Wilson, a former Cub slugger, and had been setting the league batting pace with a mark of .378, according to recent averages.

U. S. Team Beaten

Havana, Aug. 15 (AP).—Although Fred Webb, lefthander of the American team, pitched a superb game, allowing only three hits, Nicaragua defeated the United States, 2-0 today in the third game of the world's amateur baseball series at Tropical Stadium.

It was the second defeat for the United States in as many games. They lost to Cuba, 13-3, Sunday.

On the Line

With CONSIDINE

New York, Aug. 15.—Perhaps the greatest public demonstration of the art of self-defense will be staged tomorrow afternoon at—ironically enough—the court of peace, at the New York World Fair. About $25,000,000 worth of former and current boxing champions will be on hand, and the principle demonstration of fighting, as an art, will be offered by the new light-heavyweight champion, Billy Conn.

CONSIDINE

Among the faculty present will be former heavyweight champions Jack Dempsey, Gene Tunney and Jim Braddock; former light-heavy champions, Philadelphia Jack O'Brien, Tommy Loughran, Paul Berlenbach, Melio Bettina and Bob Olin; middleweight champion Fred Apostoli and former champions Ben Jeby and Vince Dundee; welterweight champion Henry Armstrong and former champion Barney Ross; former lightweight champions Benny Leonard, Tony Canzoneri, Lou Ambers and Al Singer; featherweight champion Joey Archibald and former champion Johnny Dundee; former bantam cnampions Abe Attell, Joe Lynch and Henry Jeffra, the former flyweight champion Frankie Genaro.

Also present will be the veteran reporter-sportsman-businessman Jack Skelly, of Peekskill, N. Y., who is still hale and hearty though he is the only surviving member of boxing's first carnival of champions.

The famed carnival was in New Orleans in SSeptember of 1892. On September 8, Jack McAuliffle beat Billy Myers for the lightweight title. On the sixth Skelly was beaten for the featherweight crown by the great George Dixon. On the seventh Jim Corbett knocked out John L. Sullivan for the heavyweight title.

Notes so hot: President Roosevelt is sending letters to all those who aided the sports end of last winter's drive for infantile paralysis funds . . . The first football double-header of its kind will be staged October 7 in Washington when Georgetown meets Roanoke and George Washington plays Davis and Elkins on the same afternoon at the same stadium for the same admission price . . . Jack Dempsey pays Joe Lous a nice compliment in Look this week . . . He says that the fighter to beat Louis should be 6 foot 3, wegh 210, have Fitzsimmons' left, Jack Johnson's defense, Tunney's physical fitness, Jeffries' stamina, Kid McCoy's trickiness, Jim Corbett's speed and Georges Carpentier's right . . . A cynical glance at Louis' record also might reveal that the fighter to beat him would be an aging German, with a lousy left, a record of having been knocked out by a fighter named Gypsy Daniels and of having won the heavyweight title while sitting on the floor, aside from being possessed of a good serviceable right, a stout heart, luck, and a contempt for the rules . . . That was Max Schmeling.

Freshest (and greatest) rookie of the year is Ted Williams, of the Red Sox. He has come in for considerable riding from the bench jockeys, but he has indicated that he can give it as well as take it. He calls Joe Cronin, his boss, "Sport" and is equally flip with other oldsters. Recently, in a game against the Tigers, the count on him was three balls and no strikes. And Rudy York, behind the plate, said, "Well, I guess you're so smart you'll hit this next one, huh?"

"Okay, I will," Williams shrugged, as the "cripple" came over the plate, and he hit a triple to right center off a pitch at which no sane hitter would think of offering.

Roosevelt's Edict Upsets Terp Dates

Maryland Officials Put 'Stop Order' on All Ticket Printing

By the Associated Press

President Roosevelt's precedent-setting advancement of Thanksgiving Day to November 23 scrambled the University of Maryland football schedule yesterday.

The Terps had booked Washington and Lee for a game on November 30, which President Roosevelt says won't be Thanksgiving after all. If the Old Line eleven has to play the Virginians on November 23, it leaves them only two days to ready and rest for the strong Syracuse team, billed for a November 25 contest.

Maryland athletic officials yesterday put a "stop" order on all ticket and program printing, and moved to rearrange the schedule to conform to Roosevelt Turkey Day.

The university hopes to move the Washington and Lee game to December 2, a Saturday spot, and bring Syracuse un to November 23 from November 25.

If the proposed unscrambling can be effected, Syracuse will play the Terps in Baltimore stadium, and the Washington and Lee game, originally scheduled for Baltimore, will go to College Park.

Navy never plays a game on Thanksgiving, and none of the other State schools except Washington College has a game billed for the holiday. The Chestertowners have not decided on their move to conform to the new holiday.

Al Mancini On Ring Card Here Monday

Fights Pablo Danno In Special 8-Rounder Before Gallagher Go

To relieve what monotony may occur when Marty Gallagher, pride of Foggy Bottom, and Jim Robinson, of Philadelphia, meet at Griffith Stadium Monday night in the headline match of a heavyweight card, Matchmaker Goldie Ahearn yesterday announced that Al Mancini, well known featherweight, will appear on the program.

Mancini, who defeated Sixto Escobar, the world's bantamweight champion, here last December, will meet Pablo Danno, Filipino fighter, in special eight-round bout preceding the ten-round feature.

At the same time, Ahearn announced that Maynard Daniels, the young Marine heavyweight who knocked out Baltimore's Jake Friedman here on the Mann-Dudas card, will return to meet Ralph Ivans. Jim Braddock's protege, who won a technical knockout victory on the same card.

Two other heavyweight matches will be included on the night's program, Ahearn said. Mancini, who hails from Providence, has won his last five matches here. He recently lost a decision to Harry Jeffra, who fights Joey Archibald here in September for the featherweight title, in Baltimore.

Seeks Game

The Petworth baseball club is seeking to schedule a double-header with an out of town team for Sunday. Challengers call Robert J. Wheaton, of 416 Delafield place northwest, manager of the Petworth A. C.

Tigers Recall Catcher

Detroit, Aug. 15 (AP).—The Detroit Baseball Club announced today that Edward (Dixie) Parsons, catcher for Toledo in the American Association, had been recalled. He will join the Tigers in Chicago Wednesday for the start of a three-game series with the Chicago White Sox.

D. C. Legion Nine Beaten By Charlotte

Sergt. Jasper Post Eliminated, 4-1, In U. S. Tournament

By the Associated Press

Belmont, N. J., Aug. 15.—Charlotte defeated Washington, 4 to 1, today and won the ninth region championship of the American Legion's junior baseball tournament.

Teams representing Medford, Mass.; Detroit, Passaic, N. J., and Charlotte will draw tomorrow night for pairings in sectional eliminations to start Thursday in Charlotte.

Charlotte's Joe Moody pitched an eight-hit game while Washington's Billy Fisher held the Charlotteans to seven hits. Three of the winners' runs came on a first-inning splurge.

Washington's run came in the first inning after Charlotte's catcher, Erwin, threw wild to second in an effort to catch Lagos trying to steal. Lagos, first baseman, got on on a scratch hit down third base line after Fenton, leadoff batter, walked and was sacrificed to second by Raba, and Martin had popped out.

Eltonhead Runs Second, Notoriety 3d

Johnny Shanks Rides Sixth Victor of Meet In Opener; Double Pays Backers $58.80

Special Dispatch to The Post

Cumberland, Md., Aug. 15.—Staging a sensational rush through the homestretch, Flagetta, owned by Miss Bee Faulconer, of Virginia, got up in the final stride to nose out Joe Mooney's Eltonhead, early pacemaker and favorite with the crowd of 10,000 in the five-eighths mile feature sprint here today.

SHANKS

Eltonhead flattered his backers by running into a comfortable early lead. Flagetta, once she settled in her stride, came with a rush and copped the spoils in the final jump. She paid $74.10. J. W. Etheridge's Notoriety showed a game effort to take third money from the five other starters.

The time, while the fastest of the meeting, was still a second below the sensational mark posted last year by Washoe Valley.

Johnny Shanks, Washington veteran, rode his sixth victor when he snared the opener with Mrs. Gordon H. Pearce's Canwyn. When Mrs. A. M. Cail's Waugh Scout won the second race, it enabled those fans coupling the two winners in the daily double to collect $58.80.

A new all-time attendance and wagering record are looked for Thursday when the Harry A. Manley Handicap, richest race run yearly on a State track of less than a mile, is programmed. The Manley will head an all-star eight-race card.

200 Plebes Report at Navy

200 Others Will Report At Later Date

Varsity Grid Squad Reach Annapolis On Destroyer; Begin Shore Leave Today

Special Dispatch to The Post

Annapolis, Md., Aug. 15.—Only the number of shorts and football shoes on hand seemed to limit the size of the plebe squad at the Navy, which reported to Coach Johnny Wilson this afternoon.

Over 200 were fitted out for the first day and the supply department kept at work, the estimate being that nearly 400, or about half of the new class, would report for football before the lists have closed. Later, of course, the squad will be cut, most of the players being turned over to the inter-mural teams.

Other events which marked the official start of Navy football for 1939, were the arrival of the members of the varsity squad of the first and third classes, who reached here on a destroyer from Norfolk this evening and, joined by the second classmen who remained here during the summer, will go on leave tomorrow.

Leave for the varsity men started a day earlier than expected, and the players will report at Annapolis on September 8, when the seniors will start practice. Al Bergner, massive tackle, who will captain the team this season, and who injured his knee while wrestling on the cruise, will go with the rest, and expects to be in shape for the start of practice.

With the report of Huge (Fid) Murray, captain and end of the Navy 1933 team, and Walter Baumberger, back on the same eleven, today, the coaching staff became complete.

59 Yearlings Sold at Spa For $110,750

Spirited Bidding Lacking as Virginia Racers Are Sold

By the Associated Press

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., Aug. 15. Spirited bidding was lacking as 59 head of racing stock from Willis Sharpe Kilmer's Court Manor Stud in Virginia, and Henry H. Knight's Almahurst Farm, Kentucky, were sold for $110,750 at the Saratoga yearling sales.

Kilmer's consignment of 43 head went under the hammer for $72,300, an average of $1,681, considerably under the prices his stock usually brings. Last year he averaged $2,333 a head. Knight averaged $2,403 for his shipment of 16 yearlings, which sold for a total of $38,450.

Highest bid of the night was $8,000 with which Donald P. Ross, of Wilmington, Del., Brandywine Stable owner, bought a dark bay colt by Gino, imported stallion, out of Sun-Dancer, from the Kilmer consignment.

E. F. Woodward's Valdina farm paid $6,500 for a brown colt by Sun Briar—Rivalry, brother to Valdina Bess, juvenile winner in this year's campaigning. This sale also was out of the Kilmer lot.

Cleveland Putnam, of Reno, Nev., gave the top price in the bidding for the Almahurst consignment. He went to $6,300 for a brown colt by Ladysman—Assembly. Putnam also bought several others by Ladysman, a stallion he once acquired out of the Shoshone Stud and then leased to Knight.

Mrs. Ethel V. Mars, of Chicago, less active in the bidding than in recent years, added three yearlings to her stock for a total of $13,200.

Hennemier New W.-L. Assistant

Lexington, Va., Aug. 15 (AP).—Warren E. (Tex) Tilson, head football coach at Washington and Lee, announced tonight the appointment of Jack Hennemier, former star center at Duke, to the Generals' coaching staff.

Hennemier's appointment, Tilson said, was made by a joint committee composed of the athletic council and the faculty athletic committee, as stipulated by the board of trustees in June of this year. Hennemier will report at Lexington August 30.

Tilson said Hennemier's appointment will fit him into a new coaching staff scheme to be inaugurated at Washington and Lee this fall.

George Botts, Of Arlington, Wins Net Title

New Singles Champ Pairs With McCandlish To Take Doubles

Special Dispatch to The Post

Purcellville, Va., Aug. 15.—George Botts, of Arlington, Va., and a former member of the University of Michigan Tennis Club, and Shields McCandlish, of Fairfax, Va., carried home the two tennis trophies from the Northern Virginia tennis tournament which came to a close today at the Loudoun Golf and Country Club. Botts won the final match in the singles when he defeated Douglas Thomas, of Martinsburg, W. Va., in a three-set match which lasted 2 hours. The scores were 6—1, 1—6, 9—7. Botts won a leg on the H. C. Thompson Silver Cup.

Botts and McCandlish, playing in the doubles, captured a leg on the T. B. Glascock Trophy when they defeated D. Thomas and George Dunham, of Martinsburg, W. Va., in a fast match, 6—2, 6—0.

in Pikesville and Baltimore C. C., respectively.

The stars are nearly all paired in consecutive threesomes in midmorning. Six-time Champion Mrs. Glenna Collett Vare, Jean Bauer and Fay Crocker, South American entry from Montevideo, Uhuguay, are partners. Dorothy Traung, Mrs. Charles Newbold and Janes Cothran follow.

Potential Champs

A trio of potential champions, Maureen Orcutt, Kathryn Hemphill and Beatrice Barrett are partners, while former Champion Pam Barton, also current British titleholder from London, draws Betty Jameson and Elizabeth Hicks as qualifiers.

The 1937 champion and runnerup last year, Mrs. Estelle Lawson Page, is paired with Marion Miley and Evelyn Marvin, of Rio de Janerio, who played in several Maryland turneys last year. Mrs. Dan Chandler, Dorothy Kirby and Charlotte Glutting are all in with the "name" stars. The field also includes Mrs. Horton Smith.

The six players represent the District's strongest entry in a Women's National. Helen Dettweiler, now in the pro ranks, qualified three years running, but, excepting the Congressional star and Mrs. Davy, the city has had only two other qualifiers in recent years, Mrs. Betty Meckley in 1932 and Winifred Faunce two years later.

Thousands of Doves

Hagerstown, Aug. 15.—Thousands of doves, more than have been seen here in many years, have descended upon Washington County, and hunters are looking forward to the best hunting in many years, provided the weather remains warm until the opening of the season September 1. Cool weather sends doves south early.

Three Clubs In Regatta Next Sunday

Potomac Club Prepares For Four Events At Old Dominion

Members of the Potomac Boat Club are in preparation this week for the regatta Sunday at the Old Dominion Boat Club which will send them into competition with three other teams. Virginia Boat Club of Richmond and Arundel Boat Club of Baltimore in addition to the hosts.

Four events are on the program—the feature eight-oared race and single scull, double scull, quadruple scull and four-oared gig.

Potomac's representatives will be chosen from among George Coiner, James Burch, jr., Dave Knox, William Belt, Mike Roluhoff, Paul Lanigan, Bob Duncan, Granville Gude, Edmund Mason, Norman Marden, Ernie Miller, Bill Stewart, Theodore Dominick and Vincent Gallagher.

Gallagher was a member of the 1920 Navy team which scored a victory in the Olympics, while Dominick is a former Yale rowing star.

Farnsworth Wins Feature

By the Associated Press.

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., Aug. 15.—Bill Farnsworth, just about the most consistent class "C" performer in training, turned in another meritorious effort here today when he won the Luzerne Handicap for his third straight success and seventh in 11 starts this year. The Mrs. G. C. Winfrey 6-year-old drove up in the last sixteenth to collar W. F. Morgan's The Fighter and drew away by three-quarters of a length. Mrs. Payne Whitney's Armor Bearer was beaten two lengths for the place.

The race was marred by a mishap at the start. Indian Lodge stumbled badly and tossed Johnny Longden out of the saddle, at the same time impeding Opera Hat to such an extent that the latter's chances were ruined. Longden escaped injury. Opera Hat galloped after the field, but he might as well have been left at the post.

Bill Farnsworth was the first successful choice in five races, paying 9 to 5. He stepped the six furlongs in 1:11 1-5 under topweight of 123 pounds, which included Leon (Buddy) Haas.

Man of the Month

By Walter Johnson.

(Following each game by The Washington Club, Walter Johnson distributes among the Nats ten points of merit, based on their performances for the day. At the end of each month, the Washington player boasting the greatest number of points is designated as the Nats' "Man of the Month" and receives a trophy from The Washington Post.)

Four Nats figure in Man of the Month awards on the basis of yesterday's game at Yankee Stadium, with Bobby Estalella, Charley Gelbert and Ken Chase sharing the chief awards. Points were distributed as follows:

To Estalella, three pointe, becuase he made two of the Nats' three hits and drove in one of their two runs with his fourth inning double.

To Gelbert, three oints, because he sent the Nats into a 2-to-1 lead in the seventh inning with his home run off Gomez.

To Chase, three points, because he held the Yankees to four hits and two runs before losing in the tenth inning.

Buddy Lewis	20	Mickey Vernon	6
Jimmy Bloodworth	19	Angelo Guiliani	5
Dutch Leonard	11	Alex Alexandra	4
George Case	13	Charley Gelbert	7
Sammy West	8	Joe Kraskauskas	3

On Fishing

The Board of Governors for the International Tuna Tournament, to be held September 6, 7, 8 and 9 at Wedgeport, Nova Scotia, announced last week the make-up of the United States team, which will fish against anglers representing France, Britain, Cubt and Belgium.

ACKERMAN

The nominations were the result of nationwide poll of outdoor writers. Selected were B. D. Crowninshield, Boston, Mass.; George C. Thomas III, Beverly Hills, Calif.; J. Lakin Baldridge, Ithaca, N. Y.; Robert Montgomery, Rio Hondo, Tex.; W. Goadby Lawrence, Fairhaven, N. J., and John Manning, Los Angeles, Calif.

Crowningshield was the only Angler of our personal seltction to place, and as captain of the team. Knowing he had no intention of engaging in competitive fishing this year, we nevertheless selected Paul Townsend for this important post, feeling tha this knowledge of big game fish and his ability with a rod rates on any American team.

Lawrence, as well as Crowningshield, will be returning to the competitive tuna fishing for the third straight year. Another member comes back for his second consecutive year, and for the fourth, it will be his second international contest after a year's layoff. It is felt by well-informed sources that the regular squad of Crowningshield, Baldridge, Thomas and Lawrence with the two new-comers to the matches, Manning and Montgomery, will present a formidable front to the sternest opposition gathered since the inception of the tournament for the coveted Alton B. Sharp Trophy.

Every man on the squad has giant tuna fishing experience and plenty of it, a considerable portion of it gained in Nova Scotian waters. Even now they are getting in practice licks at every opportunity. Crowningshield, holder of the United States Costal tuna record, fishing almost daily for the bluefins in New England waters.—Lawrence just as persistently off the New Jersey coast—and Manning, who established a real record at Wedgeport last season, has been on the grounds since early in July and has ten tuna to his credit—the largest weighing 740 pounds. Thomas is concentrating on marlin and broadbill at Catalina, while Montgomery, who makes all his own rods, gets his practice on marlin in Gulf waters, and Baldridge is just back from Bimini and a long session with big tuna and marlin.

There are a number of interesting "firsts' in the French team, which will arrive here late in Augus atnd entrain immediately for the north. It is the first team of anglers to represent the Tricolor abroad, or ever to represnet France anywhere, for it is the first time angling for giant tuna has been recognized as a major sport. It is interesting, with all the unrest abroad, that a team of four sportsmen, who have never seen the waters they are to fish an dwho face the sternest sort of opposition should journey across 3,000 miles of water for the sake of crossing rods with sportsmen from other countries.

Not that the Frenchmen won't give a good account of themselves. They will, for though we have never considered them a nation of big game anglers, there are a hundred or more sportsmen in the Republic who have had considerable experience on tuna, both in the Mediterranean, where scientists believe the fish originated, and off the English coast where tuna abound in July and August and where the hardships of angling for them are unbelievable when compared to our waters—and even the Wedgeport tiderips.

The Frenchmen will be equipped with the finest American tackle and they will be fishing under the coaching of one of our outstanding salt water guides, appointed by the board of governors just for that purpose.

Defending Champs In Net Tourney

Defending champions in the District and Federal Government employes tennis tournament, opening Saturday at Potomac Park courts, face an unusually strong field, Tournament Chairman Felix Silva said last night.

Alphonso Smith, with a fine record for the season, will be a newcomer entry to singles and also may compete in the doubles. Allie Ritzenberg, defending singles champion, was seeded behind Smith in the Middle Atlantic State championships.

Should Smith team with Ralph McElvenny, for three years a coholder of the District title with Barney Welsh, as he plans, they would probably be favorites over George Herbert and John Smith, defending doubles champions. Entries close at 6 p. m. tomorrow.

Mrs. McNutt And Daughter Back in Capital

Join Administrator In His Apartment At Shoreham Hotel

The Federal Security Administrator, Paul V. McNutt, has been joined at his apartment at the Shoreham by Mrs. McNutt and their daughter, Louise, who arrived in Washington Monday.

Mrs. McNutt reports that "we've come to stay this time." She and Miss McNutt have been spending most of their time since their return from the Philippines in Indianapolis, with only short visits to Washington.

Officially the McNutts won't set up housekeeping until next week when their dishes and silver arrive from their house in Indianapolis.

Miss McNutt will return to Indiana about September 8, when she will go to Bloomington to enter Indiana University, the alma mater of her father.

School won't begin until about the middle of September, but Miss McNutt will be active in the sorority "rush week" activities prior to the school term. She already has received a number of invitations to sorority functions, but, of course, it is much too early for her to predict which of the university sororities she will choose to join.

Girls frequently choose the sororities of which their mothers were members, but since Mrs. McNutt attended a finishing school, where there were no sororities, there is no clue as to Miss McNutt's preference.

Although she isn't sure that she will have time to spend all her vacations in Washington, Miss McNutt is planning to return to Washington during the Christmas season. At Thanksgivingtime the Federal Security Administrator and Mrs. McNutt probably will join her in Indianapolis.

Miss McNutt hasn't made up her mind yet exactly what she is going to specialize in at college, but she plans to take the Liberal Arts course, which will give her a background for a more specialized course if she desires it later.

At present Miss McNutt is learning to play golf, and is particularly interested in swimming and badminton. She intends, too, to resume her piano studies.

Patricia Hill To Make Bow

Miss Patricia Uline Hill, whose mother, Mrs. Uline Hill, will present her to Washington society in the Christmas season, undoubtedly will be well to the fore in the run-off for "Glamour Deb" of 1939-40. Black-haired, blue-eyed and gay, Miss Hill has far more than just looks to her credit.

Not only is she an accomplished swimmer and equestrienne, but an artist of merit as well. While a student at the University of Toledo, where she formerly made her home, she won two scholarships at the Art Museum of Toledo, and has had several canvases hung at exhibitions there.

Last year she attended Goucher College and exhibited more of her oil portrait work at that school. This fall she plans to attend college again, continue her art work and make her debut in the holiday season, probably at the Congressional Country Club.

Miss Hill, who is a granddaughter of M. J. Uline, is a direct descendant of Aaron Burr and of Roger Clapp, Colonial Governor of Massachusetts and captain of the harbor at that port.

Miss Hill will leave Washington on Friday and with her mother will spend the week-end in New York, visiting the World's Fair and Miss Hill's grandfather, William Burr Hill. They will then go on to West Point for a brief visit before returning to town. After a few days here, they will leave for Richmond to be guests of Lee Poates on a yachting trip. They will return to Washington around the first of September.

Jean de Sibours Will Leave Soon On Vacation Trip

Mr. and Mrs. Jean de Sibour will leave shortly for a vacation which will last until after Labor Day. They will visit the New York World's Fair and then motor to stay with Mrs. Reverdy Wadsworth, daughter of Mrs. Henry Latrobe Roosevelt, at her home in Geneseo, N. Y. Later they will visit Mrs. Francis P. Garvan in the Adirondacks before returning. Mrs. Garvan is the former Miss Hope Jackson, sister of Mrs. Forbes Morgan, of New York, and the daughter of Robert Jackson.

During their absence, Mrs. de Sibour's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Prochnik, will occupy their home near McLean, Va.

Secretary Ickes Ends Vacation

The Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes, accompanied by Mrs. Ickes, returned late last week, from a brief vacation.

They have been spending some time at a lodge near Marion, Va., but expect to be at their Maryland estate, Headwaters Farm, near Olney, for an indefinite period.

Cotton Sales To Britain Hit Sixty-Year Low

Exports to Germany France and Belgium Reduced by Half

By the Associated Press.

The Commerce Department reported yesterday that a shrinkage in shipments to the United Kingdom depressed cotton exports for the 1938-39 cotton season to the lowest level in the past 60 years.

Exports for the season (August through July) totaled 3,327,000 bales valued at $170,682,000 compared with 8,598,000 bales valued at $306,585,000 in the previous season, a decline of 40.6 per cent in quantity and 44.3 per cent in value.

"The principal factor in the sharp decline in cotton exports to the lowest figure in the past 60 years was the drop in shipments to the United Kingdom by 1,151,000 bales or 74 per cent from the shipments in the preceding season," the report said.

July Exports

July cotton exports from the United States totaled 107,000 bales valued at $5,718,000 compared with 114,000 bales valued at $5,945,000 in June and 196,000 bales valued at $10,141,000 in June, 1938, an analysis of the export statistics showed.

Cotton shipments to France, Germany and Belgium for the 1938-39 season were less than half the totals for the previous season, while exports to Poland and the Netherlands were substantially lower.

Higher figures for Japan, Sweden and China as well as some other countries were not sufficient to offset reductions.

Exports to Spain which had practically ceased following the 1935-36 season were resumed last season on a small scale. Exports to China were at highest levels since 1934-35.

Suspended Dutch Bank Has Large N. Y. Creditors

Amsterdam, Aug. 15 (AP).—American dollar creditors of the suspended banking house of Mendelssohn & Co. include the New York Trust Co., $8,000,000; the Manufacturers Trust Co., $4,000,000; the Chemical Bank & Trust Co., $2,000,000, and the Chase National Bank, $1,000,000, it was disclosed today.

New York, Aug. 15 (AP).—Loans which had been made by New York banks to Mendelssohn & Co. were in all cases fully secured by Stock Exchange collateral, it was said at the various banks today. While the amounts in the list of creditors given out at Amsterdam were as of last Friday, when the bank suspended, it was understood they since had been reduced in many cases.

Although the New York Trust Co. appears as the largest creditor, the entire sum was not advanced by that bank alone. It headed a syndicate of seven banks, six of which are located in other cities.

The indebtedness to the New York Trust Co., it was learned, had been reduced to $3,000,000 and that to the Manufacturers Trust Co. to $660,000.

Chain Store Sales Continue Gains

New York, Aug. 15.—The business of the chain stores in July showed substantial improvement all along the line, as compared with both June this year and July a year ago, Chain Store Age says today.

The composite index of chain store sales in July advanced to 112.0 of the 1929-1931 average for the month taken as 100, from 111.0 in June. The index in July, 1938, was 108.0.

Com. Edison Orders 5,800 Tons of Steel

Pittsburgh, Aug. 15 (AP).—The Blaw-Knox Co. announced today it had received an order from Commonwealth Edison Co. for 500 transmission towers involving approximately 5,800 tons of steel.

The towers will be used to extend Commonwealth's service between Powerton and Crawford, Ill., a distance of about 130 miles.

Cotton Consumption

The Census Bureau reported yesterday that cotton consumed during July totaled 521,405 bales of lint and 74,032 of linters, compared with 578,448 and 71,655 during June this year, and 448,453 and 61,559 during July last year.

Cotton Carry-Over Largest on Record

By the Associated Press.

The Census Bureau reported yesterday that the cotton carry-over at the beginning of the cotton year of 1939-1940, on August 1, was 13,032,611 running bales—the largest quantity of cotton held at this time of the year in the history of Government statistics. A cotton crop of 11,412,000 bales this year was forecast earlier this month by the Agriculture Department. That will be added to the carry-over to make up the year's supply. There was a carry-over of 11,533,439 bales a year ago and 4,498,843 bales two years ago. The average carry-over for the ten years, 1929-38, was 6,744,800 bales.

Selling Offsets 50-Cent Rise in Cotton Futures

New York, Aug. 15 (AP).—Early gains in the cotton futures market running to around 50 cents a bale were chopped down later today, but at the finish prices were still on a firm footing. The closing range was unchanged to 2 points higher.

Buying came principally in the form of price fixing in nearby deliveries, plus Bombay and Liverpool support in later positions. Heavy rains in Alabama, regarded as distinctly unfavorable, attracted covering. As demand persisted contracts became scarce and the market moved up. Profit-taking and renewed hedging, however, trimmed top marks.

Trading in the new contract was inaugurated today, but most traders seemed to be content to feel out the price differences.

Cottonseed Oil

The cottonseed oil futures market was favorably impressed today with Secretary of Agriculture Wallace's outline of 3 proposals to aid the oil and fat industry.

The market closed 10 to 19 points higher despite substantial setbacks when Wallace turned down an export subsidy program recently proposed.

Sales totaled 149 contracts: September, 5.30, bid; October, 5.40, bid; December, 5.56; January, 5.63, bid; March, 5.75.

Crude oil was quoted 4¼ bid in the Southeast and valley. Scattered sales were made in Texas at 4⅛ cents.

New Insurance 2.9% Over Last Year

New York, Aug. 15 (AP).—The Association of Life Insurance Presidents, representing companies issuing 82 per cent of the total life insurance in the country, reported today the issuance of new policies totaling $506,380,000 in July, a decrease of 4.2 per cent from the $528,452,000 written in July, 1938.

In the first seven months this year, new business totaled $4,336,687,000, an increase of 2.9 per cent over the $4,213,221,000 of the like 1938 period.

Western Senators Oppose Air Merger

The Civil Aeronautics Authority yesterday ordered a public hearing for December 4 on an application by United Airlines to acquire control of and merge with Western Air Express.

Several Western Senators have expressed opposition to the proposed consolidation, contending that it would be a step toward monopoly in the air transportation industry.

B. & O. Carloadings

Baltimore, Aug. 15.—Baltimore and Ohio carloadings for the week ended August 12 totaled 45,390, an increase of 8,443 over the corresponding week of last year. For the week ended August 5, the total loads were 45,575.

Freight Traffic For Half Year Shows 8% Gain

Shippers' Boards See 9.9% Increase in The Third Quarter

New York, Aug. 15.—Freight cars loaded during the first half of 1939 totaled 15,372,000, as compared with 14,232,000 in the same period last year, an increase of 8 per cent, according to the Alexander Hamilton Institute today. Loadings in the first half of this year, however, were considerably smaller than in the first six months of 1937, when 18,927,000 cars were loaded, and they were much smaller than the 25,554,000 cars loaded in the first half of the pre-depression year 1929.

The Shippers' Boards have forecast that freight car loadings during the third quarter of this year will be 9.9 per cent larger than in the same period last year. The present outlook is that the actual increase will be smaller than this estimate. Otherwise, loadings in the third quarter will be 11.9 per cent larger than in the second quarter, an increase which would be equal to that from the second to the third quarter last year. The increase last year was unusually large and it is not likely to be equaled this year.

It is apparent, however, that car loadings in the third quarter will show some expansion over the second quarter's volume and will exceed loadings in the third quarter of last year.

Fourth Quarter Drop Expected

It is probable, however, that any increase over last year in the third quarter will be offset by curtailment in the fourth quarter. Consequently, the prospect is that loadings in the last half of this year will not do more than equal loadings in the last half of last year, and may fall somewhat below the volume of a year ago.

This means that the gain over a year ago in the first half of this year will represent the entire gain for the full year. This indicates that annual car loadings in 1939 will total approximately 31,528,000, or not much over a million more than in 1938, when annual car loadings totaled 30,469,000.

It is thus evident that 1939 will represent another unfavorable year for the railroads since loadings will be only slightly higher than in 1938 and will not exceed the worst year of the depression by any great margin. In 1932, when car loadings dropped to the lowest level in the past decade, the number loaded was 28,180,000. In the pre-depression year 1929, annual loadings amounted to 52,828,000.

Silver Up Another ⅛ To 35¾ Cents

New York, Aug. 15 (AP).—A further advance of ⅛ of a cent an ounce in the price of foreign-mined silver was posted today by Handy & Harman, bullion dealers. The new quotation was 35¾ cents, making a premium of ¾ of a cent over the U. S. Treasury's price for the metal. The imported silver price went to a premium over the Treasury's last week for the first time since 1937.

The advance here has followed a rise in the London silver market, attributed in part to covering of outstanding contracts by traders who sold short during recent uncertainty over the United States' buying policy.

Daily Oil Output Drops 121,147 Barrels

Tulsa, Aug. 15 (AP).—Crude oil production in the United States declined 121,147 barrels daily to 3,554,146 for the week ended August 12, the Oil and Gas Journal said today.

Oklahoma reported an increase of 15,250 to 440,950; Eastern fields 1,600 to 97,100; Illinois 12,022 to 295,742; Michigan 1,058 to 68,895, and California 16,250 to 612,500. East Texas production was off 74,685 to 373,000, while Texas as a whole dropped 132,837 to 1,361,688. Louisiana was down 24,565 to [illegible],430; Kansas 5,175 to 1[illegible] and the Rocky Mountain area 5,380 to 81,190.

Rubber Consumption

New York, Aug. 15 (AP).—Consumption of crude rubber in the United States during July was estimated today by the Rubber Manufacturers Association at 43,880 long tons, compared with 47,259 the month before and 34,219 in the same month last year.

Stocks Rise Moderately for Third Day Reassuring Foreign News a Factor Rail and Treasury Bonds in Demand

New York, Aug. 15.—Stocks advanced a fairish amount today and it being the third consecutive advance there were those wise men of Wall street who suggested that possibly Thanksgiving Day has been moved up to August. The composite average showed an advance of 0.42 point, which was more satisfying to the trading fraternity than the relatively low activity of 658,230 shares on the big board.

Helping the advance has been the more reassuring news from abroad. Considering the fact that this is midsummer, the financial district has no complaint about the performance of busines. The upward trend, although slow, has been good for this time of year, and the thing which has kept the brakes on the market has been the fear of trouble abroad. The quieter tone of foreign dispatches has been reassuring and has accounted in large measure for the better performance of securities this week.

The Mendelssohn Failure

Within the market itself there is considerable elation in stock exchange circles that such American liquidation as had to be accomplished because of the Mendelssohn failure was accommodated on the big board. Four banks here were creditors to the extent of about $15,000,000. Their loans to the Amsterdam Bank were well covered by collateral, most of it consisting of stock exchange securities. There have been plenty of instances of recent months where large blocks of similar securities have had to be sold and the sellers found they could do better over-the-counter than on the big board. But in this case it was possible to carry out the liquidation in the ordinary manner without hawking the securities over the telephone.

Not only did the exchange have to facilitate sales of Mendelssohn collateral held by American banks, but also it had to care for sales from Swiss banks which held similar securities of the Amsterdam Bank.

In this case, therefore, the stock exchange was able to fill its justified role in finance. There have been many exchange members who, in recent months, have complained that the supervision and regulation of the SEC has made it impossible to do the best job possible for their customers on the big board, and that it was to the advantage of the customer to dicker with counter dealers.

Chrysler Leads in Activity

Chrysler was today's most active stock and closed up 1⅜ after coming within 1¼ points of its high for the year. Buying was the obvious result of the favorable earning statement issued after the close Monday and the declaration of a $1.50 dividend. Chrysler started the day with a block of 2,000 shares at 83⅜, up 1¾.

Macy was a weak feature, dropping about a point to a new low on reports that its earnings have been running under the dividend rate and that retail sales in New York have been running behind the balance of the country. The guess today was that the dividend is safe.

Merchandising stocks as a whole have had a popular following on the basis of good July reports. They did not appear to be buoyed today by the latest white rabbit from the head of the Government, namely the moving up of Thanksgiving Day by a week for the benefit of the retail trade. As many business organizations appear to have been incensed as pleased by this change and ribald comment in the financial district concerned such matters as whether, with the hobbling of Santa Claus after the last session of Congress, Christmas would be put over until after the 1940 election. There are those who would have All Fool's Day celebrated in the Nation's Capital every week or so.

Utilities Higher

Utilities moved higher along with the general market with Commonwealth & Southern issues little changed, while the ceremony of the sale of its Tennessee Valley properties to the TVA was completed in the First National Bank Building. The last session of Congress, which listened to the cries for economy in its closing hours, made the first step toward limiting governmnetal competition with the private companies by holding down expenditures for such competition, but nothing more than a start has been made. The industry must still wait for assurance that its problems will not be made a political war cry and the value of its properties will not be cut down by encroachments by subsidized plants.

Small changes ruled in commodities. Cotton closed unchanged to 2 points higher although the carryover is the largest for all time and the exports from this country are the lowest in 60 years. Wheat was unchanged to ⅜ cent a bushel lower, with trading dull.

Rail Issues Lead Bond Advance

Under the leadership of railroad obligations, both prime obligations and some of the cheaper classes, listed bonds moved higher in trading on the Stock Exchange today. Government issues were sharply stronger on the board, although late trading over the counter pared these gains somewhat. Total volume was $4,180,000, a considerable increase from Monday's turnover of $2,980,000.

The composite average of 30 bonds gained 0.23 point, with the advances of 0.52 for high-grade rails and 0.38 for the secondary issues counterbalanced to some degree by a loss of 0.18 in utilities. The industrials showed a minor rise of 0.05.

Italian Bonds Strong

In the foreign sector Italian issues were very strong, and the 7s of 1951 skipped 1¾ points. Latin-American issued showed a modicum of strength. German issues were mixed, but the Polish 8s of 1950 added 1¼.

The Baltimore & Ohio group continued strong with gains of as much as 1½ points being recorded, but Lehigh Valleys were fractionally mixed. The Lehigh Valley Coal 5s plummeted 4⅜. Nickel Plate liens were in demand, with the 4½s gaining 2½ and the 4½s 1.

Among the better grade rails, C. & O. obligations were fractionally lower, while Burlingtons advanced by small amounts. Pennsylvania obligations added up to a point, whil Great Northern bonds were lower.

Among the utilities, Telephone obligations showed a bit of hesitancy as did the power and gas issues.

Bankers to Hold Annual Moonlight Cruise Tomorrow

Washington Chapter, American Institution of Banking, will hold its annual moonlight cruise on the City of Washington steamboat of the Wilson Line, tomorrow at 8:30 p. m. Several hundred bankers will sail down the Potomac and will dance to the music of McWilliams Orchestra. Herbert D. Lawson, jr., of the Washington Loan and Trust Co., chairman of the entertainment committee, and his associates are arranging the details.

Phoenix Agents Honored

The local Phoenix Mutual Insurance office has received word that two of its agents, L. H. Riggles and E. B. Zirkle, have qualified completely for a convention of leading producers to be held at Oyster Harbors, Mass., early next month. This recognition was attained by only 56 men in the United States. Both are members of the president's field staff.

Bank Women's Convention

Keen interest is being evidenced by women bankers throughout the country in the seventeenth annual convention of the Association of Bank Women to be held in Seattle, Washington, September 21 to 24, just prior to the annual convention of the American Bankers Association for which the majority of A. B. W. members will remain in Seattle. Convention headquarters will be at the Benjamin Franklin Hotel. Miss Grace S. Stoermer, assistant vice president of the Bank of America National Trust and Savings Association, Los Angeles, Calif., is acting as general convention chairman.

Institutions Are Large Holders Of Recent Issues

New York, Aug. 15.—Figures on institutional holdings of public utility, telephone and industrial issues of bonds and notes brought out since 1935 are given in a tabulation prepared by the statistical department of Merrill, Lynch & Co., investment bankers of New York, based upon the 1939 edition of Poor's "Institutional Holdings of Securities."

One hundred and thirty-four issues were chosen from the three groups, 87 electric power and gas issues, 10 telephone issues and 37 industrial issues. Of the total of all these outstanding, $4,522,784,000, 46.3 per cent, or $2,092,705,000, were held by an average of 36.9 institutions, including insurance companies.

Of 87 bond and note issues of the electric power and gas companies brought out since 1935 and amounting to $2,765,743,000, $1,451,206,000, or 52.5 per cent, were held by institutions.

Of the 10 telephone issues, aggregating $556,194,000, institutions held $301,907,000, or 54.3 per cent.

Of the 37 industrial issues totaling $1,200,847,000, institutions held $339,592,000, or 28.3 per cent.

Wheat Prices Close Lower After Upturn

Late Weakness Is In Sympathy With ⅜-⅞ Drop in Corn

By the Associated Press.

Chicago, Aug. 15.—Wheat prices reached the best level in about two weeks today but then backed down below yesterday's close. The day's price range was only about a cent a bushel, which illustrated the narrow character of the market. Nervous fluctuations in quotations, reflecting comparatively minor transactions, resulted from the small interest in grains.

Part of the late weakness in wheat was in sympathy with a decline in corn, which some traders attributed to signs of increased offerings from the country and to uncertainty growing out of various reports concerning the handling of corn which will be defaulted on 1933 loans.

Wheat closed unchanged to ⅜ lower, compared with yesterday's finish, September, 65-64¾; December, 64⅞-¾; corn, ⅜-⅞ down; September, 42¾-⅞; December, 41¾-⅞; oats, unchanged to ¼ lower; rye, unchanged to ⅜ down; lard, 8 to 10 higher.

Selling of wheat was restricted by indications that a large volume of the new crop is being held off the market. Some hedging was in evidence but this type of trading was not of normal proportions because of the holding program. Receipts at the principal spring wheat markets continued to lag behind week ago figures, due partly to recent rainy weather and low prices.

Contract Bridge

By Florence Osborn.

Whether in championship circles or in the comparative security of home and club bridge the leading player is the one making not the most brilliant bids and plays, but the fewest number of dubs.

A hand played at the Union Club, contributed by J. H. O'C., demonstartes this point.

"The inclosed hand almost broke up a friendly game of rubber bridge. East and west were playing the Blackwood convention. I sat south and my double of six clubs was intended to indicate an opening lead. The result was better than I had hoped for. After declarer won the opening lead of the club queen with his singleton ace, he ran five hearts. North let three clubs go, hanging on to his diamonds like grim death. When the diamonds failed to break; declarer was forced to cash dummy's ace of spades and concede the last three tricks to south's king of spades and king, ten of clubs—a set of 1,600 points.

"Then the fun began. West upbraided east for his opening three bid, but I was forced to go to east's assistance because I feel that he had a perfect pre-emptive three-spade bid. West would not concede the point and east thereupon told west in no uncertain terms what he thought of west's bidding. I am inclined to agree with east, although I must confess that it takes a very tough break in diamonds to defeat seven no trump. Seven hearts is, of course, cold, but how do you get there after the opening bid of three spades?"

While the result of the hand can definitely be laid to bad breaks, at the same time west might have taken warning of uncertain distribution from east's three-spade opening. If east held a freak, it was more than likely that the balance of west's two suits would be bunched against him. Though seven hearts could be made, there was no more assurance of this contract's winning than any other.

The Federal Diary

By The Diarist

A five-day week for all Government employes and a voluntary retirement deadline at 30 years' service, regardless of age, are two of the proposals that Navy Department Lodge No. 1 is going to push at A. F. G. E. Convention in Atlantic City, the lodge announced yesterday.

Other improvements in the Government worker's lot that Navy Lodge will be working for include elimination of the "average clause" from future appropriation acts and a new law to prevent any change of duties of an employe while his present classification is pending.

The "average clause" has for 15 years stopped raises for any employe in a group where the average salary corresponds to the average for the grade in which he is classified.

The lodge is sending Michael D Schaefer, Mrs. Helen M. Voss, Patrick H. O'Dea and Mrs. Eleanor Wagner to the convention as delegates, and alternates are Charles S. Hyer, Mrs. Olive Finch, W. J. Voss and Mrs. Margaret Noyes.

Cecil Custer has Navy Lodge's indorsement for national president; Mrs. Berneice B. Heffner, for secretary; Charles T. Hoffman, for treasurer, and for vice presidents for the District, Michael D. Schaefer, G. Carroll Diamond and James G. Yaden. Custer is budget officer for the U. S. Civil Service Commission, and now holds the office of national treasurer.

George McNulty, general counsel of the wage and hour division, will address the Federal Bar Association at 12:30 today at a luncheon at the Army and Navy Club.

The plow that changed the face of the earth and the history of the Nation can now be seen any day at the Smithsonian Institution. America's first steel plowshare, forged by John Deere in 1837 at Grand Detour, Ill., was made, not from a sword, but from an old lumbermill saw, the institution recounted yesterday; explaining that the plow has just been added to the agricultural history collection.

Deere was a Vermont blacksmith who followed the pioneers West, the bulletin continued, and found they weren't making any headway against the tangled prairie grassroots with their light river-soil plows. From an old saw blade, he cut shares for three plows, and the prairie's fate was sealed.

In a short while, the manufacturing of steel plows became a major industry of the Mid-West, as more and more pioneers poured in. For a time Deere had to import his steel from England, but a plow-steel factory was soon set up in Pittsburgh. The plow at the Smithsonian is one of the three originals, and takes its place among other American plows going back as far as 1797.

The first bite of the pneumatic drills into the rock of New York's over-populated "lower East Side" was due to start clearing the ground yesterday for the latest USHA slum-clearing project, the agency announced. The walls of 91 "Old Law" tenements and ancient houses have been tumbling down for several weeks, and foundation work for the new six-story fireproof elevator apartment houses was scheduled to begin yesterday, under a $454,913 contract authorized by Nathan Straus, USH Administrator. The new project will be called "Vladeck Houses."

ADRIANA

By George Dyer

A Story of Love and Intrigue in Vineyard Sound

Although he knows next to nothing about sailing, Garret Marriner sails away from Plymouth in the yawl, Adriana, which he had inherited from his Uncle Nathan. He has no special destination and soon he is running full sail through a dense fog and tying up at a private dock on an island. Here he meets Mrs. Blake, her daughter, also named Adriana, and their two handsome Scottish deerhounds. Invited to supper by the Blakes, Garret visits their home, which is called Powder House Farm. Rather attracted to Adriana, Garret suggests that mother and daughter visit his yawl, but Mrs. Blake declines and only the girl and The MacGlashan of Rannoch accompany him. The girl, Adriana, likes the yawl, Adriana, as much as Garret does, and makes a thorough tour of inspection before settling down in the cabin for a chat.

GEORGE DYER

Chapter 4

"I CAME DOWN from Plymouth," I said, by way of starting the ball rolling, " in three days flat, and only touched bottom twice. That, whether you realize it or not, is quite a record. Especially since one place I ran aground was Barnstable, which turns out to be such an excessively sandy place that anybody might hit some of it."

I had not realized how large those blue eyes were. She murmured a polite remark to the effect that it must be a sort of a record.

"I am headed," I went on, "for Tahiti, or somewhere."

This seemed to impress her, although she didn't appear to be disappointed at the news.

"Why not?" I said. "I am an orphan, with no living relatives (now that Uncle Nathan is dead), and an income of something between five and ten thousand a year. I graduated from Princeton last June into a world where there are too many men and too few jobs. I refuse to take bread from the mouth of someone who needs it more than I, and so I have planned to go away in this boat kindly left me by Uncle Nathan. The trip will satisfy my hunger for adventure and when I get to Tahiti—or somewhere—I may settle down and write the Great American Novel. I have always wanted to write, and it's generally conceded that I'm intelligent as hell. They say Tahiti is a good place for writing."

"It's quite a long sail, isn't it?" asked the girl.

"I suppose so," I said, "but this boat is built for any weather, and I'm in no hurry. In fact, since this afternoon I've slightly changed my plans about rushing directly south. Have you ever thought of trying your hand at sailing a boat?"

"I don't quite understand," she said, hesitantly.

"I'm not surprised," I said. It was a sudden change of thought. What I'm getting at is this. I've been studying navigation for the last two evenings in those books Uncle Nathan left on board, but still I haven't really made enough progress in the subject to head out into the open sea. The chart shows that when I leave Cuttyhunk—or here—I shall be in the Atlantic Ocean. I have begun to think about staying around in this vicinity for a few days while I get some practical experience."

"Oh?" said she.

"Exactly," said I. "But the difficulty is that when I try to get some practical experience in navigation in this boat off shore, I know I shall be continually interrupted by having to sail. Do you see what I'm driving at?"

"No," said Adriana.

"MY IDEA is this," I said. "I will sign you on my yawl, 'n some humble capacity at first, but with the chance of unlimited advancement. In a couple of hours I can show you all there is to know about sailing a boat in good weather. Then you shall handle the steering so that I shan't be distracted while navigating, see? And at night I will tie my boat up to your wharf, if you and your mother don't mind."

"Oh," she said, "we wouldn't mind, but——"

"Fine!" said I. "And when I get a good grasp on navigation I might explain that to you, too, although it looks rather complicated. In the meanwhile, as I get time, I might give you a few more advanced pointers on sailing that would be useful to you if you ever happened to be left a boat like this. How does it sound? Suppose we start tomorrow?"

"Oh, I hardly think tomorrow—" she said.

"Don't make up your mind right now. Think it over."

"It's getting late in the summer," she objected (lamely, I thought). "You may not have much pleasant sailing weather left. We're due for our usual September northeaster any day. If you really intend to go south, you'd better start at once."

"I do intend to go south," I said, "but don't you agree I ought to know something about navigation before I get into the—what are they called?—the Roaring Forties?"

"You're in them here," said this remarkable girl. The latitude of our cove is just about 41° 41'. But I understand anywhere north of Hatteras may be bad at this season."

"Don't worry about me," I said. "I've done all sorts of things in my 22½ years on this great wide beautiful world, and come out of all of them alive and happy. We marriners are always rushing in where an angel would break an ankle and we're all born with a charm against drowning."

"That's lucky," said Adriana.

I said it was, indeed.

She set her empty glass down and lifted The MacGlashan's great head off her lap.

"I don't want to seem inhospitable," she said, "but you can't stay tied up to our pier tonight, you know."

'Can't I!"

"No. You happened to come alongside just before flood tide. How much do you draw?"

"We draw," I informed her, "five feet, five inches. And when I say 'we,' that includes, for the time being, You, and the MacGlashan of Rannoch."

"I'm surprised you aren't on the bottom already. There's less than four feet at the end of the pier at low tide."

We both listened and felt. The Adriana seemed to be getting a little more restless. Some ropes were slatting against the mast overhead, and the cushions I'd put out to keep her away from piles were squeaking. But there was no feeling of bumping, as at Barnstable and Onset.

"Then," I sad, "I'll move away from the wharf a short dstance and anchor. The night I spent at Barnstable was very uncomfortable. The boat leaned over so that I had to change bunks."

The girl started to say something, and then evidently changed it.

"Well," she said, "there's a mooring about a hundred yards north of the pier which you're welcome to use. The buoy is the only one out there."

"Thank you," I said, "It will save me wrestling with that anchor. My uncle was a downeast Republican, and his anchor, I really think, would hold the Queen Mary."

ADRIANA rose to her feet. Under the low roof of the cabin she looked tall until I stood up; then she looked small. The MacGlashan got up, too, and stretched himself on the berth, with a great red-and-white-and-black yawn. Being stiff with sleep, he graciously accepted help up the ladder, then took himself onto the wharf, and strolled off into the darkness toward the beach.

The girl didn't seem to enjoy it so much.

"This breeze is freshening," she announced, "and what's more, it's backing around. It's cloudy over there." She pointed to the northward, where there was an unimportant stain on the stars.

"The man at the wheel," I said, "was taught to feel contempt for the wildest blow. And it often appeared——"

"Good night," I said. "You must come with me sailing tomorrow?"

"Let's see what the weather is like. Good night."

"Good night," I said. "You must come, and I'll read you my monograph entitled 'Taken Flat Aback; or, Stop Jibing at Me.'"

"If it's nice," she answered, and I could tell I had made her smile, though I couldn't see it. In the starlight her face had the pale glow of flowering dogwood in a shadowy woods in spring. At least, that's what it reminded me of.

"There must be lots more we should get settled tonight," I pointed out. I was standing on the cabin ladder, leaning on the roof. She was leaning over the rail of the wharf.

"I don't think of a thing," she said, straightening. "Good night."

"Good night," I said.

She swung about. I followed the hollow ring of her heels on the planks and then the spark of her flash going up the path to the distant yellow windows of the house. Then I went below for a minute before doing what she'd suggested about pulling away from the wharf to her mooring. The cabin seemed smaller and at the same time less crowded than when she'd been curled up there on the berth with her beast. I didn't like it so much this way.

She had practically agreed to take a sailing lesson in the morning.

And what a lesson! But I hadn't supposed it would begin before dawn.

To Be Continued.

Miss Chatterton Scores Sound Hit at Olney

New Comedy Affords Guest Star Breezy Vehicle for Talents

By Nelson B. Bell

A capacity audience at the Olney Theater last night accorded Ruth Chatterton, guest star for the week at the "South's first professional playhouse," an enthusiastic welcome in her new comedy, "You Can't Eat Goldfish." It was the warm sort of greeting due an old friend, who is almost a "native daughter," and a lively new play, not yet seen on Broadway.

The brittle comedy-drama of the Southern California drinking and gambling set, contrived by Marcellae Burk and Gladys Unger, is a romping sort of charade that is thickly studded with laughs, occasionally indulges in situations that slightly tilt the conventional eyebrow and in the end smoothes everything out by making the divorced mother of three precocious children as much an offender against propriety and the canons of strict living as the husband she has detached for identical transgressions.

While there is much breezy diaogue in the three acts and four scenes, not all of the lines possess the sparkle of pristine wit. The pruning knife still could be used to advantage and at least two of the characters stand in need of considerable expansion to give the play full body.

The action is initiated by an unfortunate clash of events in the Flack home. The gay and charming Mrs. Flack is tossing one of her quail-and-champagne luncheons for a favored few just as the installment men arrive to remove the furniture, the gas man puts in an appearance to turn off the meter and the telephone people are disconnecting the phone. On top of all this, the cook, whose daughter is being married, quits her job because Bill Flack can only pay her back-wages with a promissory note against the lemon crop. The wine cellar is empty, an unwanted guest is invited because she will bring burgundy and finally it turns out that if the guests want any lunch at all they will have to cook it themselves.

To make the occasion complete, the small boy of the family turns up expelled from school for corrupting his classmates with gambling lore he has learned from his dad, and the two young daughters bounce back back from boarding school, marked "insufficient funds." After a little more of this, Mrs. Flack hies her to Reno and rids herself of her husband, but not her children. The great musician wishes to divorce his own wife and marry her, Bee Kingsbury-Cole sets her cap for the husband; the three kids are not quite sure what it is all about, and the family solicitor goes mildly mad trying to keep everybody concerned out of jail.

Mrs. Flack, abandoning all scruples, after her return from Reno, places herself in contempt of court in the divorce matter, bets on a race and loses the $500 her lawyer has given her to pay bills, and in the end decides that hubby was right after all.

This merry trifle is interpreted with all of her usual skill and ingenuous charm of voice annd manner by Ruth Chatterton, in the role of Ramona Flack, supported by an able cast of associate players. It is not Miss Chatterton's role that needs further tampering with, but those of Lex Lindsay, as Zakaroff, the amorous artist, and Richard Midgely, as Rogers, the gas man, who finally proposes to one of the daughters. What there is of their roles they play acceptably. Barry Thomson, opposite the star, turns in a romantically buoyant performance of the first rank, and Frank McNellis is an appropriately explosive barrister.

The three children are exceptionally well played by Master Tommy Lewis, Dorothea Eller and Shirley Poirier. Jeanette Chinley is the effective feminine menace, and Fred Sherman, Mabel Paige and William Bishop give good accounts of themselves.

Cited in Crash, Eldridge Says He Won't Quit

Charges May Be Pressed Against Assistant Traffic Director

Assistant Director of Traffic M. O. Eldridge last night denied reports he would resign if charges growing out of a recent automobile crash are pressed against him by Corporation Counsel Elwood Seal.

Papers in the case—describing an accident in which Eldridge's car allegedly struck another machine at Forty-fourth street and Cathedral avenue northwest last week—were submitted to Seal yesterday following a preliminary hearing in Police Court. The corporation counsel will announce his decision Friday whether either party involved should be prosecuted.

Reilly Recommends Trial

After the preliminary hearing behind closed doors Monday, Assistant Corporation Counsel James F. Reilly recommended Eldridge stand trial for failing to yield the right of way. His recommendation went to Seal with other papers in the case.

Two persons in the crash received minor injuries. In spite of their refusal to prosecute Eldridge, Reilly recalled a recent order by Seal requiring prosecutions in all injury accidents, whether or not the principals desire such action. Eldridge has retained Ringgold Hart as his attorney.

Involved Three Cars

The crash in which Eldridge allegedly figured occurred August 8 and involved two other cars besides his own. The traffic official was en route to his home and reportedly struck a car driven by Kathleen Duncan, 17, of Chevy Chase, Md. Her car then collided with another auto driven by Alan C. Whitlock, 17, also of Chevy Chase.

O'Conor Names Day to Road Post In Montgomery Co.

Francis O. Day, of Potomac, Md., has been named by Gov. O'Conor as supervisor of secondary roads in Montgomery County, it was announced yesterday.

In naming Day to the post, Gov. O'Conor disregarded the recommendation of the county commissioners, who had indorsed Shirley R. Hays, of Barnesville.

Day was a candidate for sheriff last fall on the ticket of the Independent Democratic Party, which supported O'Conor in the gubernatorial race. Present supervisor of county roads is Windsor Hodges, Republican, appointed by former Gov. Harry W. Nice.

A former deputy sheriff of the county, Day also has spent 16 years in construction work. He had charge of the grading and sidewalk paving on Capitol Plaza and directed the paving and grading of the Trinity College grounds and the foundation of St. Joseph's Seminary at Catholic University.
